HUNDREDS KILLED BY EARTHQUAKE IN TURKEY, REPORTS TO ANKARA SAY

Many Villages Said to Have Been Destroyed by Disturbance Centering Along Coast of Black Sea in Asia Minor.

PEOPLE ABANDON TOWNS FOR FIELDS

Shock One of Series in Country in Last Two Years — El Salvador Shaken Second Time Within Few Hours.

ANKARA, Dec. 27 (AP).—Hundreds were reported killed and whole villages destroyed in an earthquake which shook Northern Anatolia early today.

Four shocks were felt in Ankara between 2 a. m. and 5 a. m. today (between 6 p. m. and 9 p. m. St. Louis time Tuesday).

Accurate information of the damage caused was not immediately available because communications were disrupted.

Officials by late afternoon said, however, that reports indicated a major disaster.

Heavy damage was reported at Ordu, Samsun, Tokat, Amasia, Sivas and Yozgad.

Thousands were reported to have abandoned towns for the fields, fearing additional shocks.

The Government and relief agencies sent aid to the affected area, which is from 100 to 250 miles east and northeast of Ankara.

Scientists at the Neuchatel Observatory in Geneva announced that their seismograph recorded today's earthquake and said it was the most violent in 20 years.

Anatolia has been shaken by earthquakes frequently. On April 19, 1938, in this region, there began a series of shocks which lasted for more than a week and took a toll of dead and missing estimated at more than 800. Many thousands of homes were razed.

On Sept. 23, 1939, more than 200 persons were reported killed in a quake in the region about Smyrna, Turkish seaport on the west coast of Asia Minor.

The most recent quake reported in Anatolia occurred last Nov. 23, when 16 villages were destroyed in

EAST ST. LOUIS TO GET $1,926,000 SLUM LOAN

Roosevelt Approves Housing Authority Aid for Apartments for 360 Families.

A loan of $1,926,000 by the United States Housing Authority to the St. Clair County Housing Authority for erection of modern apartments to replace slum dwellings in East St. Louis was approved by President Roosevelt today.

The St. Clair authority, which had requested $2,114,000, will erect a building to accommodate 160 Negro families on the block bounded by Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets and Market and Piggott avenues, Ray F. Rucker, chairman, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Choice of a site or sites for white families remains to be made; the local agency favors a single 300-family structure at Thirty-eighth and State streets, while the County Board of Supervisors wants two separate locations for 150 families each.

Demand for 5 per cent of the rentals in lieu of taxes, by the County Board, has delayed progress of the plans. The USHA has refused to allow more than 3 per cent. Rucker said the county has agreed to accept 3 per cent, if its wishes concerning division of the white housing into two units are followed.

WOMAN WRITING BOOK ABOUT JOBS SHE FOUND IN 46 STATES

Also Plans Lecture Tour After Year in Which She Worked in All But Two Commonwealths.

TULSA, Ok., Dec. 27 (AP).—Miss Lyra Ferguson, who likes to travel between jobs, completed a tour of the 48 states yesterday and said she had worked in 46 of them since Jan. 1. She wanted to show she could get a job in every state but missed a couple in the shuffle.

The 48-year-old Reeds (Mo.) woman worked here in a filling station, and her boss said she did all right, too. She said she had a lecture tour tentatively booked. She also is writing a book about her experiences.

BRITISH PRAYERS FOR FINLAND

Archbishop of Canterbury Asks for Them Next Sunday.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP). — The Archbishop of Canterbury suggested today that all the people of Britain pray for Finland in church services next Sunday.

In a letter to the London Times, he proposed the prayers as "special remembrance of Finland and its brave people in their hour of trial."

NAZIS VIE TO CAPTURE BRITON

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—German authorities say there is such keen rivalry in the army to capture the first British soldier that even engineer and signal troops are volunteering for scout duty so as to get a chance to reach the British lines.

BOSS' MEN FORCE OUT KANSAS CITY MAYOR

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 27 (AP).—Mayor Bryce B. Smith resigned today, effective Saturday. Pendergast machine leaders broke with him and took the reins at the City Hall again.

First they appointed William Drennon, 73-year-old retired insurance executive, City Manager. Next they overrode Smith by turning down an administrative code fixing salaries for the next fiscal year and then they blocked the appointment of Jerome Walsh as City Counselor.

The Mayor's decision came after the coup by machine leaders of the City Council to prevent Walsh's appointment.

"Political Double Cross."

"When I took control of the city affairs last April 13," Smith said, "the three men most active last night in taking the city's affairs out of my hands were the first to grab my hand, shake it until it ached and to pledge their co-operation.

"Now when political expediency directs, they pull a political double cross."

He referred to three machine members of the Council—Charles H. Clark, Ruby D. Garrett and Chester Cooke, all allied with Tom Pendergast, who was sent to prison for evading income taxes.

Last night two political machines combined to elect Drennon by a 5-to-4 vote. Three councilmen of the Pendergast faction and two of Congressman Joseph Shannon's group put over Drennon.

Protest From Labor.

Forty men, most of them representing unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, appeared before the Council in opposition to appointment of Drennon.

Soon after the turn of the century, Shannon's machine clashed with the Pendergast forces, then directed by Tom's brother, Jim, to determine which should dominate. The Pendergasts won, but, needing Shannon to help to keep the Democrats on top, Ton Pendergast compromised by helping send Shannon to Washington.

After a reform movement caused the ousting of the late Henry F. McElroy from the office of City Manager, efforts were made to select a younger, outside man.

"U. S. RED NO. 2" INDICTED

Nicholas Dozenberg Accused With Browder in Passport Plot.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—Nicholas Dozenberg, described by investigators as "the second most important Communist in the United States," was indicted today by the Federal grand jury which found true bills against Earl Browder and four others, on a charge of using passports obtained through making false statements.

Burglar Tracked Down in Snow; Police Trail Footprints 12 Blocks

Three city detectives followed the trail of a burglar in the fresh snow through alleys and across yards for 12 blocks early today and caught their man when he became exhausted. He was booked as James Dickerson, an unemployed laborer.

The chase started at 2:45 o'clock after Ben Pautler, owner of the King Bee Theater, 1710 North Jefferson avenue, chased a burglar from his living quarters, above the theater, and telephoned police. Detectives Joseph O'Leary, Edward Pardyke and Charles Bergman set out on foot after picking up a trail of footprints in the airdome adjoining the theater.

Apparently hoping to stay out of sight of night riding officers, Dickerson shunned sidewalks and streets, where his tracks would have mingled with other marks and been lost. He loped through alleys and across yards, leaving a clear trail. In one block he jumped eight fences. The officers waded through the snow in his wake. They reported that they jumped 12 fences and that one fence collapsed as O'Leary scrambled over it.

The winded officers thought the chase had ended when Dickerson's trail led into the basement of his home, 2242 Madison street. But he started out again, and the pursuers marched on. The track led to a dwelling at 2216 Benton street, where there was an unlocked door. Dickerson, exhausted, was found in a chair in a third-floor room.

In a signed statement Dickerson said he broke into the theater by smashing a window, intending to open the safe.

Dickerson, 21 years old, was unarmed. Police records show he was arrested a year ago in an attempted holdup and was sentenced to four months in the workhouse on a plea of guilty to a charge of assault with intent to rob.

FOUR-INCH SNOW STALLS AUTOS, SLOWS TRAFFIC

SMOKE MIXED IN STORMY HAZE

Street Department Puts 25 Plows, 66 Trucks and 380 Men to Work — Trains on Schedules.

Traffic movement was slowed and many automobiles were stalled on home driveways today, as the city started to dig itself out of the second heavy snowfall in three days.

Between 5:12 p. m. yesterday and 6:30 o'clock this morning there was a steady fall of 4.1 inches of snow. Three hours later a fine snowy mist began falling, which turned into strong flurries by midafternoon, increasing the depth by .1 of an inch by 3 o'clock. Added to the remainder of Saturday's 5.5-inch fall, this brought the total left on the ground after melting to seven inches. It was the moist, clinging type of snow, which sculptured itself on every object it touched.

Mixed in the stormy haze this morning was a little smoke, described by the Weather Bureau as "light."

Planes Back on Schedules.

Nine air line flights in and out of Lambert-St. Louis Field were canceled prior to last midnight, but one eastbound plane came through from Kansas City. Subsequent schedules were maintained. Virtually all trains ran in and out of Union Station on time, with heavy after-Christmas passenger loads.

Thirty-two trolley sweepers ran all night on the car lines, directed by an executive staff which was up all night. Today the Public Service Co. added 24 trucks spreading gravel and six plows. The city Street Division started a few of its 25 plows in the night and by dawn had the rest of them on the job of clearing streets, together with 380 men called away from regular duties and 66 trucks hauling snow to the sewers.

A grader kept Express Highway open. Removal of each snow such as this costs the city $3000 to $5000.

City officials were of the opinion there were more cars left at the curbs than in past snowstorms and many of them seemed to have been abandoned since Saturday. Snow piled up by sweepers and plows in the streets and shovelers on the sidewalks blocked numerous cars completely.

Many Motorists Call for Aid.

For hours this morning telephone inquiries about road conditions averaged four per minute at the Automobile Club of Missouri. There was a great load of calls also to extricate stalled cars, particularly in the growing suburban residential districts, where drives are steep and drifts bad. Many garages were reported sold out of chains.

Missouri and Illinois State Highway departments had plows going all night, keeping the main highways fairly clear. Slick surfaces remained and driving was slow and somewhat hazardous. Visibility was extremely bad last night.

Shaw's Garden experts and the county farm agent declared the moisture of the snow would be beneficial to plant life, including wheat and barley, after a dry autumn.

The snow was an extra Christmas gift to children, out of school for the week. There was coasting on Art Hill and elsewhere in the parks, but the snow was somewhat soft for the best sport.

Last winter St. Louis had a total of 22.1 inches of snow. The heaviest December snowfall in 24 hours on record here was 9.5 inches in 1915.

KING'S QUOTATION "GIVE ME LIGHT —" FROM POETRY BOOK

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP). — The source of a quotation used by King George VI in his Christmas broadcast was a book of verse called "The Desert."

The British Broadcasting Co. said the author of the quotation was Miss M. L. Haskins, who used the words as an introduction to the book of verse, which was printed and circulated privately many years ago. The King's quotation was:

"I said to a man who stood at the gate of the year, 'Give me light that I may tread safely into the unknown,' and he replied, 'Go out into the darkness and put your hand into the hand of God. That shall be to you better than light and safer than any known way.'"

U. S. REGULATION OF LIFE INSURANCE FIRMS CONSIDERED

Monopoly Committee Members Say Hearings Show State Laws Should Be Supplemented.

NO PROPOSALS AGREED ON YET

One Suggestion Is for Creation of Fund Guarantee Similar to System for Banks.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Members of the Federal Monopoly Committee disclosed today that they have been considering informally several possible methods for Government regulation of life insurance companies.

They have not agreed on any recommendations, but they contend committee hearings during the last year have shown that some form of regulation should supplement existing state laws.

The Federal Government now has no jurisdiction over life insurance companies, which operate in every state and control assets totaling 27 billion dollars. This is more than the total amount of deposits in the nation's commercial and savings banks, according to committee records.

Members who favor some form of Federal regulation said they would not advocate supplanting state jurisdiction but rather would suggest Federal authority over matters which are beyond the jurisdiction of any one state.

Three Suggestions.

Among the suggestions which they said have been under consideration are:

1. Amendment of the Federal Bankruptcy Act to give the Government jurisdiction over insurance company failures.

2. Creation of a form of fund insurance similar to the Federal deposit insurance for banks. It would give the Government opportunity to require uniform accounting and make possible the disclosure of any irregularities.

3. Establishment of an even more comprehensive control system patterned after the Federal reserve system for banks, or regulation under an administrative body such as the Securities Commission.

Proponents of Federal control contend that life insurance companies are engaged in many respects in the same business as banks, yet are permitted much greater freedom of operation. Most of the evidence which the Securities Commission has presented to the committee has been designed to show that state regulation is inadequate.

This has ranged from testimony about several relatively small companies which failed or were impaired because of questionable management practices to arguments that the very size of the largest companies is uneconomic and in need of a Federal check.

What SEC Tried to Show.

The SEC has attempted to show that as the industry has grown to the point where there is 110 billion dollars of insurance in force, with continued growth forecast for the future, there has been a tendency toward concentration of economic control in fewer hands.

On the other hand, some of the insurance company executives who testified contended that size of the business had operated to the advantage rather than the disadvantage of the policyholder.

Frederick H. Ecker, chairman of the board of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., told the committee last winter that the more policyholders the firm had, the lower the percentage of overhead and the greater the diversification of its interests.

Ecker said state supervision of insurance companies was stringent, and executives of other firms told of the regulations already in force.

C. OF C. TO TRY TO KEEP EMERSON ELECTRIC IN CITY

Special Meeting of Executive Committee to Be Held Tomorrow to Consider Means.

A special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Chamber of Commerce will be held at noon tomorrow to consider means of keeping the Emerson Electric Manufacturing Co. in St. Louis.

William Sentner, international vice-president of the CIO United Electrical, Radio & Machine Workers' Union, proposed that a fund be raised to keep the company here, and he said the 1500 Emerson workers would contribute "a proportionate share" toward such a fund.

Thomas N. Dysart, Chamber of Commerce president, remarked that the suggestion was unique in that the Chamber of Commerce "has never before raised a bonus to keep a business concern in St. Louis."

Co-operation Pledged.

Dysart added that he wanted to keep the Emerson company in St. Louis and he assured Sentner of complete co-operation in the union's campaign.

Sentner said W. Stuart Symington, president of Emerson Electric, had informed the union that his directors had instructed him to study the possibilities offered by other industrial communities before the company carries out its proposed plant consolidation under one roof. The company now operates in five buildings and has no railroad tracks at its plants.

A plant such as the company requires would cost $800,000 to construct, Sentner stated. He said the union had learned that the Evansville (Ind.) Chamber of Commerce had offered the Emerson firm a building site and $100,000 to defray the cost of moving to Indiana.

Special Committee Proposed.

In discussing the proposed fund, Dysart remarked that the Chamber of Commerce spent money to advertise St. Louis as an industrial site. He added that he would ask the executive committee to appoint a special committee to handle the Emerson situation.

Sentner told the Post-Dispatch today that the union also had written to William L. Mason, president of the Board of Aldermen, in connection with efforts to keep the plant here, and had received in reply a letter stating that "if there is anything the board can do to make this a more inviting location we would be glad to know about it."

Mason suggested that the union arrange a conference with the Ways and Means Committee of the board, Sentner added, and a date for the conference now is being worked out.

Today's meeting was arranged by Congressman John J. Cochran. Senter was accompanied by Miss Ava Marie Nixon, chief woman shop steward at the Emerson works; Eustius Brendle, president of Electrical Workers' Local 1102,

MORE RUSSIANS REPORTED CALLED TO COLORS TO REINFORCE FINNISH DRIVE

MOSCOW, Dec. 27 (AP). RELIABLE but unofficial sources reported today that Russia had called more troops to the colors to supplement its vast army, already estimated in some quarters at as high as 4,500,000 men.

The number of men called was not disclosed.

There was no indication of where the new troops would be used but presumably they are to be sent to reinforce the army in Finland.

BRITISH REPORT NAZI PATROL BOAT DISABLED BY BOMB

Air Ministry Also Says Three German Planes Were Put Out of Action in North Sea Fights.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—The Air Ministry announced tonight that British coastal aircraft had disabled a German patrol vessel with a direct bomb hit, and had put three German Dornier planes out o faction.

The activity took place in the North Sea. It was described by the Air Ministry as "a series of minor encounters between R. A. F. and enemy air and surface craft."

FIRST INDIAN TROOPS ARRIVE IN FRANCE TO JOIN BRITISH

Initial Contingent Composed Entirely of Moslems Led by Own and English Officers.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Indian troops have arrived in France to join the British forces, it was disclosed tonight in dispatches from the Western front.

The first contingent, composed entirely of Moslems, is led by British and Indian officers.

PRESENTS DELAY ROOSEVELT

After Unwrapping Gifts He Will Start on Annual Message.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt has been so busy unwrapping Christmas presents that he has been unable to get down to serious work on his annual message to Congress.

Hence, he instructed his appointment secretary today to make no engagements for him tomorrow so he might have a clear desk for uninterrupted labor on the legislative and budget documents which must be finished when Congress meets Jan. 3. His last appointment today was a luncheon engagement and he left his afternoon free to finish unwrapping packages received several days before Christmas.

FINNS TOLD TO CARRY SHEETS

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—An Exchange Telegraph report from Helsinki today said the public had been instructed to carry sheets for quick camouflage in the snow, and to paint all vehicles white.

12 PLANES RAID TAMPERE TWICE, TURKU ATTACKED

50 Missiles Dropped at Each Place — One Killed, Houses Destroyed at Arms Center — Helsinki Has 80-Minute Alarm.

HELSINKI, Dec. 27 (AP).—The Russian air force struck repeatedly today at Tampere, Finnish munitions center 100 miles northwest of Helsinki, and other cities in a series of bombing raids.

The Finnish command, meanwhile, reported new Russian assaults repulsed on half a dozen fronts.

Twelve bombers appeared over Tampere at 9:58 a. m. (1:58 a. m. St. Louis time), and dropped only a few bombs, but returned two hours later to shower at least 50 bombs on the city.

Houses Wrecked.

Official reports said the result was "destruction of some dwellings, one dead and one injured."

The important seaport of Turku (Abo) on the southwest coast was bombed, first by two planes and then by a squadron of 15. Most of the 50 bombs dropped there fell into the water harmlessly.

Helsinki was visited by a lone enemy plane, but apparently no bombs were dropped. The capital had an 80-minute air raid alarm.

Viipuri (Viborg), Hameenlinna and other cities also sighted Russian bombers during the new wave of raids.

Eight Soviet tanks were said to have been destroyed when another attack was repulsed north of Lake Hatjalahti.

A Government communique said that Russians had started a new attempt to cross Lake Suvanto, where the Finns reported a previous try was balked yesterday with 700 Soviet casualties.

Text of Communique.

The communique said:

"On the (Karelian) Isthmus there was lively enemy artillery fire Dec. 26. North of Lake Hatjalahti the enemy launched an attack at noon, but was repulsed and eight tanks were destroyed. The enemy again tried to force Aihti. The attempt failed.

"In the evening a new attempt to cross Lake Suvanto was begun at Kelja. The battle continues. At Taipalejoki an attack supported by artillery fire was repulsed.

"On the Eeastern frontier the day was relatively quiet.

"Northeast of Lake Ladoga the enemy lost about 50 men in patrol skirmishes. The enemy attack in the direction of Syskyjarvi was beaten back. Northwest of Lieksa the enemy was retreating toward the frontier in the direction of Kivaara. Our own troops ad-

Cambridge (Mass.) Council Tries To Bar Printing of Lenin's Name

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 27 (AP).—This university city's reading matter was spared today from a purge of the words "Lenin" and "Leningrad" by discovery of a joker in a City Council resolution which sought to bar use of the words as an anti-Communism move.

Police Chief Timothy J. Leahy asserted the resolution, unanimously approved by the council last night, contained no provision for enforcement, and added: "I don't think we'll do anything about it."

Earlier, City Solicitor Richard C. Evarts said the resolution, which called for barring the words from all printed matter in Cambridge, undoubtedly was an infringement of freedom of the press.

"I don't believe the council has any authority to place any restrictions of this kind on the colleges, especially Harvard, for instance, which I believe still operates under its original charter," Evarts added. "I think the council has gone outside its jurisdiction in this matter."

The resolution, introduced by Councilman Michael A. Sullivan, would prohibit the use of the words in atlases, textbooks, magazines or newspapers. Another resolution, also adopted unanimously, commanded use of the name "St. Petersburg" in place of "Leningrad."

"Communism is the world's greatest curse today," Sullivan said, explaining that his resolutions were meant to be steps against the spread of Communism in this country.

"We well know that the Communists are trying to spread their evil and false propaganda through our schools and through our school textbooks," one of the resolutions related, going on to paint a picture of "terrifying conditions in Communistic countries," where the people have no "freedom of speech, freedom of the press or freedom of worship."

Mayor John W. Lyons, pressed for comment on the resolutions, replied:

REOPENING OF YANGTZE QUALIFIED

TOKYO, Dec. 27 (AP).—Premier Gen. Nobuyuke Abe received today a resolution signed by 250 of the 463 members of the Japanese House of Representatives asking that the Cabinet "give serious consideration to whether it should remain in power."

The resolution, adopted Tuesday at a conference among legislators of all parties, was sponsored by the younger element and does not represent parliamentary action. It is not recognized by official heads of the parties.

The resolution expressed the wish for Cabinet consideration of retirement "in view of the heavy responsibility attendant to assisting the throne conduct affairs of state."

Circles close to the Government predicted on Dec. 20 that the Cabinet might fall if the United States did not react favorably to the Japanese proposal for reopening the Yangtze River to foreign trade as far up as Nanking.

Japan qualified the proposed reopening with the statement today by Foreign Office spokesman Yakichiro Suma that establishment of a new government in China was expected to precede such a step.

Japan closed the Yangtze to foreign trade in August, 1937. Reopening as far as Nanking was proposed recently as Japan courted United States friendship in view of the expiration Jan. 26 of the Japanese-American trade treaty.

"After the establishment of a new regime, matters in connection with the river concerning Chinese officials, such as piloting, should be discussed with the new Government, but Japanese authorities will determine major policy," Suma said. "Japan is now formulating measures for the reopening, to which Chinese military authorities already have agreed."

Suma said a Washington announcement that ad valorem duties would not apply to Japan after the expiration of the treaty meant that trade could continue as usual.

"However, this would be on a day-to-day basis, which both nations are anxious to avoid," he said.

United States Customs Commissioner Basil Harris disclosed in Washington Dec. 22 that the usual 10 per cent additional tariff on foreign goods carried to the United States in foreign ships would not apply to Japan because of an exemption proclamation by President Grant in 1872. President Roosevelt apparently can revoke this proclamation at will, however.

Chinese Admit Japanese Gain but Deny Heavy Loss of Life.

HONGKONG, Dec. 27 (AP).—South China appeared to be the most active war sector today, with Chinese sources denying Japanese reports 13,000 Chinese had been killed in Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces, but conceding most Japanese claims of territorial gains.

The Japanese asserted last night they had killed 7000 Chinese in capturing Wuming, 30 miles north of Nanning in Kwangsi Province, and 6000 more in driving 55 miles north and 50 miles northeast of Canton.

The Japanese said they brought down three Chinese planes and lost one of their own in bombarding Kwellin in Kwangsi Province and a Chinese air base at Liuchow, 80 miles southward.

The drive northward from Canton, coastal metropolis of South China, was described as intended to engage the reorganized Chinese armies of East Kwangtung Province.

Chinese sources asserted today that Chinese fighting planes made in Russia had shot down three and damaged 10 of 99 Japanese warplanes raiding Lanchow, capital of Kansu Province, in Northwest China. The air battle occurred yesterday when Japanese squadrons attempted to bomb Chinese military bases near Lanchow. The Chinese planes were reported to have forced the attacking formations to break up and drop their bombs before reaching their objectives.

Lanchow is on the great Central Asia highway, by which Russian war materials reach China. The Japanese have struck at it repeatedly in recent weeks.

MOSCOW, Dec. 27 (AP).—Considerable progress was reported today from the joint Soviet-Japanese-Manchoukuoan-Outer Mongolian conference which ended at Chita, Siberia, Monday.

The talks, in progress almost a month, will be shifted to Harbin, Manchoukuo, with a Soviet delegation of 27 expected to arrive there Jan. 7.

Details of the new demarcation line will be worked out but actual establishment of the boundaries will be postponed until spring.

The conference was determined on as the result of a September truce to hostilities on the Outer Mongolian border.

Swedish Volunteers Reach Finland, Commanded by Veteran General

71-Year-Old Ernst Linder Heads Distinctively-Uniformed Corps — Money, Clothing, Medical Aid Also Sent.

STOCKHOLM, Dec. 27 (AP).—Fighting volunteers, medical aid which will be welcome to refugees, great quantities of clothing and financial credits are among the aids extended to Finland by Sweden.

The most significant help to the small Northern neighborhood to fight off Soviet Russia—the volunteers—is not mentioned often. The Government maintains a policy of official neutrality.

But it is known that hundreds of volunteers, distinctively uniformed, already have left Sweden and are on Finnish soil, where they are expected to be in action soon, especially on the Northern and Central fronts.

Gen. Ernst Linder, 71-year-old veteran with both the Swedish and Finnish armies, has been named commander of the volunteers.

"Every assistance possible for Finland within the official policy of neutrality," appears to be the thought motivating the citizens and the Government.

Swedes estimated tonight that outright cash contributions to their small Northern neighbor to date totaled 8,000,000 crowns (about $2,000,000). These sums have been raised by organized collections.

The largest single cash contribution was by the Confederation of Labor, an association of labor unions, which gave 500,000 crowns.

One Stockholm newspaper is conducting a rousing campaign to get its readers to contribute one day's pay to the Finnish war chest. Another already has sent many carloads of clothing donated by its readers.

Swedish painters are offering their pictures for sale and contributing the proceeds to the Finnish war treasury. Numerous authors have contributed their royalties.

The sale of medals for the Finnish war also has become a vogue. Numerous Russian decorations are among those offered.

The Swedish Red Cross has sent an ambulance unit with 50 doctors and nurses.

Organizations hastily formed in Stockholm have taken up the work of caring for persons who have fled from Finland, especially Finnish children whose parents have perished or who remain in Finland.

Business men, apparently with an encouraging nod from the Government, are extending extraordinary credits to the Finns to enable them to make purchases abroad.

Finland cannot pay immediately for all materials needed, but vital goods are sent in many cases without arrangements for payment. Sweden has an excess of sugar and grain, and the surplus is being diverted to the Finns in preference to other usual outlets.

Sweden yesterday called more men for winter field training, and the Finnish correspondent of the newspaper Politikens said many Finns were counting on Sweden joining the war against Russia within three months.

San Salvador Shock Causes Fright; No Damage Reported.

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador, Dec. 27 (AP).—A fairly heavy earthquake shook San Salvador at 5:55 a. m. today, frightening inhabitants but causing no damage locally. Whether the shock caused damage in the provinces is not known.

The quake was the second for El Salvador within a few hours. Several provinces were shaken late yesterday but no casualties or damage were reported.

Quake Rocks Associated Press Office In Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27 (AP).—An earthquake was felt in Los Angeles at 11:29 a. m. today. It rocked the Associated Press office, on the fourth floor of the Herald-Express Building.

The shaking was felt in Long Beach, center of the disastrous 1933 earthquake, for about 10 seconds. There were no reports of damage.

Glendale and Alhambra, lying northeast of Los Angeles proper, also reported sharp shocks.

In the 33-story Los Angeles City Hall, chandeliers swayed for a few seconds and pictures on some walls went awry. Employes in large buildings in Long Beach scurried for safety. Some took positions under beams and others ran into the streets.

Taft to Talk on Balancing Budget.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 27 (AP), — Senator Robert A. Taft has chosen the subject, "Mr. President, Here's How to Balance the Budget," for a Jan. 5 address in Chicago, the Taft-for-President office announced today. President Roosevelt recently said he would give the Senator a handsome prize for a bill of particulars on how Taft would balance the budget in two years. The Senator's address before Chicago's Bar Association will be nationally broadcast.

BELGIUM SEEKING NAZI COAL TO KEEP UP SALE TO FRANCE

Own Output Not Sufficient for Deal Aiding French Arms Plants.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 27 (AP).—Bound up with the departure today of a Belgian diplomat for Berlin is one of the paradoxes of Western Europe's war—possible manufacture of French arms and munitions through indirect aid of the German coal industry.

The director of commercial treaties in the Belgian Foreign Office, it was reported, will discuss at Berlin the question of continued Belgian imports of German coal.

It was said that Belgium could not continue indefinitely to fulfill its part of a pre-war iron-coal exchange agreement with France if forced to depend on Belgian-mined coal. Although a large coal producer, Belgium imports from Germany.

Some sources expressed belief that at least 1,500,000 tons would have to come from Germany if the Belgian-French deal were to be fulfilled. Officials declined to comment on this. It was explained that while coal mined in Germany might not find its way to French steel mills, the imports would release Belgian coking coal which otherwise would have to be reserved for Belgium's own use.

Last August the Belgian coal cartel and French iron mining companies confirmed an agreement negotiated six months before, under which the Belgians would exchange 4,000,000 tons of coal for 6,000,000 tons of French iron ore.

WAR INCREASED JOBLESS IN EUROPE, SURVEY SHOWS

Labor Report Lists Only U. S. and Canada as Having Reduced Number of Unemployed.

GENEVA, Dec. 27 (AP). — Addition of hundreds of thousands to the jobless ranks in both belligerent and neutral states during the first months of the European War was cited today in a survey published by the International Labor Office.

The mobilization of millions of men and a boom in war industries thus far have failed to absorb unemployment resulting from trade restrictions, the appearance of women as job-seekers and the closing down of peace-time industries.

The United States and Canada, alone of the countries mentioned, showed decreases in unemployment during the war months. No figures were issued for Germany, but labor office experts said unemployment increased there despite war-made jobs.

A world-wide lack of skilled labor was reported.

BRITAIN CONSIDERING PROTEST OF 21 AMERICAN REPUBLICS

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP). — The protest made by 21 American Republics over belligerent naval activity within the American safety zone was reported in British official quarters today as being "carefully considered."

These sources said there was "full appreciation of the Americas' desire to keep clear of the war zone."

Last Saturday the United States and 20 other American nations protested to France, Great Britain and Germany against the activities of their warcraft in American waters, including the battle between the German raider Admiral Graf Spee and British warships off Uruguay.

FINNISH MILITARY MISSION FAILS TO FIND ARMS IN U. S.

Officers Are Told American Army Is Short of Same Munitions They Want.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—A Finnish military mission started a canvass today for hundreds of American-made anti-aircraft, anti-tank and other modern weapons to combat the Russian invasion.

Lieutenant-General Vilho Petter Nennonen and Col. Per Zilliacus were told at a conference with War Department officials that the American army was short of the same munitions and that available commercial manufacturers were tied up already with War Department orders.

Most of such weapons are made in army arsenals, which legally may not turn them over to a foreign government unless they are formally adjudged to be surplus.

The Finnish officials appeared satisfied, however, that the War Department would give all possible co-operation, in accord with recent evidences of administration sympathy.

CONGRESS LIKELY TO VOTE DEFENSE FUND SPEEDILY

What Controversy There Is Probably Will Be Over Specific Use of Two Billions to Be Sought.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Congress will be asked to approve another record-breaking fund for national defense at the coming session, and indications today are that it will accede without much of a fight.

Congressmen with military ideas of their own, however, may provoke greater controversy than the outlay of more than two billion dollars which President Roosevelt has said he would recommend to finance the army and navy for the yeear starting July 1.

Before the new session is a week old, two House committees will study proposals designed to make the navy the mightiest armada the world has ever seen. Both are likely to provide forums for proponents of super-battleships, possibly twice as big as any now afloat.

Chairman Vinson of Georgia set Jan. 8 tentatively for the House Naval Committee to begin public hearings on a proposed $1,300,000,000 expansion of the navy. This would provide for 95 new warships, 31 auxiliary vessels and 2395 additional airplanes.

80,000-Ton Ships Proposed.

Representative Maas (Rep.), Minnesota, senior minority member of the committee, said he would urge at the hearing the establishment of a separate fleet for the Atlantic and for construction of bigger battleships—up to 80,000 tons each in contrast to the 35,000-tonners now the navy's largest.

It was said that Belgium could not continue indefinitely to fulfill its part of a pre-war iron-coal exchange agreement with France if forced to depend on Belgian-mined coal. Although a large coal producer, Belgium imports from Germany.

Some sources expressed belief that at least 1,500,000 tons would have to come from Germany if the Belgian-French deal were to be fulfilled. Officials declined to comment on this. It was explained that while coal mined in Germany might not find its way to French steel mills, the imports would release Belgian coking coal which otherwise would have to be reserved for Belgium's own use.

Air Attacks on Coast.

"At sea: Enemy operations on the coast of the Gulf of Finland and Lake Ladoga were confined chiefly to air attacks which failed to cause any substantial damage.

"In the air: On Dec. 26 enemy activity in the war zone was confined almost entirely to the Isthmus. Damage caused to military objectives was wholly insignificant.

"Among the civilian population, however, there were several victims in some localities. There were no air attacks of any dimensions against the home front except at Kotka. In a raid at Kotka four civilians were killed and a wounded. Elsewhere there was no loss of life.

"Our air operations were confined to reconnaissance flights and driving off enemy aircraft. One enemy bombing plane was shot down."

SKI TROOPS HEAD FOR RED RAIL LINE

COPENHAGEN, Dec. 27 (AP).—A picked battalion of Finnish ski troops today was reported driving through Russia about 115 miles north of Lake Ladoga and east of Lieksa in an attempt to cut the Murmansk railroad line.

Russian forces on the Arctic Ocean front and other northern sectors receive most of their supplies over this railroad, which runs from 50 to 150 miles east of the border.

At the same time 300,000 fresh Soviet troops under the command of Joseph Stalin's personal friends were reported by Finnish sources to be massing for a smashing attack along the eastern and northern fronts.

The Finns said on Monday that their troops had crossed the frontier into Russia near Lieksa.

From the Finnish-Norwegian border came reports that advancing Finnish troops in the far north were collecting large quantities of war material abandoned by retreating Russians between Nautsi and Hoyhenjarvi. Included were many Russian tanks stalled in the snow.

4 Below Zero Weather.

With the temperature still four below zero Fahrenheit, the woods east of Kemijarvi, Central Finland, were reported full of Russian deserters and wounded.

In all sectors the Finns were said to be preparing for the new Russian thrust they expect will come in an attempt to regain some of the prestige lost in recent weeks.

The Finns estimated the Red army had lost 4000 men in fighting in the extreme north alone in the last three days.

Some of the troops reported moved up for a counteroffensive in the north were said to be veterans of the Polish campaign.

New Drive Expected.

dle Finland in an effort to reach the Kemijarvi railroad and cut the country in two. It was in this area that the Russians had been driven back about 50 miles in the last few days, according to Finnish reports.

The Russians also were forced to retreat in bitter blizzards in the far north, where they were reported holding lines about 20 miles behind the point of their farthest advance.

Gen. Kurt M. Wallenius, northern forces' commander, was quoted as saying the Finns generally faced each Russian division of about 18,000 men with a battalion of about 600.

The Finns said the Russian reinforcements were "elite" troops and that among the officers were some of Stalin's personal friends.

While out-numbered, the Finns found the difficulties of weather and transport in their favor. The White Sea is frozen so that there is no sea communication to Archangel or Murmansk, and the Russians' main reliance for supplies is the Murmansk railroad, which is supplemented in the Far North by tractor-drawn cars on narrow rail lines laid on the highway.

Gen. Wallenius was quoted as saying he expected the Red drive in the vicinity of Salla, near Finaind's "waistline." Oslo dispatches said Norwegian observers near the frontier of the Finnish Lapland had noticed large quantities of Russian war materials arriving, and that a new Russian offensive was expected along the Arctic highway from Hoyenjarvi, 60 miles south of the Arctic coast.

Reds Report Action Confined to "Petty Skirmishes."

MOSCOW, Dec. 27 (AP).—Action on the Finnish fronts was confined to "petty skirmishes of reconnoitering units and artillery duels in a number of areas," a Red Army communique reported yesterday.

The army said "Soviet aviation made reconnoitering flights."

ama Canal Zone came back with a lot of ideas which threaten to conflict with those of War Department experts. Among other things, they recommended speeding up production of the army's new semi-automatic rifle, greater attention to protection of cities from possible air attacks, modernization of field artillery, and expansion of airports and troop training areas.

The army contends that it would take all prospective defense funds to provide even a portion of the nation's major cities with stationary anti-aircraft guns. Pointing out that London requires about 900 such weapons, this country's military leaders are concentrating on development of mobile anti-aircraft regiments.

Further protection of the Panama Canal will be a major item in the defense program. Well-informed sources said that the army would ask for funds to begin construction of the $277,000,000 third set of locks authorized last summer.

ROOSEVELT CONFERS WITH CHURCH LEADERS

President Quoted as Reporting Accord in Religious Efforts for Peace.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Representatives of the Protestant and Jewish faiths, reporting on a conference with President Roosevelt, said today he told them there was a general agreement on religious efforts toward world peace.

Dr. George A. Buttrick, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, and Rabbi Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America, called at the White House at the invitation of the chief executive, who has proposed that religions and governments strive in common purpose for peace.

After the conference, Dr. Buttrick said:

"We discussed in general with the President the issues obviously involved."

Rabbi Adler added that the President told them: "We are all in agreement."

The Jewish churchman said "we are on call" when asked whether further conferences were planned.

Mr. Roosevelt received word yesterday from Pope Pius XII that Myron C. Taylor would be received cordially as a special peace emissary at the Vatican, center of Roman Catholicism.

The President said in response to a question at his press conference that he did not know whether Taylor would carry a special message from him to the Pope. Taylor is expected to leave for his post in several weeks.

Roosevelt said that Taylor, a retired steel man, would continue to serve as head of the International Committee on Refugees.

Asked to comment on reports that the Italian Government was working along lines parallel with the Vatican to promote peace, Roosevelt said that the greater the number of governments which work together with religious groups for peace the better it would be for the world.

MULTACKS PAID $15,200 FOR LAND, WITNESS ASSERTS

G. A. Moss Tells of Price of Brentwood Acreage on Which They Borrowed $35,000.

FOUR HEIRS GOT ONLY $750 IN CASH

Buyers Put Up $5904 More on Mortgage—Evidence in Suit for Added Security or Refund.

Testimony that a proposed subdivision site in Brentwood, on which the St. Louis County Court made a $35,000 mortgage loan from school funds Dec. 11, was purchased the same day for only $15,200, was given in a deposition at Clayton today in the Prosecuting Attorney's suit to require additional security or recall the loan.

Out of the purchase price the sellers paid $8000 in a compromise settlement of an $11,500 mortgage, and they paid other expenses, leaving them a cash yield of only $750, the testimony showed. However, as the Post-Dispatch has told, the purchasers, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Multack of Kirkwood, were forced to pay an additional $5904 to the old mortgage holders after publication of facts concerning the inquiry into the school fund loan.

St. Louis Loan Limitation.

Under the law, a loan from the school funds is limited to 50 per cent of value, so that the County Court, an administrative body, acted on the assumption the 19-acre tract was worth at least $70,000. Revenue stamps on the deed to the Multacks, filed for record, indicated the sale price was $15,500 cash, plus retirement of the old mortgage, or a total of $26,500.

The witness was George A. Moss, 1526 Brentwood boulevard, Brentwood, who, with two sisters and a niece, made the sale to the Multacks. He said his family had told its agent, the Dimmitt-Rickhoff-Bayer Real Estate Co., it would accept $800 an acre, but that the deductions which cut their actual proceeds to only $750 included $8000 to settle the principal and interest of the old loan, $4965 for delinquent taxes and penalties, the agent's commission and other expenses.

His Understanding of Sale.

Moss declared that his family's agent told him the sale at $800 an acre could be made to the Fairfax Construction Co., of which Arnold H. Maremont is president, and that Maremont's concern would buy the property if the old mortgage could be "cut down." Moss said it was his understanding all along that the sale was being made to Maremont, and that he knew nothing of the Multacks in connection with the deal. He said payment of the cash proceeds was made last Friday.

As a result of the deal, Moss and his family retained, free of incumbrance, three additional acres, the Brentwood boulevard frontage of what had been a 22-acre tract.

Maremont's company has contracted to buy lots in the 19-acre tract from the Multacks as sites on which it will erect residences. Sureties on the Multack mortgage note, who, under the law, are supposed t oown property, clear of debt, worth at least the amount of the loan, are Miss Virginia C. Naughton, a stenographer employed by Maremont, and E. C. Karsnick, stepfather of Walter R. Douglas, former Mayor of Brentwood and head of the title company which was escrow agent for the Multacks in the loan deal.

Miss Naughton testified, in another deposition, that she owned no real estate, paid no taxes, had no personal property and did not know that the paper she signed was, in effect, a bond. She said Maremont asked her to sign the note and that she complied in the ordinary course of her work, just as she had signed other papers when asked by him to do so. The Multacks, whom she had never met before, were present when she signed, she added.

Karsnick, the suit charges, was not assessed as owner of property, clear of debt, worth the face of the loan.

Valuation Disputed.

The suit alleges that the tract was not worth even the face of the $35,000 loan, let alone double that amount. Prosecuting Attorney Stanley Wallach filed a second suit last Saturday to recover $14,011, the unexpended balance of the new loan, charging that the loan constituted a fraud on the county.

A grand jury inquiry into the school fund loan is to be made, the prosecutor has announced. The County Court, which did not have an expert appraisal before making the loan, has ordered one made at the Multacks' expense. Clarence L. Wolff, executor and attorney for the estate of the late Dr. James B. Sudduth, which held the old mortgage, made the demand resulting in an additional payment on it by the Multacks after facts in the transaction were made public.

Soda Pop Bribery Reported In Washington U. Voting

MISS HARRIET LLOYD
Freshman Queen at Washington U.

Women's Council Adopts Resolution to Abolish Election of Freshman Popularity Queen.

An attempt to stuff the ballot box used in election of the freshman popularity queen at Washington University recently, and rumors that votes were bought for bottles of soda pop, have led the Women's Council of the university to adopt a resolution asking school authorities to abolish the contest.

Competition always has been keen among campus sororities to have their own candidates elected, supporters of the resolution explain, but this year electioneering was "excessive."

Jack Cable, editor of Eliot, school magazine which has sponsored the contest for the last six years, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that "things may have been a bit unbridled" in the election, but added that the electioneering was just the result of over-enthusiasm and was a well meant if misguided display of group loyalty.

He also pointed out that the student chosen as queen, Miss Harriet Lloyd, was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, one of the sororities which scorned high-pressure methods, and was elected by such a majority that it was obvious she was the honest choice of the campus. "I think the whole thing's a tempest in a teapot," he said.

Disgruntled candidates and sororities could look forward to many a future chance to even the score. Washington University selects not only a freshman popularity queen, but also an engineers' queen, Hatchet queen, May queen, beaux arts queen, football queen and campus queen; so there are plenty of titles to go around.

22 DOGS SHOT TO DEATH AFTER ATTACK ON MAN

Unidentified Marksman Kills Them One by One as Pack Emerges From Farmhouse.

STILLWATER, Minn., Dec. 27 (AP).—The 22 dogs that attacked Herman Nystrom and inflicted some 300 wounds on his body, were dead today, but the identity of the person who shot them was kept secret.

Nystrom was attacked as he slept in the kitchen of his employer, Mrs. Henry Hauser, at her farmhouse near here Friday. His physician gives him a chance to recover.

An unidentified man loosed the pack of mongrels from the Hauser farm house and shot them, one by one, as they came out.

Meanwhile, a warrant, based on a charge of neglect of animals filed by James Nankivell, executive agent of the State Humane Society, was in the hands of the Sheriff for service on Mrs. Hauser. Nystrom told authorities he believed the dogs were hungry at the time of the attack, and that they had been kept locked in the house for weeks after they had killed livestock on the Hauser farm.

PLEA TO FIRE WPA TEACHERS AS REDS IS SENT TO CASTEEL

Americanism Group Leader Says He Can't Name One of the Two He Accuses.

A request for dismissal of two teachers on a WPA adult education project, alleged to be Communists by Thomas E. Wicks, president of the newly formed Campaigners of Americanism, was referred today to WPA State Director B. Marvin Casteel.

Wicks, a specialty salesman, who describes the Campaigners as an organization opposing subversive influences, made the request in a letter to St. Louis Administrator Lloyd W. Greathouse. He did not name the teachers, nor describe activities he found objectionable, but declared that "while they do not teach Communism, neither do they deny they are Communists."

Wicks told a Post-Dispatch reporter he had given the name of one teacher to the WPA, but did not know the name of the other.

MAN IGNORES WARNING AND IS KILLED BY TRAIN

Charles Votruba Jr. of Eureka, a paper hanger, was killed yesterday afternoon when struck by a west bound Missouri Pacific passenger train at a railroad crossing there. He was hurled 60 yards by the impact.

E. A. Connor, watchman at the crossing, said he warned Votruba of the oncoming train but Votruba started walking hurriedly across the tracks calling back, "I think I can make it." He had almost cleared the last rail when he was struck.

The train stopped momentarily and then proceeded to Sedalia, Mo. The crew has been ordered to appear at a Coroner's inquest tomorrow. Votruba was 52 years old. Surviving are his father and a daughter, Mrs. Estelle E. Barker, both of St. Louis.

WILLIAM L. SHAW, 99, OLD RIVER MAN, DIES

Was Printing Plant Engineer in St. Louis From 1880 Until 1919.

Funeral services for William Leven Shaw, 99 years old, who died last evening of infirmities at his home, 2037 Alice avenue, will be tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Math Hermann undertaking establishment, 2161 East Fair avenue, with burial at the New Bethlehem Cemetery.

Born in North Carolina, Mr. Shaw was a steamboat engineer on the Tennessee and Ohio rivers during the Civil War period. He came to St. Louis in 1880 and was employed as an engineer in a printing plant until his retirement 20 years ago.

Surviving are his daughter, Mrs. Maymie B. Satterfield, with whom he lived, and two grandsons, Dr. Val Satterfield and L. Ray Schuessler, both of St. Louis.

SISTIE AND BUZZIE, VISITING WHITE HOUSE, ROMP IN SNOW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—A gleeful boy and girl, spending Christmas with their grandparents, romped happily with a sled on the snow-covered White House south grounds today.

They made it plain that the capital's first snow of the winter was one of the highlights of the holiday for Eleanor (Sistie) Dall, 12 years old, and her brother, Curtis (Buzzie) Dall, 9, from Seattle.

Sistie, with her shoulder length blonde hair flying, was bundled up in a blue snow suit which once had been her mother's, and Buzzie wore a neat outfit of the same color. He had to abandon his playing this afternoon for a different sort of entertainment. He was host—all by himself—at a party for children of his age in the White House. His sister will give a party tomorrow.

COAL BRIQUET PLANT STUDIED

Tucker Sees Smokeless Fuel Made From Fine Screenings.

Smoke Commissioner Raymond R. Tucker spent several hours yesterday afternoon inspecting the coal-briqueting plant at 6136 Manchester avenue, described recently in the Post-Dispatch. He was accompanied by Dr. Louis C. McCabe, associate of Dr. M. M. Leighton, chief of the Illinois Geological Survey and research adviser of Mayor Dickmann's Smoke Elimination Committee.

Tucker said he had arrived at no definite conclusions after the visit, but wanted to see the plant in operation and observe its possibilities for the production of smokeless fuel from fine screenings of Illinois soft coal.

WOMAN KILLED, 6 HURT AS AUTOS COLLIDE IN SNOW

Miss Gretchen Kuelper Loses Life in Head-on Crash of Machines at Bridge on Manchester Road.

Miss Gretchen Kuelper, a graduate nurse, was killed and six persons were injured when the driver of an automobile, blinded by thick falling snow, crashed head-on into another automobile in Manchester road, at Glaize Creek Bridge, St. Louis County, at 7:25 o'clock last night. Two other drivers, blinded by the snow, later ran into the wrecked machines.

The machine in which Miss Kuelper was killed was driven by Everett Swyers, a milk-wagon driver, 5032 Murdoch avenue. Swyers was cut on the chin. His wife, Adele, is in Deaconess Hospital with lacerations of the face and scalp. Their son, William, 9 years old, was bruised.

Swyers' car smashed into a westbound automobile driven by the Rev. Martin C. Olsen of Grover, St. Louis County. His wife suffered a bruised leg. Their children, Melvin, 16, and Doris, 10, received cuts.

The Rev. Mr. Olsen told highway police Swyers' machine swerved across the road. He stopped, he said, and the other automobile crashed into his. Swyers said his vision was obscured by the snow after starting home from a visit with Miss Kuelper's brother at Labadie, Mo. The drivers of two machines, which ran into the wrecked cars during the snowstorm, were not hurt and were able to drive their automobiles from the scene.

Miss Kuelper, 57, was pronounced dead on arrival at County Hospital. She lived at 3437 Oxford boulevard, Maplewood, and was usually employed in private nursing at Deaconess Hospital.

Pedestrian Injured in East St. Louis Accident.

Joseph Bilello, 73 years old, suffered a fractured leg and internal injuries when struck by an automobile at State and Fifteenth streets, in East St. Louis, at 5:30 o'clock last night.

The driver said he was Joseph Seper, 16 years old, 6700 State street. Bilello, who is in Christian Welfare Hospital, owns a confectionery at 1705 Ridge avenue, East St. Louis, where he resides.

COLD DELAYS COMPLETION OF STATUES FOR MEMORIAL

Sculptor and Carver Get Numb Fingers Working Out-of-Doors on "Sacrifice."

Snow and cold weather will delay placing of the statues "Sacrifice" and "Loyalty," which were to have been st up next week at the Pine street entrance to the Soldiers' Memorial, Walker Hancock, the sculptor, said today.

Hancock explained that the work of putting finishing touches on "Sacrifice" was going on out-of-doors at the Moceri Monument Co. A canvas has been stretched over the top of the statue, but snow seeps in, delaying the work. Moreover, the carver, Alex Beretta, who considers gloves interfere with work of an artisan, gets numb fingers. He and Hancock stop work from time to time to warm their fingers and toes.

The group in "Sacrifice" includes a female figure holding the $1000 limestone baby, which caused a controversy over costs last spring, settled only when the Moceri company agreed to include the infant without extra payment. Hancock said he used as the model for the stone baby a photograph of his 14-month-old nephew, Walker Flint, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gardiner Flint, Mosley lane, St. Louis County. Two groups of Hancock's statuary already have been placed on the south side of the memorial. The city agreed to pay $10,000 to Hancock for the four groups and $24,775 to the Moceri company.

Ladue Inhalator Revives Woman.

The new inhalator of the City of Ladue Police and Fire Departments was put into use for the first time yesterday when it was used to revive a Negro laundress, Martha Brown, who was overcome by gas in the basement laundry of the residence of E. A. Wright, 41 Deerfield drive. The woman was found near a stove, with gas escaping from a burner that had been extinguished by water boiling over.

HIBBERT TELLS BOARD HE WANTS PUBLIC HEARING

President Eagleton Says That Request Will Be Referred to Instruction Committee.

Russell W. Hibbert, director of the division of books, supplies and equipment of the Instruction Department, notified Mark D. Eagleton, president of the Board of Education, today, that he wanted a public hearing on pending charges of inefficiency.

Hibbert, in a communication sent to the president of the board by his attorney, John C. Tobin, stated that he would not seek an injunction or other court action, and asked the hearing "to clear his own name."

Eagleton said the lawyer's letter would be referred to the Committee on Instruction, and that the committee would probably conduct the hearing, with all the members of the board in attendance.

Tobin wrote that Hibbert, "having the utmost faith and confidence in the integrity, honesty of purpose and good faith of the Board of Education and Superintendent of Instruction, will abide by any action taken by the Board in reference to his position, and will not endeavor to seek any injunctive or other relief in court."

Superintendent Henry J. Gerling informed Board members two weeks ago that he would not exercise his power to dismiss Hibbert without a hearing. The Board has no power to dismiss him, though it could abolish his job. Gerling was understood to fear that he would be sued if he took action against Hibbert.

The instruction committee of the board considered Hibbert's case at its meeting Dec. 5. Dr. Rudolph Hofmeister, chairman of the committee, said it reached the conclusion that Hibbert had not been "entirely efficient" in the performance of his duties, and that the committee believed dismissal would be the proper penalty. The other members of the committee are John A. Fleischli and Max G. Baron.

Hibbert was questioned earlier by committee members regarding his relationship with book dealers and binders; in this connection, it was stated that the work of rebinding worn books, done by private firms, might have been done by the school bindery at a saving of more than $10,000 in six years.

MAN DIES OF SKULL INJURIES SUFFERED IN FIGHT DEC. 4

Charles Phillips Was Knocked Down by Jesse Hudson at Latter's Home.

Charles Phillips, 2720 Hermitage avenue, died today at St. Louis County Hospital of a fractured skull suffered Dec. 4 in a struggle with Jesse Hudson on the front porch of Hudson's home at 2715 Limit avenue, Maplewood.

Hudson todl Maplewood police at the time that he heard a noise at his front door and saw a fist break through the glass. When he went to the door, he said, Phillips struck at him and he dodged the glow and knocked Phillips down the step.

Hudson said he had never seen Phillips before. Phillips was 41 years old.

AFL Embalmers Raising $1620 'Legislative Fund'

Union Members Wonder What Levy Is For—Treasurer Denies It Is to Be Used for Lobbying.

Some members of the AFL Embalmers' Union, Local No. 21,301, are wondering for what purpose union officers plan to use a "legislative fund" of about $1620 now being collected through an assessment approved at the November meeting.

The assessment, $1 a month for each of the approximately 90 members for 18 months, was approved with only three dissenting votes at the time, on suggestion of Florenz Eynck, one of the members. Eynck proposed that a fund be raised to combat legislation ufavorable to the union and to promote favorable legislation, explaining that a similar fund was being collected by the union in Kansas City.

Since collection began, however, some members say, they have been unable to obtain a definite explanation of how the money is to be used. There has been discussion of demanding an explanation at the meeting of the union next month.

For the last six months, a topic of concern at union meetings has been the two vacancies which now exist on the Missouri State Embalming Board, which is in charge of licensing embalmers. Members of the union are convinced they should be represented on the board, which, in the past, has been composed entirely of funeral directors.

The union has sent the names of three of its members to Gov. Lloyd C. Stark and has urged that he appoint at least one of them to the board. The three are Bernard Stuart, Edward Bockhorst and Paul A. Shanklin.

Robert L. Brinkman, secretary of the union, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that the union's fund "is in no way being used in an attempt to influence the appointments."

"There is no secret about the fund," he said. "It is a legitimate fund, to be used for traveling and legal expenses, and positively will not go for lobbying."

He pointed out that the union has no paid officers, and said that no funds had been available heretofore for trips to Jefferson City to obtain representation at public hearings on bills in which the union was interested. These bills, he said, were those relating to burial societies, which the union opposes as unfair.

A fund to combat burial societies also was raised this year by the Missouri Funeral Directors' Association. Brinkman said the union was acting independently of the undertakers' group.

STONE AGE MAN'S SKELETON FOUND IN CARVED COFFIN

4000-Year-Old Inscription Is Measurement System, English Scientist Says.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP). — A coffin containing a man's skeleton which Archaeologist Ludovic Mann estimated to be at least 4000 years old was unearthed today by workmen in a Dumbartonshire sand pit.

Mann said the discovery would contribute greatly to knowledge of the Stone Age.

"The most significant discovery was a carved inscription on one of the huge stone slabs," he said. "The inscription represents standard units of lineal measure of the Stone Age which, in those times, were connected closely with religious beliefs."

Authorizes Interest Payment.

PARAMOUNT ENGRAVING SIGNS CONTRACT WITH ARTISTS' UNION

Closed Shop, 40-Hour Week, $37.50 Minimum Pay Among Provisions.

A closed shop agreement between Paramount Engraving, Inc., 1808 Washington avenue, and the Artists' Union of St. Louis, covering 10 employes, will become effective Feb. 1 for one year.

The contract is the first between the company and the union, Local No. 1, which received its charter this year from the AFL International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union. It provides for the 40-hour week, with overtime, at a minimum of $37.50 a week. Differences pertaining to the agreement are to be presented to a joint committee.

Artists' Local No. 1 has 68 members and is seeking wage and working greements with other St. Louis firms.

DRY LEADER REQUESTS LID ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

Tate Urges Glassco and McDaniel to Bar Sunday Liquor Sales.

Letters urging strict enforcement on New Year's eve of the law against Sunday sale of liquor were sent today by P. A. Tate, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri, to Chief of Police John H. Glassco and Excise Commissioner Lawrence McDaniel.

"I note the newspapers are reporting St. Louis hotels and other places having retail liquor licenses are announcing 'business as usual' on New Year's eve," the letters stated. ". . . I cannot believe you share the smug complacency of the liquor dealers about prospective law violations.

"New Year's eve this year will be the sacred Sabbath. A sale of liquor on that day is a violation of the criminal laws the liquor dealers have promised to obey and which it is your duty to enforce. . . . I appeal to you to use the power of your position to enforce respect for the law and safeguard the lives of our people by preventing so far as possible the wholesale violations which are being publicly promised."

Chief Glassco, after receiving the letter, told the Post-Dispatch that his department was "treating New Year's eve just like any other Sunday."

"Police have received their usual instructions to report any violations and to make arrests when necessary," he said.

McDaniel, ill at home, said he had not received the letter and would not comment until he had seen it. He previously had stated he "didn't make the calendar and didn't make the law."

U. S. TO SCRAP 4 SHIPS SEIZED FROM GERMANY

George Washington, Monticello, Mount Vernon and American to Be Sold.

SOLOMONS, Md., Dec. 27 (AP).—Four American prizes of the World War, on whose decks trod 300,000 soldiers en route to French battlefields, will follow another one-time German luxury liner, the Leviathan, to the scrap heap.

The 23,788-ton George Washington, on which President Wilson traveled to the peace conference, the 19,360-ton Monticello, the 18,372-ton Mount Vernon and the 1,329-ton American have been ordered sold for scrap by the Maritime Commission.

Unlike the Leviathan, which was sold to Scottish ship breakers last year, the four rusting at anchorage in this remote Southern Maryland fishing port will be sold only to nations not designated by President Roosevelt as belligerents.

The ghost fleet, machinery daubed with grease and hulls spotted with red lead paint, but still showing vestiges of former splendor, must not be used in commercial operation, the Commission stipulated in invitations for bids which are to be opened Jan. 19.

All were built in the first ten years of the Twentieth Century, during Germany's contest for maritime supremacy over England, and like many German ships in 1939 they took refuge in neutral harbors in 1914. They were seized from German owners on April 6, 1917, in United States ports.

The Mount Vernon, as the Kronprinzessen Cecelie, captured the Atlantic speed record. Late in 1914 it sailed from New York with $10,000,000 in gold bullion for Germany. It was several hundred miles from Germany when war was declared and it sped back to Bar Harbor, Me.

The Monticello, launched as the Kaiser Wilhelm II, had an especially luxurious suite arranged for the Kaiser's tastes, but the fittings were soon torn out to make way for troop berths.

After the war the four remained idle and the United States paid the North German Lloyd line $14,946,000 in war claims.

The George Washington, the original name, and the American, christened Amerikan, were refurbished for trans-Atlantic trade late in the 1920's but a year later were relegated to the back waters to join the other two. Their expensive furnishings were removed long ago.

Gen. Peyton March Is 75.

Actress Settles $125,000 Suit.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27 (AP).—The $125,000 suit brought by Bettie Butler, actress, against Al Rogell, film director, has been settled out of court. Miss Butler's attorney, who asked for dismissal of the action in Superior Court, declined to reveal terms. Miss Butler charged Rogell promised to marry her but, instead, he married the divorced wife of producer Jack L. Warner.

Bicycle Lassoed by Truck.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Dec. 27 (AP).—Driver and police were at a loss to figure how a bicycle happened to be dangling from a chain at the rear of a heavy truck. They then found Billy Duke waiting for his bike some miles down the road. He said the swinging truck chain had neatly lassoed the bicycle and tossed him to the pavement unhurt.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS TO BE CUT TO PAY LOWER AGE GROUP

12 Pct. Reduction Considered to Take in Estimated 30,000 Added by Changing Limit to 65.

The State Social Security Commission, at its meeting here Friday, is expected to order a reduction of about 12 per cent in State old-age pensions, in order to provide assistance to about 30,000 additional persons who will be eligible after Jan. 1 for pensions under the lowering of the age limit from 70 to 65.

The commission, which received a biennial appropriation of $35,000,000 in State and Federal funds for pensions, has spent about $17,200,000, or nearly half, in pensions to more than 78,000 persons above 70 years of age in 1939. This leaves $17,800,000 for pensions next year to those already on the rolls and those who qualify under the reduced age limit.

Nardin's Statement.

William T. Nardin, vice-chairman of the commission, told a Post-Dispatch reporter today it was obvious that a cut in individual allotments would have to be made, as the funds left would not take care of the increased rolls at the December average of $18.89 a month.

"The commission cannot take the position of continuing the present assistance to those now on the rolls and denying pensions to the new applicants who qualify," he declared. "The only thing that can be done is to make the money we have left do for all of them."

Nardin said it appeared now that the reduction would be about 12 per cent, although that figure may have to be revised later depending upon the number of new pensioners and the time it takes to certify them to the rolls.

The problem has been discussed at previous meetings by members of the commission and administrative officials, and the opinion expressed that a greater reduction might be necessary to carry the new load.

Effective Next Monday.

The lower age limit, effective Monday, was authorized by voters through approval of an amendment to the State Constitution. It was necessary that the State permit the payment of pensions to all persons in need over 65 years of age, in order to receive Federal grants.

In December, pensions were paid to 78,743 persons, a record high for Missouri. It has been estimated that there are about 130,000 persons in the State between the age of 65 and 70, and that about 30,000 will be eligible for the pensions. Nardin said the commission would begin to receive the new applications Tuesday.

Some Extra Session Talk.

There has been some demand made on Gov. Stark to call a special session of the Legislature to provide more pension money, although the chief demand for an extra session has resulted from the inadequacy of direct relief funds. So far, the Governor has indicated that he would not call a special session.

The last Legislature appropriated $17,500,000 in State funds for old age pensions for 1939-40. The Federal Government matches State grants dollar-for-dollar.

The commission, in presenting its estimated needs for the biennium to the Legislature, said it would require a minimum of $19,500,000 in State funds for old age pensions, in view of the lowering of the age limit in 1940. Had that amount been appropriated, the commission would have had a total of $39,000,000 for the biennium, or $4,000,000 more than it received.

EVIDENCE OF SABOTAGE REPORTED BY MURPHY

Spies Also at Work in Michigan, He Says—Findings to Go to Grand Jury.

DETROIT, Dec. 27 (AP).—Attorney-General Frank Murphy said today evidence of sabotage and espionage in Detroit, Flint and Lansing, Mich., will be presented next week in Washington to a special grand jury.

Murphy withheld details, but the automotive industry and the War Department have been co-operating for some time on various projects connected with munitions and armament.

"There are foreign agents at work in this country and we know who they are," the Attorney-General declared. "They will be prosecuted. But we have no intention of impinging the rights of any person, however obscure. No man is going to be prosecuted for his political faith or what he writes or what he says. But where a man has violated the law he will be prosecuted."

SUIT TO DISBAR MONETT ATTORNEYS IS DISMISSED

Springfield (Mo.) Appellate Court Throws Out Charges Against F. P. Sizer and W. J. Myres.

The recommendation of Commissioner Alfred Page that disbarment charges against Fielding P. Sizer and William J. Myres, Monett (Mo.) lawyers, be dismissed because the charges were not supported by the evidence, was upheld yesterday by the Springfield (Mo.) Court of Appeals. Notice of this action was received by Charles M. Hay, attorney who defended the law partners against the charges which were filed by the Missouri State Bar Advisory Committee.

Sizer and Myres, widely known Southwestern Missouri attorneys, were charged with unethical conduct in a suit filed in the Court of Appeals in December, 1937. Page, a Springfield lawyer appointed commissioner, reported his findings to the Appellate Court last July and held the lawyers should be exonerated. State Senator Nick T. Cave of Columbia, who prosecuted the case, asked for a review of the commissioner's findings by the entire court.

Hay said today he thought the action of the Springfield court would end the case. Sizer was a defendant in a disbarment action in 1926, when Sizer and his partner at that time, H. A. Gardner, were exonerated of unprofessional conduct by the Missouri Supreme Court.

1939 INCOME LEVY ON FEDERAL AND STATE EMPLOYES

Missouri to Require Tax Under U. S. Supreme Court Decision It Has Power to Do So.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 27.—Officials and employes of the Federal Government and its agencies, whose homes are in Missouri and who heretofore have not been subjected to the State income tax, will be required to pay the Missouri income tax on their incomes from Federal sources in 1939, State Auditor Forrest Smith said today.

The Auditor, in preparing to collect the State tax from all Federal incomes of Missourians, is proceeding under a decision of the United States Supreme Court last March, holding that the Federal Government can tax the incomes of State employes and the State can tax the incomes of Federal employes.

Washington Plans to Collect.

At the same time the Federal Government is preparing to levy the Federal income tax on incomes of employes of the State and its subdivisions, Smith said. The Auditor said he had furnished the Federal Government with a list of the payroll of his department, for Federal income tax purposes, and that other State departments were doing likewise.

Smith said it was his understanding that the Federal Government planned to collect Federal income tax from state, county and municipal officers and employes in Missouri not heretofore subjected to the Federal tax. This would include the municipal payroll of St. Louis, it was said.

The auditor said he was preparing to ask the proper Federal officials in the Eastern and Western districts of Missouri for complete lists of Federal salary and wage payments during 1939 to persons residing in Missouri. These lists will be checked against the returns filed.

No Retroactive Action.

He said his department, which has supervision of administration of the State income tax law, would make no effort to collect the State tax on Federal income received in years prior to 1939, despite the removal of exemptions by the Supreme Court decision unless the Federal Government applied the decision retroactively to State employes. He expressed the view the collections should not be made back of 1939.

The Auditor expressed the view that a Federal official or employe, whose home address was in Missouri but who actually was employed in Washington or some state other than Missouri, would be subject to the Missouri State income tax on his income from Federal sources in the same manner as such an official or employe both residing and working in Missouri.

and W. C. Reidel, secretary of Local 1102. John Ring Jr., director of the Industrial Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, took part in the discussion.

Ring said he had made a preliminary investigation which indicated that wages in electrical appliance plants in Indiana are from 10 to 30 per cent higher than in St. Louis. Sentner said the company and the union, which represents production employes, were on friendly terms. Ninety per cent of the workers have stated they would move with the firm, but Sentner expressed the opinion that less than 50 per cent would actually break St. Louis ties and leave.

Executive Committeemen.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Executive Committee are: Wilbur B. Jones, attorney, chairman; W. L. Hemingway, president Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co.; Alex Fraser, president Shell Oil Co.; A. M. Keller, Paul Brown & Co.; W. J. Bramman, executive vice-president Mississippi Valley Trust Co.; Charles Belknap, executive vice-president Monsanto Chemical Co.; C. W. Gaylord, president Gaylord Container Corporation; W. B. McMillan, president Hussmann-Ligonier Co.; A. G. Drefs, vice-president McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Co., and Dysart.

The Emersoncompany,which has been in business here for 50 years, had one of the most stubborn sit-down strikes of record in 1937. An agreement made with the CIO terminating the strike has been renewed annually and last October workers received a raise in basic wages.

Gov. Lloyd C. Stark will receive a union committee at Jefferson City next Wednesday to discuss the campaign to keep the Emerson firm from moving.

Chicago & Southern Air Lines is another company which recently announced it would leave St. Louis. The announcement said the air-line headquarters and overhaul base at Lambert-St. Louis Field, employing 100 persons, would be moved next summer to Memphis, Tenn., where the city had promised to build a $150,000 hangar.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Kleinhoffer, Kirkwood disputed today the report of a St. Louis County deputy sheriff that an automobile driven by their son, Carl Kleinhoffer, crashed against a freight train Friday on Big Bend road east of Kirkwood because he dozed at the wheel.

The Kleinhoffers said that their son, 25 years old, was in a "dazed" condition when he made the statement to the deputy sheriff and that he later told them he could not remember how the accident happened. He suffered concussion of the brain.

85 MILES OF SIDEWALK LAID IN CITY BY W P A

Work Done in Conjunction With 13,000 Property Owners in Last 20 Months.

The WPA, in conjunction with about 13,000 property owners, has constructed 85 miles of 5-foot sidewalk in the city in the last 20 months, at a total cost of $780,000. The property owners have spent $275,000 for materials and the WPA $505,000 for labor.

The average expen to the property owners has been 14½ cents a square foot, compared to a cost of 35 cents a foot if the city had done the work under the tax bill method. About 27 miles of old brick-type sidewalks have been replaced with the newer non-skid, rough trowel finish concrete walks.

The sidewalk construction projects were started by the WPA after the City Counselor's office suggested the work in an attempt to reduce the number of damage suits against the city, growing out of accidents caused by faulty or rough sidewalks. The work has given employment to 450 men, and will be continued if other property owners are willing to furnish the materials to have their sidewalks replaced.

COUNTY LOCAL OPTION DRIVE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEST PLAINS, Mo., Dec. 27.—Voters in Howell County may get an opportunity next spring to decide whether they decide the county to be wet or dry. Members of the W. C. T. U. plan to circulate petitions to bring the question to a vote.

The campaign was started at a meeting in Willow Springs—and Howell County may be the first in the State to submit the question of local option to the voters.

U. S. HEALTH GRANTS ON BASIS OF NEED

Method of Allocation Explained to St. Louis County Officials at Conference.

St. Louis County health and budgeting officers obtained their first explanation from the State Health Department today of the method by which Federal health grants to the State are allocated to the 114 counties.

The amount for each county, they were informed by W. H. Dorsey, business administrator of the State Health Department, is decided on the basis of need in the discretion of the State Health Commissioner, Dr. Harry F. Parker. As a result of a recent discussion between Dr. Parker and Dr. Malvern B. Clopton, president of the State Board of Health, Dorsey conferred at Clayton today with County Health Commissioner Theodore R. Meyer and Comptroller Clarence Hackmann.

Presiding Judge Clifford Corelli of the County Court has sought to learn why, if State health funds are matched dollar for dollar by Federal aid, the county should not get, dollar for dollar, Federal aid equal to the share it raises for the matching funds.

The county has been getting less than half the dollar-for-dollar amount. Inquiry is stimulated by the rising budget entailed in the last two years in the first significant attempt to meet the health demands of the county's extensive metropolitan and rural areas, under a Public Health Service plan whereby the service lends Dr. Meyer to the county and pays his salary.

Dorsey confirmed the impression that the Federal aid, from the Children's Bureau and the Public Health Service, match the State funds dollar for dollar. The State Health Department, he explained, returns to the counties the full amount it has borrowed for matching purposes, plus that share of Federal aid which the department finds justified on the basis of need.

On that basis, he said, the more prosperous counties might obtain a little less than the amount which they had matched, while poorer counties would receive a greater proportionate share because of greater need. Without that method, he said, rural health would be neglected.

For the fiscal year begun last July 1, said Dorsey, St. Louis County raised $55,000 matching funds which were returned to the county plus Federal aid totaling $24,650. He cited that St. Louis contributed $106,000 matching funds, but obtained only $46,700 through State allocation of Federal aid.

Dorsey was unable to enlighten the county officials on administrative matters of concern to them in planning health projects such as pneumonia control. They asked him to communicate their inquiry on those concerns to administrative officers at Jefferson City, and told him they would convey his picture of the general setup to the County Court.

CARTER AND JONES LAW FIRM TO BECOME CARTER AND SMALL

Former Judge to Withdraw and Four New Partners Will Be Added.

The law firm of Carter & Jones, whose application for a fee of $75,000 in the Public Service Co. reorganization was disallowed in its entirety last week, will become Carter & Small next Monday, with the withdrawal of former Circuit Judge William T. Jones and the addition of four new partners.

Emmet T. Carter said the withdrawal of Jones and rearrangement of the firm had no connection with disallowance of the fee claim. The claim was for protecting interests of eight of the nine banks which had lent $10,000000 to the Public Service Co.

He said Jones would continue in the practice of law with William H. Biggs, now an associate of the law firm. New partners, now office associates of the firm, will be James E. Garstang, president of the St. Louis Bar Association; Richard S. Bull, David Baer Jr. and Davis Biggs Jr. Carter, Harold R. Small and W. Frank Carter will remain partners in the firm.

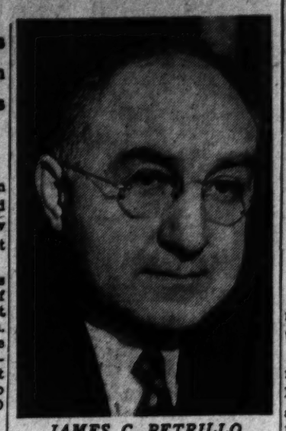
AFL Union Censors Chicago Stage, Bars Mention of CIO or John Lewis

Musicians Force Deletions in Two Productions on Theory Even Knock Is Boost for Rivals.



JAMES C. PETRILLO
Head of the Chicago Musicians' Union.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP). — John L. Lewis and the CIO are tabooed subjects on the Chicago stage now because a rival union leader doesn't like either one.

Two current stage productions carried references to Lewis, head of the CIO, when they opened but last night there was no mention of him.

James C. Petrillo, president of the AFL Chicago Musicians' Union, imposed the bar on the theory that even uncomplimentary references to the rival unionist served as CIO propaganda.

The productions affected by his ruling were George White's "Scandals" at the Erlanger and "The Man Who Came to Dinner" at the Harris. A reference to Lewis in "Hellzapoppin" will be deleted before the show opens at the Grand Opera House.

The theaters faced the risk of losing their orchestras—all organized under the AFL—if they defied Petrillo.

Sam Gerson, manager of the Harris, first reported that deletion of Lewis' name from "The Man Who Came to Dinner" would depend on the attitude of co-authors Moss Hart and George Kaufman.

To which Petrillo replied yesterday:

SIX INJURED, TWO SERIOUSLY, WHEN AUTO SIDESWIPES TRUCK

Driver Says He Swerved to Miss Car Pulling Out of Driveway.

Six persons were injured, two of them seriously, when an automobile in which they were riding sideswiped a truck at St. Charles and Adie roads today.

George Sharp Sr., 48 years old, of Dearborn, Mo., suffered a concussion of the brain, and his daughter, Evelyn Sharp, 11, a fractured pelvis. They were taken to St. Louis County Hospital. Four other passengers in the car were treated for cuts and bruises and released.

The car was driven by George Sharp Jr., 22 years old, of Independence, Mo., who told deputy sheriffs he was going west in St. Charles road and was forced to swerve toward the center of the road to avoid striking another automobile which had pulled out of a filling station.

His car collided with an eastbound truck driven by Edward Ahrens of St. Charles. Neither driver was injured.

TWO JACKSON DAY DINNERS BUT ON DIFFERENT DATES

Factional Rupture at Springfield, Mo., Originally Made Choice Hard for Officials.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 27 (AP).—The elective State officials have found a way through the dilemma of a double Jackson day dinner in Springfield, Mo., next month.

The Jackson day dinner has been an important political function for Democrats for years—increasingly so in campaign years such as 1940.

This winter, however, a long-smoldering row between factions in Springfield, developed into an open rupture with resultant plans for two dinners. The Greene County Women's Democratic Club will hold its dinner on Jan. 8. Two days earlier the Greene County Central Committee will be host.

Secretary of State Dwight Brown, Auditor Forrest Smith, Treasurer Robert Winn and Attorney-General Roy McKittrick didn't know which dinner was the more important. But that's been settled. They'll attend both dinners.

WESTMINSTER PL. PAIR FILES SUIT TO BAR ROOMING HOUSES

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis M. Rumsey, 4372 Westminster place, to enjoin the use of property at 4400-04 Westminster, 4411 Westminster and 4481 Westminster as boarding and rooming houses. They allege that such use is in violation of restrictions originally executed in 1891 when the neighborhood was subdivided.

The restrictions, the petition alleges, were designed to keep the subdivision exclusively for individual homes. The provision has been extended from time to time by agreement of owners, the last renewal continuing it until April 29, 1942, the petition states.

Mrs. Elizabeth Alberts, 3936 Westminster, owner of 4481; Walter F. Clogston, 2362 South Milton avenue, Overland, owner of 4411, and the Hartwig-Dischinger Realty Co., owner of 4400-04, are named defendants.

SAN RAFAEL, Cal., Dec. 27 (AP).—A Hamilton field sentry surprised a prowler last night examining a bombing plane.

The plane was in the open because hangar facilities are not sufficient to house all the aircraft at the base. Air base officials said the sentry fired three times into the darkness as the prowler fled, after the command to halt.

JUDGE PONDERS RULING IN SUIT TO REMOVE NICK

Takes Under Advisement Plea to Make Permanent or Dissolve Temporary Injunction.

The suit asking for the permanent ouster of John P. Nick, theatrical union boss, and Clyde A. Weston, former business agent, from control of Movie Operators' Local Union 143 was taken under advisement today by Circuit Judge Ernest F. Oakley.

Munro Roberts, attorney for intervenors, announced to the Court that the defense would offer no further evidence, and that his side would rest. Robert A. Roessell, attorney for members of Local 143, who are petitioning the removal of Nick and Weston, also rested his case. The case had been in recess since last Friday.

Roberts gave an oral review of the evidence in lieu of a written brief. Roessell said he would submit briefs covering legal points at issue.

Attorneys for Nick and Weston failed to file an answer in the suit, and were not permitted to present a defense. The defense offered by the intervenors was confined, by Court decree, to the issue raised in their answer, attacking the right of the petitioners to sue because of alleged failure to use every means available to obtain relief under the union rules.

The hearing was to determine whether a temporary injunction issued last April by Judge Oakley should be made permanent, or be dissolved. The petitioners testified that Nick exercised a czar-like control over the organization after taking charge in 1935, and that members feared to protest after being threatened with the loss of their jobs.

Nick and Edward M. (Putty-Nose) Brady, a State Representative, are under charges of extortion growing out of the payment of $10,000 to Brady during wage negotiations between Nick and movie theater owners in 1936. Nick and Weston were charged with extortion involving a $7000 payment in similar circumstances in 1937.

CARBONITE SOLARITE

—TWIN RAYS OF HOPE ON A SMOKY MORNING

Smoke has finally assumed its proper place in the day's news, which is good. It is no longer being taken for granted.

Carbonite and Solarite, twin rays of smokeless hope, mark the beginning of the end. They both answer the specifications, which are—

A CHEAP SMOKELESS FUEL MADE OF ILLINOIS COAL

Both are smokeless and sootless. Both are made of Illinois coal.

Both are inexpensive. These fuels sell for more than soft coal by the ton, but in processing, the smoke-producing substances are removed, increasing efficiency and useful heat value. When the facts are considered, it can be understood that these fuels compare with soft coal in cost, over a heating year.

In addition, increased production of anything sends down costs. There is no reason why this shouldn't be true of Carbonite and Solarite. Therefore, by burning them you can help to make them even cheaper.

As in the past, production will be increased as demand increases. Call your fuel dealer. Do your part.

PENDERGAST CHIEF IN HOUSE RUNS FOR M'KITTRICK'S POST

FOUGHT REFORM OF CRIMINAL CODE

Opposed Gov. Stark's Bill to Put Kansas City Police Under State Government Control.

By CURTIS A. BETTS

Representative John D. Taylor of Keytesville, Pendergast machine leader in the Missouri House of Representatives, and also leader of the bloc opposed to criminal code reform, today formally announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Attorney-General in the 1940 primary.

Taylor's formal declaration was filed with the Secretary of State this morning, the first for any of the major races.

In his formal announcement Taylor said: "As to my fitness and qualification for the office of Attorney-General I am perfectly willing to be judged by my public and professional record." He directed attention to his 35 years as a practicing attorney and to a broad knowledge of the State government gained through many years as a legislator and in three sessions of the Legislature as chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations.

Opposed Government Reform.

Recognized as a lawyer of ability, Taylor has had an extensive practice in all the courts. In the Legislature he has been a shrewd and forceful leader, a fluent speaker and a master at parliamentary maneuver. Usually he has opposed legislation proposed to modernize the State government.

Through many sessions he has directed the opposition to bills designed to revise the criminal code to abolish the technicalities on which criminals frequently are able to win acquittals regardless of the evidence.

During the past session of the Legislature he was in frequent conflict with Gov. Stark, and directed the Pendergast machine forces in their opposition to the Governor's bill to divorce crime and politics through removal of control of the Kansas City Police Department from the Pendergast political machine to the State Government.

Taylor as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, which he dominated, directed the writing of all appropriation bills. The expenditures under the bills framed by this committee has now brought the State to a condition of virtual bankruptcy, the general revenue fund being practically depleted. The committee rejected appeals of the Social Security Commission, the Governor, Mayor Dickmann and many others for adequate funds for direct relief expenditures.

Rejected Relief Request.

Although the commission fixed $12,500,000 as the amount needed for relief for a two-year period, and the Governor said $9,000,000 was the absolute minimum, Taylor's committee reported a bill limiting the amount to $5,000,000. However, when the Senate increased it to $6,500,000 Taylor supported the Senate amendment, which finally was adopted.

While limiting direct relief to less than requirements, the committee reported in favor of an appropriation of $19,500,000 for old age pensions, making ample provision for all on the pension rolls.

The Senate cut the pension allotment to $17,500,000 and Taylor supported the bill at that figure after a conference committee had recommended it.

Taylor is 56 years old, and has served five terms in the House and one in the Senate.

First Bid for State Office.

Although he has been active in politics for 35 years, he has not been a candidate for a State office before. In 1932, when Congressional candidates were nominated at large, he sought the nomination for Congress, and was on the Pendergast slate of candidates. Even with that backing, however, he failed to win the nomination, being the only one of the Pendergast candidates to fail.

Whether Taylor will have opposition for the nomination for Attorney-General probably depends upon a decision by Attorney-General Roy McKittrick as to whether to be a candidate for the nomination for Governor or to run again for Attorney-General. McKittrick and Taylor are both from Chariton County, where they have long been political feudists, and personal enemies. Attention was directed to this personal animosity by Taylor several months ago, when in talking informally of his expected candidacy, he said: "The office of Attorney-General has been vacant for more than 20 years and I think it's about time the State had an Attorney-General."

Without formal announcement, Taylor has been conducting his campaign for more than two months.

Wilson Bell in Democratic Race for State Treasurer.

Wilson Bell, publisher of the Independent-Journal at Potosi, has announced he will be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Treasurer. He has been a member of the State Democratic Committee since 1930 and treasurer of the Missouri Press Association since 1932. He was chairman of the speakers' bureau in Gov. Stark's campaign in 1935.

63 PCT. OF ALL TAXES PAID BY CONSUMERS

Morgenthau Cites Figures to Support Objection to Processing Levy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau estimates that 63.1 per cent of all American taxes in 1938 were paid by consumers.

The Treasury secretary cited the figures in support of a statement he made last week objecting to proposed processing taxes to pay farm benefits.

Among the consumer taxes he listed tobacco, gasoline, liquor, real estate, import and other levies.

Of the $14,811,000,000 in taxes collected by Federal, State and local governments in 1938, Morgenthau said 32 per cent came from property, 2.4 per cent from customs duties, 10 from gasoline and other motor vehicle taxes, 9.9 from liquor and tobacco taxes and 8.8 per cent from sales taxes and other excises.

Not listed by Morgenthau as consumer taxes were 10.6 per cent from individual income taxes, 3.8 from inheritance and gift taxes, 12 from corporate income and privilege taxes, 9.8 from pay roll levies and .7 from miscellaneous sources.

The same tabulation divided the national tax bill into $6,034,000,000 for the Federal Government, $3,857,000,000 for State governments and $4,920,000,000 for local governments.

HENRY L. DOHERTY, CITIES SERVICE CO. HEAD, DIES AT 69

Wealthy Utility and Oil Man Succumbs to Bronchial Pneumonia at Temple U. Hospital.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27 (AP).—Henry L. Doherty, head of the far-flung Cities Service Co., died last night of bronchial pneumonia. He was 69 years old.

At his bedside in Temple University Hospital were his wife, Mrs. Grace Doherty, and W. A. Jones, executive vice-president of Cities Service.

For years a sufferer from arthritis, Doherty had been undergoing one of periodic treatments. His physician, Dr. Charles Leonard Brown, said he was stricken with pneumonia two weeks ago.

Doherty had ignored the handicap of illness to carry on his business affairs. His last work was promotion of various laboratory researches which close associates described as among the most significant of his career.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church, New York. Interment will be at Woodlawn Cemetery.

Born in Columbus, O.

Doherty was born in Columbus, O., on May 15, 1870. He was a newsboy at the age of 10, gas company manager at 20, and had amassed a fortune of millions at 40.

He served as engineer or manager of Public Utility Companies at Madison, Wis., St. Paul, Minn., San Antonia, Tex., Denver, Colo., and 25 other cities until 1905 when he organized the Henry L. Doherty & Co. He had since managed the firm which served as bankers and operators of public utility corporations.

In 1910 he launched Cities Service. Under his guidance, it became an enterprise of international dimensions. By 1929 its asserts in utilities and oil holdings totaled more than a billion dollars.

He owned the Miami Biltmore Hotel, built at Coral Gables during the Florida boom at a cost of $10,000,000. Years ago he was listed as a director of 95 corporations and president of 87 of them.

In 1898 he was awarded the first Beall gold medal by the American Gas Light Association for his paper, "Gas For Fuel.' He was long recognized as one of the leaders in the United States on gas and electric arts and industries and a leader in a movement for oil conservation through means of unit operation of pools under Federal control.

He was the patentee of many combustion processes and apparatus and was the originator of many standard practices in the industry. In 1930 the Franklin Institute awarded him the Walton Clark medal in consideration of his work in developing the manufactured gas industry."

In his laboratories were perfected a cooler system for preparing artificial gas, new distillation methods for petroleum, and other devices.

Unrelenting Energy.

Those who knew Doherty said he literally burned himself out by the unrelenting energy with which he pushed his varied projects.

From 1927 onward he fought ill health as well as the business enemies who rose in his wake as he plowed ahead toward his objectives. For almost six years he had to leave the day-by-day direction of Cities Service to subordinates while he struggled against arthritis and bronchial troubles. Then, on the eve of his sixty-second birthday, he celebrated his return to regular activity by blowing a whistle and making an address over a radio hook-up in which the sound waves first traveled over a beam of light reflected from the moon.

It was typical of the Doherty tradition that this pile was on the site of a 26-story building in which he rented his first small suite of New York offices in 1905. Nineteen years later he bought the structure for $2,600,000 and in another eight years replaced it with the big tower.

It was typical, too, that Doherty's residence and offices were under one roof. To save time in getting from bed to desk and vice versa, he fitted up the top stories of his buildings as dwellings and was credited with starting the penthouse idea. To meet a New York statute which allowed only janitors to dwell in business buildings, Doherty and those who followed his example, were listed in city records as janitors of their structures.

Cities Service Expansion.

"60 Wall Tower" typified too the expansion of Cities Service Co. Doherty had come from Denver in 1905 to found an investment banking firm for financing, reorganizing and managing public utility concerns. By 1910 the business had expanded to the point where Cities Service was formed as an operating corporation, with Doherty as president. On the eve of the 1929 crash in Wall street it had assets of more than $900,000,000.

Its physical properties included 4600 producing oil wells, 900 miles of pipe lines, 300 tank cars and 11 ocean-going tankers. It possessed equipment to generate 536,000 kilowatts of electricity. It owned 1700 natural gas wells, discharging into 3400 miles of pipe lines, and also had 3000 miles of artificial gas mains supplied by concomitant plants.

He pioneered too in the merchandising of household appliances by public utility companies as a means of increasing the consumption of electricity and gas. He used radio, billboard and newspaper advertising to forward the campaign.

Stockholders' Suit.

His projects, sweeping in character, aroused much opposition and he was a party to numerous suits. Probably the most extensive of these was a case brought by minority stockholders of Cities Service in September, 1936. It alleged that Doherty and some of his close friends had profited personally by $20,500,000 by manipulating shares of the company while their market value was sinking by $80,000,000, and demanding an accounting for these sums. This $100,000,000 suit came to trial in January, 1937, but was halted by Doherty's offer to settle for $1,250,000 provided this step was approved by a majority of the stockholders.

Doherty wrote this offer from a hospital bed in Philadelphia. It was approved by the stockholders on March 16, 1937, but when the case was taken up in court again, the approval vote was challenged on grounds of coercion. A proposal that the court move to Doherty's bedside was overruled, but a written questionnaire was submitted to the ill man and in a deposition filed June 23 he denied he had attempted to influence stockholders to vote for the proposed settlement.

Newspaper Fight.

In 1931 Doherty also figured in a sharp controversy with the Kansas City Star. The newpaper campaigned for lower gas rates and centered its editorial attack upon Doherty. The Kansas State Banking Department barred the sale of certain Cities Service securities. Doherty carried his side of the fight to the Kansas Governor, Postmaster-General and Secretary of Commerce and purchased an interest in the Kansas City Journal-Post.

He won wide acclaim, too, by his management of the Roosevelt birthday balls for the benefit of the Warm Springs Foundation for crippled children in Georgia and after the 1934 series a check for $1,000,000 went to the foundation.

Doherty's devotion to business kept him a bachelor until he was well past his fifty-eighth birthday. Then his marriage was secret, so far as the public was concerned, for several months.

The ceremony took place Dec. 11, 1928, at Toronto, Canada. Mrs. Doherty, the widow of Percy Frank Eames, a former official of the International Harvester Co., had supervised the nursing of Doherty through a two-year attack of illness. She was 40 years old and the mother of Helen Lee Eames, who took her stepfather's name.

Doherty was the son of Scotch-Irish parents. His education, so far as schools go, was meager, for he quit the classroom when he was 10 years old.

President Sends Message of Sympathy to Mrs. Doherty.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt sent a message of sympathy today to the widow of Henry L. Doherty who died last night in Philadelphia.

Doherty had contributed time and money to the balls given every Jan. 30 in celebration of President Roosevelt's birthday to raise funds to combat infantile paralysis.

SOVIET FIRM, OFFICERS FINED $2500 BY U. S.

Two Russians Admit Violating Foreign Agent Registration Act—One to Leave.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Two Russian agents and a Soviet corporation pleaded guilty today of violating the Foreign Agent Registration Act and were fined a total of $2500. Boris Nikolsky, president of Bookniga, Inc., and I. A. Ilyin, secretary-treasurer, admitted a charge of withholding material information in registering themselves and the corporation with the State Department. They pleaded guilty before Justice Jennings Bailey about an hour after indictment by a Federal grand jury.

Nikolsky was assessed a $1000 fine and said he would return to Russia on the next available boat. Ilyin was fined $500. Justice Department officials explained that Ilyin had not been asked to leave the country and that his fine was smaller because he was less deeply involved than Nikolsky.

It also was agreed that Bookniga, Inc., which was fined $1000, would be dissolved and that a book shop in New York through which Russian literature had been disseminated would be closed.

The fines were the maximum under the statute.

Stokowski to Direct All-American Youth Group; Applicants Must Be Under 25.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Aubrey Williams, administrator, today announced that the National Youth Administration would provide 109 musicians for an all-American youth orchestra to tour Central and South America.

He described the undertaking as a "good will" tour in co-operation with the Pan-American Union. Williams set no date for the tour.

Leopold Stokowski, noted conductor and former head of the WPA music project, will have charge of the tour and direct the performances, Williams said. Stokowski will hold preliminary auditions in six or eight central cities with final selection of applicants to be made in a national audition, perhaps in New York.

Musicians under 25 years old, whether NYA workers or not, may apply irrespective of sex, color or creed to the 51 state NYA offices for tryouts.

JOSEPHINE DILLON
Former wife of Clark Gable.

Josephine Dillon to Be Head Dramatic Coach at Columbia (Mo.) School.

Miss Dillon wants to be known by that name and not as Mrs. Gable, or as the former wife of the man she married 16 years ago.

"I have to be very careful that people don't confuse me with the second Mrs. Gable," she said yesterday. "I say 'I am Mrs. Josephine Dillon Hollywood Gable and not Mrs. Rhea Langham Houston Texas Gable (Gable's second wife).'"

Miss Dillon, who coached 28 people including Gable for the part of Rhett Butler in "Gone With the Wind," said that as their first assignment her students would make a movie, showing the transition that takes place from the time a girl enters college as a homesick freshman to the day she is graduated as a senior.

Cuban Elections Postponed.

HAVANA, Dec. 27 (AP). — The general elections scheduled for next Feb. 28 will be postponed until March 30, when Cuba's "Strong Man," Fulgencio Batista, will be a candidate for president. The postponement was agreed on, after President Federico Laredu Bru held a long conference with leaders of the parties opposing the Government.

WAGER, TIGERS' NO. 3 QUARTERBACK, TO MISS BOWL GAME

Cape Girardeau's Strategy Beats Cleveland, 27 to 25

Leaders Decline a Free Throw, Retain Possession of Ball

Defending Champions in Normandy Tournament, St. Louis U. High, Meet Glasgow, Mo., Tonight at 7:30 —Ben Blewett in Surprise Victory.

NORMADY HIGH SCHOOL, Dec. 27.—Cape Girardeau basketball players resorted to a smart defensive maneuver to check a last minute rush of Cleveland High and the boys from Southeast Missouri came off with a 27 to 25 victory in their Normandy invitation tournament game here this afternoon.

After trailing throughout the game despite some remarkable shooting by Forward Ralph Paul, Cleveland closed a gap in the third quarter (the period ended 17 to 23 against them) and then fought desperately for a tie score.

Paul finally tied the count at 25-all with a minute and 50 seconds remaining. Then, Jack Behrens of Cape tipped in a set-up to put Cape back in the lead at 27-25 but the danger was not passed. With 10 seconds to go, Pavlick of Cleveland fouled Telle of Cape, but instead of taking the free shot, Cape elected to take the ball out of bounds, thus insuring possession and making its two-point lead safe. Taking a free shot or taking possession of the ball outside is optional under the rules this year.

Cleveland gained an easy 27-11 victory over Troy in the first round yesterday, Coach Jack Noon's five taking an early lead and romping for the remainder of the distance. Cape drew a first round bye.

McKinley had a decisive edge over Clayton throughout the second game of the afternoon and won handily, 33 to 20.

A Nip and Tuck Affair.

South Side Catholic had to come from behind several times to push Wellston from the championship bracket, 27-26. Don Schultz put the Prep League school in the lead, 21-20, with only two minutes of play remaining, but Milton Serkes gave Wellston the lead with a field goal. Bill Metz sank a set-up to put South Side ahead, but Ken Johnson came back with a long shot from the floor to give Wellston a 24-23 advantage. Then Bob Wagner took his turn at a long shot to give the Green Wave a 25-24 lead. Milton Serkes took the lead back for Wellston, 26-25, with a setup and with only 15 seconds remaining Schultz, who scored six baskets during the game, again went into action to give the South Side quintet a 27-26 victory with a one-handed overhead shot from the foul circle.

South Side's opponent in the second round will be Soldan. The Tigers made short work of Crystal City in winning, 41-28.

Ben Blewett surprised by defeating Coach Bill Klemm's C. B. C. squad, 22-21. This was another nip and tuck affair, with Blewett tying the score at 20-all with three minutes of play remaining in the last quarter. A field goal by Groerich

McCormick Second Of Reds to Sign a Two-year Contract

CINCINNATI, Dec. 27 (AP). — Frank McCormick, Cincinnati Reds' first baseman sent back his signature yesterday on a contract to do business at the old stand for the next two years. The consideration was reported to be around $16,000 a year.

McCormick is the twelfth Red to sign for 1940 and the second to get a two-year contract. The other was Pitcher Bucky Walters.

Suffers Injury to Knee When He Is Tackled in Drill

Other Missouri Cripples Are Rounding Into Top Condition—Indications Point to a Wide Open Battle When Elevens Meet on New Year's Day.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27.—Both Coach Don Faurot of Missouri and Bill Alexander of Georgia Tech have retired into a state of almost Yogi-like tacticurnity, but smoke signals arising from the embattled Orange Bowl camps today definitely indicated a wide open-score-from-anyplace game here New Year's afternoon.

Missouri, staying after school to make up for the Christmas day holiday, yesterday was sent through its first contact drills since arriving here. There was no slam-bang work, but Faurot kept the Tigers moving under a hot Coral Gables sun for more than two hours.

Paul Christman, the blond bomber, was tossing passes most of the afternoon, and was hitting his marks with almost boring regularity. "I like this weather," he grinned. "Sure keeps the old whip oiled up."

Wager Twists Knee.

Dan Wager, 170-pound No. 3 Missouri quarterback, was injured yesterday and probably will not be able to play. He twisted his left knee when he was tackled by fullback Bill Cunningham. After the practice he said that from the way it felt, he won't go up against Georgia Tech New Year's day.

The injury will not be serious to the Tigers unless Paul Christman or Dick Gale, first and second quarterbacks, should be knocked out, too. Christman has been a four-quarter player all season, but football being what it is you never can tell.

Paul Meyers, who sprang a charley horse in one of the first workouts, was back on the field with hardly a limp, but Blaine Currence, suffering from the same ailment, did only a little signal drill and pass-catching, winding up with a slow job along the field.

Darold Jenkins, who has a boil, was not in uniform but seems to be improving.

Ronald King, the out-of-bounds kicker, worked out at top speed, so apparently his injured knee is fully healed.

Currence Improves.

Faurot's stock soared slightly when it appeared (as an unconfirmed rumor) that Blaine Currence, his star punter, would be able to go against the Yellow Jackets. Currence played a round of golf Christmas day while his mates were fishing the gulf stream and reported that his leg was much improved.

A slight change of strategy leaked out of the dusk of secrecy surrounding the Georgia Tech battlements. Previously scheduled for scrimmage yesterday and today, Alexander changed his plans and advised that the Engineers would hold no contact sessions. Yesterday's festivities were confined to passing, signal drill, dummy scrimmage and a general polishing of Tech's dipsey-doodle offense.

What made it seem certain that New Year's game would be one of those open things was the fact that neither Faurot nor Alexander were paying much attention to defense. Neither team has scouted the other and both claim to have no working knowledge of what plays scored touchdowns during the regular season.

Johnny Bosch, Tech's pint-size ball-of-fire, sparked the Tech drills with his dashes off the tackles, interspersed with fake spinners and cutbacks. Timing was good and the squad snapped briskly through its two-hour workout.

Capt. Kenny Haas and Christman were introduced by Ted Husing at Monday night's paralysis fund game between Miami Senior High and Garfield, N. J., in the Orange Bowl. The 12,000 watchers rose and cheered in spontaneous tribute as Christman, flushed and uncomfortable, took his bow. Husing presented Christman as the "kid who single-handed defeated New York University and who stood all New York on its ear."

Both elevens confidently were expected to come out with new offensive weapons for the sixth annual Orange Bowl engagement. Closed-gate drills are the order of the day, following brief public workouts, and it was apparent that both Alexander and Faurot were brewing a witches' broth of touchdown trouble.

Tiger-Tech Game Means a Morning Start for Races

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27.

TROPICAL Park will bow to collegiate football New Year's day. The meeting that day will start at 10:15 a. m., so that sportsmen who also want to see the Orange Bowl football game between Missouri and Georgia Tech can attend the eight-race program and still see the kick-off.

Purpur to Open Game At Omaha

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OMAHA, Neb., Dec. 27.—Resting in first place by a three-game margin, Johnny MacKinnon and his St. Louis Flyers will seek their seventeenth victory of the season, when they clash with the Ak-Sar-Ben Knight's here tonight.

The Flyers hold the edge over the home sextet, having on decisions in the two previous meetings.

With Eido Purpur back in action, Manager Johnny MacKinnon has announced that he will go back to his regular combinations of Purpur, Harnott and Brenneman on one line, and Hergert, Kendall and Miller on the second line, with Duke McDonald as an alternate left wing.

On their last appearance here, the Flyers suffered a damaging blow when Bill Hudson suffered a broken bone in his left hand. Hudson who has been on the ailing list since, is with the team, but will not see action.

Following the game, the teams will return to St. Louis for an engagement Friday night, after which the Flyers will go to Kansas City for a New Year's night game with the Greyhounds.

'Can't Play in Big Ten and Be Honest,'---Chicago U. Officials

"We Did Not Want to Be Crooked," He Says — Protests Against Rules Violations Unavailing.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP).—Behind the University of Chicago's decision to drop football was the conviction that the institution could not continue to play the Big Ten game and remain honest, an authoritative source on the campus revealed today.

Time and again, a spokesman for the school's Board of Trustees said, the Chicago administration protested, to no avail, against violation of the Western Conference rule prohibiting subsidization of players. Finally the trustees voted to abandon the sport, making their decision known last Thursday.

"The University of Chicago could not hope to find football material in the ordinary run-of-the-mine student there comparable to other Big Ten teams without subsidization, and subsidization is forbidden, so there you are," was the view of the trustees, according to their spokesman.

"You can't play Big Ten football without being crooked as far as the league's rules are concerned and they did not want the University of Chicago to be crooked."

The decision to abandon the gridiron sport, it was learned, was not made on the spur of the moment. During the past 15 years the question of dropping out of the Big Ten in football had been discussed repeatedly.

Last October a movement by alumni to find and subsidize players on a private basis made the problem more acute than ever. Since then the trustee's Board of Instruction and Research had met almost weekly to study the case.

Considering the broader aspects of the football problem, the spokesman said it was felt that college football had gotten entirely out of proportion with regard to education as a whole.

"You can't live with it and you can't live without it," he said, adding that the once common practice of scheduling weak teams early in the season had been abandoned because "it is necessary to establish your earning power at the beginning of the season to attract large crowds through the season and thus be able to pay your bills."

Gov. Cooper of Tennessee Will Fly to Coast

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 27 (AP).

GOV. PRENTICE COOPER called off today his proposed flight with seven Tennessee National Guard planes to the West Coast and will travel by commercial airliner tonight to Los Angeles and the Rose Bowl football game.

The Governor cancelled the military trip, which had been authorized by the War Department for training purposes, "in the interest of safety, in view of the inclement weather."

The Governor will arrive in Los Angeles tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. He will head the Tennessee delegation at celebrations incident to the game in which the University of Tennessee will meet the University of Southern California.

Meanwhile, several hundred Tennessee football fans were headed for the game by air, rail and highway.

Free Bid Pays $130, Daily Double, $1097 At Tropical Park

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP).—C. H. Scott's Free Bid, a filly that had won a race two outings back at Narragansett, snatched a photo victory in the second race at Tropical Park today, and became the longest priced winner of the meeting. The daughter of Chance Play, ridden by Apprentice Merle Packer, paid $103.30 for $2 and completed a daily double worth $1097.30 for $2, on which eight tickets were sold. Lina's Son took the opening event and paid $14.40.

Ambuscade, a paddock tip, led Free Bid by a narrow margin until the last stride, where the almost neglected Free Bid poked her head in front. Wildmute, the favorite, finished with a belated rush to earn third money, three lengths behind.

39 Boston College Players Stop Here On Way to Dallas

Boston College football squad of 39 players, headed by Coach Frank Leahy, stopped off in St. Louis this afternoon en route to Dallas, Tex., for the Cotton Bowl game with Clemson College.

"My boys are in great physical condition," said Coach Leahy, "but they are in need of exercise after a long train ride."

The team was scheduled to depart from St. Louis at 7:30 p. m. for Dallas.

Wichita Ends Losing Streak

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 27 (AP).—Manager Danny Cox came through with a goal to end the Wichita Skyhawk's long losing streak, and down Minneapolis, 3 to 2, in an American Hockey Association game last night.

The winning score came at 14:57 in a rough second period, with the Millers one man short. The period's bruising play climaxed in a 10-minute misconduct penalty for burly Ed Coulier, Wichita defense man, who figured in two of the three Hawk scoring plays.

Burton Bowls 299, Gets a Record 751

A No. 5 pin that refused to fall was all that stood in the way of a perfect game for Nelson Burton, St. Louis bowler, last night in the Elks bowling league competition at Feuser's Del-Mar recreation. His 299 together with 211 and 241 set a three-game ecord of 751 to break Cone Hermann's mark of 745. A previous 299 was bowled in the league, by John Meinardi.

Cards Get Two Players From Chicago Cubs for Pitcher Raffensberger

Gene Lilliard, pitcher, and Steve Mesner, an infielder, were obtained by the Cardinals today in a trade with the Chicago Cubs that sent Pitcher Ken Raffensberger to Manager Gabby Hartnett's team.

Raffensberger, a southpaw, 22 years old, won 15 and lost 15 for Rochester of the International League last season.

Mesner, at Milwaukee through the greater part of last season, was sent to San Diego on option by the Cubs a few days ago, and the Cardinals, taking up his contract, have the privilege of recalling him from the Coast League team.

Lilliard, a righthand pitcher, is another Bucky Walters in that he is a converted hurler. After starting out as an infielder, he was pressed into duty last season as a pitcher for the Cubs and came through with three victories and was charged with five defeats.

The Cardinals also obtained an unannounced sum of cash in the deal.

From Chicago came word that the Cubs also, in a straight cash deal, obtained Shortstop Boo Sturgeon from Columbus. Sturgeon, a 19-year-old youngster who bats and throws righthanded, hit .297 for Columbus last season, belting 24 doubles. He fielded .942. He is a 170-pound six footer.

In addition to Sturgeon, Bobby Mattick, Leonard Merullo and the veteran Bill Rogell will be after the regular shortstop position.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs yesterday released five players on option, sending Steve Mesner, shortstop and third baseman, to the San Diego club of the Pacific Coast League to complete the deal for Dominic Dellesandro, hard hitting outfielder obtained by the Cubs.

These players, all with the Moline club of the Three-I League last season, were sent to the Tulsa (Ok.) club of the Texas League; Raymond Campbell, a left-handed pitcher; Bernard Olsen, an outfielder, and Edward Waitkus, a first baseman.

Claire Bertram, a right-handed pitcher with Knoxville, Tenn., last season, also was sent to Tulsa, which next year will be managed by Roy Johnson, formerly a coach with the Cubs.

Granby Tourney Jan. 16-20.

GRANBY, Mo., Dec. 27.—The annual Granby basketball tournament for independent teams of the Ozarks region will be held here Jan. 16 to 20, it was announced today. Cash prizes of $100, $50, $30 and $20 will be given the winning teams.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Gus Sonnenberg Quits.

A BAD heart finally has tossed Gus Sonnenberg out of wrestling and into the discard, ending the career of football's most sensational contribution to wrestling. At least two athletic commissions have barred him because of his physical condition.

Sonnenberg.

The former Dartmouth football player, introducing the "flying tackle" attack, wowed Boston fans to a new pitch of frenzy when he snatched the title away from Big Ed Lewis, who, most wrestling authorities contended, could have thrown Sonnenberg as fast as he could get up from the mat, any day and every day of the year.

Bostonians' enthusiasm for Sonnenberg and his billygoat attack reached such a state of incandescence that it finally ignited the remainder of the country and eventually led to wrestling's great attendance peaks.

NEW AND MORE attractive acrobats entered the game and Gus gradually slid down the ladder in recent years. The profession which flared with his rise seems to be receding with him.

Gus' last match was with no other than Chri Theofeles, alias Jimmy Londos, who at 47 is still publicizing himself as "international wrestling champion." Londos defeated Gus to close the books on their life's series, with only 1700 fans present and only $1100 in the cash register.

What a comedown for two champions, both of whom have made huge fortunes on the mat, both of whom claimed the world title. However, neither was at any time, in the opinion of competent judges of wrestling, entitled to anything like top honors.

In each case success was due not to catch-as-catch-can technique, but to histrionic ability, with a flair for acrobatics thrown in.

The Football Dynasty.

WRESTLING turned to football for recruits some 15 or more years ago. The idea was to pick up already-advertised football stars who needed no publicity buildup to endear them to the public, and also to lure football followers to the ringside for mat shows.

One by one Wayne Munn, Jim McMillen, Sonnenberg, Joe Savoldi, Don George and Bronko Nagurski have come up and gone. By turns each has claimed the championship.

One collegian is still among the more prominent of the dozen or so wrestlers now being publicized as "world champions." Bronko Nagurski, Minnesota's one-time standout football player.

WAYNE MUNN began it, back in the days when Ed Lewis was being managed by Billy Sandow. Rumor had it that Bill also directed Munn, with Gabe Kaufmann as straw manager—but we can't prove that.

You remember Wayne, Nebraskan husky, one of three famous football players of the same family, with Monte the best of all of them. Monte and Wayne were on the squad the year Washington University's famous S. A. T. C. eleven beat Nebraska.

Wayne tried fighting first and was smeared all over the canvas by fourth-raters in a couple of fights. They knocked all the ring ambition out of him. And then he took up wrestling as being a more comfortable profession.

after a free shot by John Murphy, gave Blewett its victory. The team meets Warrenton, which drew a bye in the first round, in a second round match this afternoon.

Beaumont will meet Bland, another outstate team which drew a first round bye, in the first game on tonight's program. The Blue Jackets edged past Normandy, 25-20, as Pie Reid's players tired in the late minutes of the fray.

Champions Gain Victory.

St. Louis U. High opened defense of its title with a 35-19 victory over Ritenour and will meet Glasgow in the second round.

McBride and St. Peter's will battle in the third game. The Prep Leaguers defeated Kirkwood with little trouble, 26-7, while St. Peters won from St. Charles in the wildest of the 11-game program. It was not that the play was particularly rough, but more that both teams were just aggressive and in the game at all times. The final score was 29-12.

Eureka and Maplewood put on a low-scoring exhibition which saw the Blue Devils fail to count until only 40 seconds remained in the first half. Meanwhile, Eureka had been able to gather only six points

The Devils came to life in the last half and finally tied the score at 10-all going into the third quarter. Each team counted four points in the final quarter to send the game into overtime. The County League team won as Manetke sank two charity tosses. Eureka will meet Salem in the day's final contest.

Tournament Notes.

Yesterday's eleven games drew 610 paid admissions plus 400 student tax spectators.

Officials Mike Riegert, R. B. Thompson, F. F. Gaines and H. C. Van Reen handled the games well in view of the fact that several of them threatened to develop into rough-house affairs.

Pairings for the Consolation tournament will be made at the conclusion of today's round.

Missouri Relies on Passes---Tricks Pay Off for Tech

Johnny Bosch, Georgia Tech's tiny backfielder, fooled Georgia on this fake end run and scored from the 9-yard line. Interferers Murphy and Ector swung out toward the right and Bosch, taking the center pass, followed. After the Georgia secondary had been pulled over, Bosch suddenly reversed and shot through right guard. The Tech left tackle pulled out to drive ahead of Bosch and take out the Georgia center.

HOW TO LOSE GUN CONSCIOUSNESS

By Harold Hollis

MANY inexperienced hunters are much less effective shots because they are almost constantly thinking of their guns which keeps them from concentrating upon the object or target which they desire to hit. It is far better to think of the game or target than to divide the attention.

A skillful hunter will handle his gun correctly without being conscious of it at all in making a shot. He of course sights correctly and pulls the trigger at the correct time, but he forgets the gun.

The beginner or novice who is always aware of the length of his gun, the weight of his gun, and the fact that there will be a recoil when the weapon is discharged cannot concentrate in a way to make accuracy certain.

The best plan for the beginner with firearms is to familiarize himself with their reactions and make them his servants by almost force of habit. The man who has shot a great deal will do the correct thing mechanically and be able to concentrate better on his objective.

Much poor shooting when the "chips are down," or when game of any sort is the target can be avoided by practicing some sort of target work. The scatter gun shooters will do well to do some trapshooting before their season for wildfowl opens. This trapshooting is the same in principle as game shooting and will enable the hunter to learn to handle his gun automatically and with proper speed.

Some individuals have better co-ordination than others, but any individual can improve his shooting immeasurably with practice. By trapshooting for practice the mental hazard of live game is avoided and there is no "duck" fever or buck fever.

Practice shooting should be done at a reasonable range which is practical. The gunner should not attempt to shoot at clay pigeons at too great a distance or to hit bull's eyes that are so far away that an Annie Oakley couldn't score well.

There is considerable difference between shooting at an inanimate object and at live game or birds, but the experience gained in target practice of any sort will do much to relieve uneasiness.

Silver Skates Champion of 1927 in Meet

Weber Ley, Bob North, Al Scissors, Norman Cibulka, Al Buescher, Bill Meyers and Bill Wenzlich, St. Louis Class A skaters, today enrolled in the Silver Skates Ice Carnival to be held Sunday afternoon, Jan. 7, at the Arena.

Ley is a former city Class A champion. North is an erstwhile city juvenile, junior and intermediate titleholder. Scissors is looked upon as one of the district's fastest sprinters. Buecher was Class B titleholder last year. Cibulka recently suffered a severe cut on his leg, but will be ready for the Silver Skates.

Other St. Louisans enrolled are Bud Handlan, new Class A champion; Jim McCane, defending Missouri State titleholder, and Lou Schneider, last year's city Class A speed king.

The Mound Cityans will compete against out-of-town stars, including Lowell Miller of Chicago, defending Silver Skates champion, and Del Lamb of Milwaukee and Charles (Chuck) Leighton of Minneapolis, members of the last United States Olympic team.

Mary Dolan, of Minneapolis, the country's second ranking skater, headlines the feminine skaters entered.

Ted Young, president of the Missouri Skating Association, says that each of the 23 events will be filled with high class entries.

caps, out of the mulk and onto the road with the greatest of ease, etc. He became the powerhouse of the mat, short on science but so strong nothing could resist him.

They made his name famous through a long line of victories over Toots Mondt and that kind. Then came the championship match with Ed Lewis. The Strangler had been around so long the public was becoming sour. A new champion was eminently desirable, for the moment, at least.

And who was in the wings waiting for the cue but Big Munn, the kind-faced, regular guy, who almost blushed at the parts assigned to him.

Then came the championship scenario. The champion won a fall. On the second fall, the powerful Katrinka—beg, pardon, Munn—raised Lewis on high, walked to the ropes and plunked the Strangler down on the three-foot ring ledge which projected beyond the ropes.

Lewis, unable to continue, it seemed, claimed foul, but Referee Walter Bates decided against that. Lewis claimed not only foul, but the match because he had been disabled and could not continue.

"You'll go on for the third fall or I'll award the fall and the title to Munn," announced the referee irately—these referees sometimes are better actors than the contestants.

Sandow and Lewis retreated to the dressing room but came back at the required time still shouting protests. Lewis got into the ring, but he was as putty in the hands of Katrinka Munn.

"Meet the new champion, folks, Wayne Munn!" blared the public address system, a few seconds later.

He Didn't Last.

SEVERAL TIMES we have rehashed the story of how Munn lost the championship, through medium of the double-cross engineered by Old Man Zbyszko Cyganiewicz. After throwing Zibby in Kansas City, they met again in Philadelphia, away from the bailiwick of Sandow and Company.

The result was pitiful. Zibby tossed Wayne twice in 13 minutes—and could have done it in three, with Munn suddenly becoming ill after the first fall. He didn't want to go back and you can't blame him. Zbyszko could have taken him apart and perhaps Wayne had come to realize it.

But at any rate, that was the last of the first football champion.

Savoldi got his title via another match that had all the earmarks of a double-cross when Referee Managoff declared Joe had pinned Londos in a match at Chicago—a show that pulled the cork of the wrestling game in that city.

Savoldi held the title just long enough to arrange a match with the late Jim Browning, who then became champion—if you disregard other claimants.

Today we have Bronko Nagurski as king of them all, notwithstanding he lost such vestiges of championship claim as may have remained to him to Jim Londos, in a match several months ago.

Savoldi is now the world's leading wrestler in the estimation of the National Wrestling Association, if anyone knows what that organization is, other than the front for several promoters.

The Bronko brought a big name to the game and no doubt has cashed in on it, for he refused several fine offers to play professional football.

The end of the collegiate dynasty seems near, however, because the big money is fast disappearing from wrestling.

Chickenfeed gates have replaced standing-room-only houses of other days.

Perhaps the football players of the future will remain in the field they belong in and practice a profession they know something about.

Unstaedter, No. 1 Tennis Junior, Wins a Match

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—Bill Umstaedter, Louisiana State University star from Milburn, N. J., again justified his ranking as the No. 1 seeded player of the National Junior indoor tennis championships today when he defeated Bill Engle of Williams College, 6-3, 6-2, to enter the fourth round.

Fourth seeded Gardner Larned of Chicago entered the same bracket by whipping Bruce Corbett of the University of Wisconsin, 6-0, 6-0.

Top seeded Bobby Bensinger of Washington, D. C., drew one round ahead of the field in the National Boys' tennis championships today when he gained the quarterfinals with a 6-1, 6-0, setback of Lawrence Claman, New York.

Irvin Dorfman of New York, rated behind Bensinger in the draw, reached the third round by defeating Robert Streich of Kenvil, N. J., 6-0, 6-1. He was joined there by Fred Kovaleski of Hamtramck, Mich., who eliminated Eugene Sands of New York, 6-1, 6-2.

Two seeded players, Judah Lober, No. 6, and Fred Krais, No. 7, went into the fourth round of the Junior division. Lober won a close encounter from Ed Roszak of Hamtramck, Mich., 6-3, 8-6, while Krais upset Ralph Dawson of Williams College, 6-1, 6-1.

Winners Pay $12, $21 In Florida Features

TROPICAL PARK, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP).—The Bristol Stables Grandstar and Mrs. H. C. Rumage's Idle Elf took the two ends of the Matecumbe Purse, a six furlong event for three-year-olds and upwards of the $2500 claiming variety, that served as features of the meeting yesterday.

Grandstar did the distance in 1:12 to win the first division of the race. Grandstar paid $12.20. In the second division of the race, Idle Elf had to exert every effort to win by a half length over the pace-making Stones Landing, a recent longshot winner. Idle Elf, whose time was 1:12 1-5, returned $21.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 27 (AP).—A field goal by Bill Cowden, Stanford guard, in the last 15 seconds of an extra period gave the Californians a 45-43 basketball victory last night over the University of Baltimore.

The game was a thriller with the lead shuttling from team to team. At half time Baltimore led 18-17, and the scoring seldom varied, the second half ending 43-43.

Dodger Leaders Named as "Tops"

President Larry MacPhail and Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who engineered their team into third place in the National League race of 1939, have been named No. 1 club executive and No. 1 manager of the year in the annual awards of The Sporting News. The baseball publication also names Joe DiMaggio as the "perfect player."

Other awards for fine service go to Bruce Dudley, executive director of the Louisville club of the American Association, and to Bill Meyer, manager of the Kansas City club of the same group.

Marguerite Madden Advances in Girls' U. S. Indoor Tourney

BROOKLINE, Mass., Dec. 27 (AP).—Marguerite (Sissy) Madden of Boston, defending champion in the girls' national indoor tennis tournament, led the seeded list into the second round at Longwood yesterday by defeating Betty Thompson of Gardiner, 6-1, 6-0.

Miss Madden's most threatening rival appeared to be fourth-seeded Mary Lou Beyer, of Detroit, the Michigan State and Canadian Junior girls' champion, who performed impressively while stroking to a 6-1, 6-4 triumph over the capable Gloria Rustum of Maplewood, N. J.

Lamb Becomes 'Bad Man' of Hockey Race

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Dec. 27 (AP).—Bill Summerhill of the New Haven Eagles still led the pack today in International-American Hockey League scoring even though his gain for the past week was only one point, an assist.

Summerhill was credited with 30 points in the weekly statistics. Tony Hemmerling, a teammate, stood second with the same 24-point total he had two weeks ago. Third place was occupied by Joe Fisher of Indianapolis, who held the second lead spot two weeks ago.

In the "bad man" department, Pete Bessone of Pittsburgh, regarded as an habitual leader, yielded to Joe Lamb of Springfield. Lamb's total penalties were 41 minutes. Bessone had 38.

Bradley Five Beats California, 40-39

PEORIA, Ill., Dec. 27 (AP). — Lloyd Bortel's field goal in the last 33 seconds of play capped a seven-point Bradley Tech rally last night and gave the Peoria team a 40 to 39 basketball triumph over California.

California held a 39 to 33 lead with little more than three minutes remaining when Chris Hansen hit a field goal and free throw and Bortel followed with two field goals. Hansen and Bortel between them accounted for 27 of Bradley's points.

Anderson Injured; Out of Bike Race

CLEVELAND, Dec. 27 (AP).—A fractured wrist yesterday forced Bill Anderson, Cleveland rider, out of the international six-day bicycle races, and paved the way for reentry of Danny Esposito of Newark, N. J.

Esposito was without a partner after Dominick Camastra of Brooklyn, N. Y., withdrew. He paired with Freddy Ottevaere of Detroit, Anderson's teammate.

'Solid' or 'Glassy' Water Produced With Toy Gun

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

DR. B. J. LUYET

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 27. — A method of producing "solid water" with a toy pistol was demonstrated today before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The solid water is not ice, said Dr. B. J. Luyet of St. Louis University, who gave the association two years ago the amazing announcement that he had preserved life at 300 degrees below zero in a "fourth state of matter"—the vitreous state.

Ice is crystalline, explains Dr Luyet, but this solid water is vitreous. It might be called "glassy water," for its non-crystalline state is like that of glass. To Dr. Luyet, the glassy water is only an incident in the experiments whereby he has preserved living tissue, recently including seeds and shrimp eggs, in the "glassy" state and found that life went on when normal temperature was restored.

He has accomplished that by cooling his material so rapidly with liquid air that it skips the icy state, with crystalline structure that destroys delicate cells, and goes to the glassy, in which he finds that life in some forms can be preserved. Today he showed his fellow-scientists an ingenious method of producing the glassy water.

How Gun Is Employed.

Dr. Luyet uses an ingenious arrangement of two steel plungers, a child's toy pistol and a medicine dropper to make the glassy, or vitrified water. The steel plungers are dipped in liquid air which has a temperature of 301 degrees below zero. One is held fast while the other is inserted in the toy pistol and shot against the first as water from the medicine dropper flows between.

The result is a small thin film of hard water. It is also possible to vitrify solutions of anti-freeze, glycerin, sugar, gelatin and other substances, thus giving scientists new clews to the arrangement of molecules in non-living and living substances.

Frozen, Then Restored.

Since 1937 Dr. Luyet has taken seeds and super-cooled them, then brought them back to normal to grow whole plants which showed no changes from a group of non-vitrified controls. He has glassified whole plants and restored them to normal. The spermatozoa of frogs have been put into the glassy state and when warmed back to normal have been as active as before.

In one of his most remarkable experiments the St. Louis scientist converted pliable fibers of muscle into stiff glassy rods. When brought back they responded to electrical stimulation by jerking in the same way the normal muscles react.

He super-cooled shrimp eggs and incubated them into normal animals. Protozoa, bacteria, viruses, molds, fungi, mosses and some of the lower insects recovered from similar treatment.

DETECTIVE, SUSPECT KILLED IN FIGHT

Girl, 19, Seriously Wounded in Cabin at Tourist Camp Near Chattanooga.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 27. (AP).—Clyde J. Shipley, veteran city detective, and a man wanted in connection with two holdups were shot to death in a fight last night at a tourist camp near here.

Identification of the victim of police fire was not established immediately. Police Chief Ray Bryan first listed him as Joseph Orson Rogers, 25 years old, of Chicago, after finding a Social Security card on his person. After communicating with Louisville, Ky., officers, police sought to determine if he were Sonny White, one of his girl companions having said she knew him as "Sonny."

A man booked as James Charleston, 21 years old, of Chicago, was arrested today in a rooming house after police said he had escaped from the camp during the fight. He was held on a murder charge. Minneapolis police said he was wanted there for questioning about a holdup.

Two detectives seized Charleston in bed as, they said, he attempted to draw two pistols from beneath the covers.

The half-hour fight at the tourist camp began, Bryan said, when officers sought to enter a tourist cabin to question the occupants about a series of holdups downtown. A knock on the door was greeted by pistol fire and the detective was killed when he forced his way into the cabin.

In the fight which followed, one of the two men in the cabin was killed and a girl, identified by Bryan as Patricia McDonald, 19, of Minneapolis, was seriously wounded.

Another girl, booked at the city jail as Marian Lindquist, 19, also of Minneapolis, was not injured.

Bryan said a squad of six officers went to the camp. They were reinforced during the firing by 19 other officers, including county and State highway patrolmen.

EXECUTIVE FROM CALIFORNIA TO HEAD FORD PLANT HERE

Ira B. Groves to Succeed Milton N. Johnson, Transferred to Minneapolis.

Ira B. Groves, at present manager of the Long Beach (Cal.) assembly unit of the Ford Motor Co., will come to St. Louis next week to take over his duties as manager of the assembly plant of the company at 4100 Forest Park boulevard.

He succeeds Milton N. Johnson, manager here since 1932, who has been transferred to a similar position for the Minneapolis-St. Paul plant. Johnson came to St. Louis from Oklahoma City, Ok. Groves was stationed in Atlanta, Ga., before going to Long Beach.

LABOR ROW HALTS OPERATIONS FOR TIME AT DETROIT PLANT

Nash-Kelvinator Asks Police to Eject Workers, 1400 Leave on Union Order.

DETROIT, Dec. 27 (AP).—A brief dispute today at a plant of Nash-Kelvinator Corporation interrupted production and caused the management to ask police to eject 1400 workers who it said were engaged in a sit-down strike.

The Mechanics' Educational Society, an independent union, ordered the workers to leave and the plant was soon emptied.

Shortly afterward the management announced regular operations would be resumed, starting with the afternoon shift.

Trouble started this morning, the company reported, when MESA members escorted out of the plant Russell Smith, former president of the union's local, and another worker. Five other men who entered with Smith reached the plant's employment office, but later left the factory.

Smith and Newton Avery, secretary of the local, were suspended by the MESA International executive board last Thursday night. While the board was meeting, Smith and others removed the records and $500 in funds from the local union's office in order, Smith explained, to "protect" the local against Matthew Smith, national MESA secretary, whom he accused of trying to "frame" the local officers.

WOMAN WHO DROWNED SON TO BE FREED FROM PRISON

Killed Child to "Save Him From Poverty"; Once Sentenced to Death.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—A parole from the State of New York will bring freedom today to a woman once sentenced to death for drowning her 2-year-old son to "save him from a life of poverty."

For her excellent behavior since she was imprisoned Sept, 9, 1936, to serve six to 15 years, Mrs. Dorothy Sherwood, onetime burlesque dancer, will be released today from the women's prison at suburban Bedford, N. Y.

Waiting at the prison gates to greet her was her daughter, Dorothy, 10, who has been cared for by the Salvation Army during the mother's imprisonment.

Six months after her husband had died and left her destitute, Mrs. Sherwood carried her son's body to a police station at Newburgh, N. Y. She was convicted of first-degree murder. The jury recommended mercy, but under the law the court had no alternative but to impose the death sentence. Newburgh residents then signed a petition which won Mrs. Sherwood a second trial, and on her plea of guilty to a manslaughter charge she was sentenced to Bedford.

Schumann-Heink Kin to Wed.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Dec. 27 (AP).—Miss Zelda Schumann-Heink, 25 years old, of San Diego, granddaughter of the late Madame Schumann-Heink, famous singer, and Jo B. Livengood, 25, of Los Angeles, filed application for a marriage license yesterday.

The Rev. J. H. Culler Dies.

CORPORATE BONDS ARE MIXED AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—Some foreign dollar loans gained fractions to a point or more in the bond market today.

German General Electric 6½s of '40 and '48 each gained more than four points. Italy 7s were up fractionally. Belgium 6½s were up about two points.

The corporate division was mixed, but year-end selling tended to depress values in the thin market toward the closing hour's start.

Up a point or more in the foreign division were Australia 4½s, Denmark 6s, Taiwan Electric Power 5½s and Norway 4s.

New York Central Consolidated 4s dropped a point. Off fractions were American & Foreign Power 5s, Consolidated Edison 3½s, International Hydro Electric 6s and Walworth 4s.

Small gains were credited to Anaconda Copper 4½s, Continental Oil 2¾s and International Telephone 5s.

Corporate loans remained under mild pressure during the last hour and several issues broke away from the main list with substantial losses.

Louisville & Nashville 3¾s, for instance, dropped 2⅜ to 81⅛ as an argument developed over competitive bidding for a new issue expected from the carrier.

New York Central issues also weakened, the convertible 3½s dipping 1⅞ to 57¼.

BOND NOTES.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—An underwriting group headed by Blyth & Co., publicly offered today the $4,059,000 Inspiration Consolidated Copper Co. first mortgage convertible 4 per cent bonds due in 1952.

The offering, prices at 100, is the remainder of a $5,910,000 offer to stockholders which expired on Dec. 22. Proceeds will be applied to payment of promissory notes outstanding in the amount of $7,000,000.

Company's properties are in Arizona.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—An issue of $2,250,000 of 4 per cent first mortgage bonds of the Central States Electric Co. was offered publicly today, by a syndicate headed by Harris Hall & Co. In addition, the company has sold privately $750,000 of 4½ per cent debentures. The combined proceeds will be used to repay outstanding bonds and notes.

DYNAMITE THAT KILLED FIVE SET OFF POSSIBLY BY BULLET

Youths Blown to Bits, Apparently Engaged in Target Practice Near Waterford, N. Y.

WATERFORD, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP).—State police think that the explosion of 200 pounds of dynamite that blew five Cohoes youths to bits yesterday was caused by a rifle bullet.

Thomas Quigley, a State employe, says he heard several shots and came in sight of the youths who were apparently engaged in target practice. The next instant the explosion knocked Quigley off his feet.

The youths, identified from hunting licenses, were: Frederick Deeb, 15 years old; Roger Murray, 18; Russell Precott, 14; Bentley E. Fogarty, 16, and Arthur Perras, 15. They were killed near a metal-covered trailer in which the dynamite was cached.

The explosive was being used in deepening and widening the State barge canal. The explosion shook houses within a radius of 20 miles, and left a crater four feet deep and about 30 feet wide in a vacant field. Little property damage was reported.

Byrd's Flagship at Wellington.

DUNEDIN, New Zealand, Dec. 27 (AP).—The North Star, flagship of Admiral Richard E. Byrd's Antarctic expedition, arrived at Wellington today. It left Philadelphia Nov. 21. The vessel will come to Dunedin and be joined by the other Byrd ship, Bear of Oakland, expected in about a fortnight. Both then will leave for the Antarctic.

8.8 PCT. RISE IN WHOLESALE DOLLAR VOLUME FOR YEAR

Hopkins Estimates Total at $20,700,000,000; Increase Reported by All of 24 Classifications.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP). — Secretary of Commerce Hopkins estimated yesterday that American wholesalers sold $20,700,000,000 worth of goods and services this year, bettering last year's business by 8.8 per cent.

Hopkins said that, considering a slightly lower price level, the increase in quantity sales was even larger than the dollar volume gain.

Every one of 24 classifications of wholesalers reported gains. Outstanding were automotive, 14 per cent; electrical goods, 23; lumber and construction materials, 20; metals and metal work, 23; waste materials, 25; jewelry and optical goods, 16; plumbing and heating equipment, 17; and coal, 11 per cent. The smallest gains were 3 per cent for the drug, grocery and tobacco groups.

The 8.8 per cent average gain resulted from a steadily growing turnover. In the first quarter of 1939, sales were only 4.8 per cent higher than in the corresponding period last year. The second quarter gain was 6.7 per cent, the third quarter 10.2, and the fourth quarter 13.1. Although the sales total was nearly double 1933, Hopkins said the figure was 7 per cent below the recovery peak year of 1937, and 29 per cent below 1929.

COTTON MARKET CLOSE 3 LOWER TO 6 HIGHER

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—Hedge operations through Southern spot houses and mill selling accounted for a barely steady undertone in cotton futures today. Foreign buying, evident early in the session, diminished. Chief support came from the trade.

Around mid-afternoon prices held unchanged to 8 lower; January 10.92; July 10.10, and October 9.63.

Initial prices were (old contracts): January, 11.06c; March, 10.89c; May, 10.54c; July, 10.11c.

Futures closed 3 lower to 6 higher.

You may drive carefully but you can't predict what the other fellow will do. HIS skid may smash your car or take your life unless you can stop. Be prepared for quick, safe stops with Weed Chains.

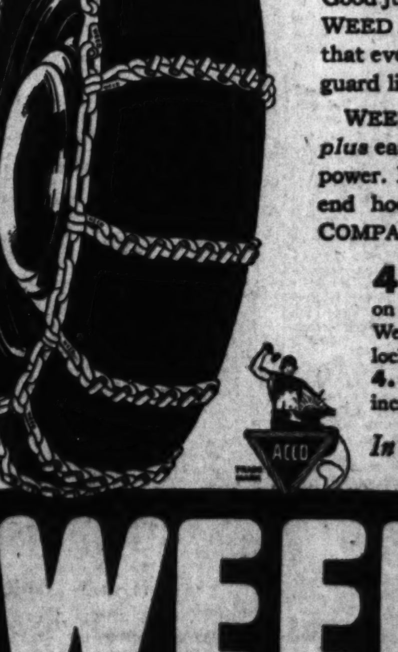
Without warning snow and sleet may anchor your car where it stands. Be prepared to pull out, not dig out! Use Weed Chains.

WINTER DOUBLES DRIVING ACCIDENTS

HAVE YOUR CAR CHECKED TODAY

DANGER AHEAD! That's Winter's stern warning to car owners. Accident hazards are many times greater and there's the risk of getting stuck in snow far from help. Good judgment says, "Be sure you have the protection of WEED AMERICAN Bar-Reinforced Tire Chains. Be sure that every part of your car is in proper condition to safeguard lives and property."

WEED AMERICANS give you twice as many safe miles, plus easier starting on snow or ice, plus better stopping power. Don't take chances. Ask for the chains with red end hooks. Made by AMERICAN CHAIN & CABLE COMPANY, Inc., Bridgeport, Connecticut.



4 GREAT FEATURES — 1. Bar-reinforcements on cross links more than double the mileage. 2. Made of Weedalloy — a stronger, tougher metal. 3. Patented Leverlock End Hooks—easy to use and positive fastening. 4. Side chains hardened to resist curb and rut wear and increase cross chain mileage.

STOCKS TURN LOWER ON AN INCREASED TURNOVER

Year-End Selling for the Evening Up of Accounts Continues to Exert Influence on the Market — Decline Takes Place in Early Period.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—Selling for year-end evening up of investment portfolios shaved fractions to 2 points or more from stock market prices today.

Some of the widest losses were among steels, but lower also were motors, rubbers, mail order houses, most aircrafts, utilities, metals, rails and miscellaneous issues.

Transactions totaled 1,146,340 shares and were the biggest in two weeks or so.

The bulk of declines were posted in morning trading, with prices hovering around the day's lows throughout the afternoon.

Frequent offerings of blocks of 300 to 500 shares of low-priced issues in part was said to represent selling of securities to establish losses for income tax purposes. However, brokers pointed out that because of a change in the tax laws, this year for the first time sales for tax purposes may be made in the regular way up to the close Saturday, lengthening the tax-selling period. Under last year's rules, today would have been the last day tax selling could have been done, except on a cash basis.

Resistant were Lockheed Aircraft, which reported the biggest 11 months' earnings in its history, and du Pont, but shares with net gains on the day were few and far between. Domestic corporate bonds eased with stocks.

In foreign markets, London stocks were firm, with Amsterdam and Paris irregular.

News of the Day.

While domestic business news continued encouraging, it followed the pattern of earlier forecasts, and failed to generate new buying orders. "Iron Age" predicted steel ingot production after the new year holiday would rebound from its present 74 per cent of capacity to around 90 per cent, and might average 85 per cent for the month of January.

November net income of class 1 railways was estimated at around $22,000,000 after charges, contrasted with $56,521,000 in October and $7,422,137 in November, 1938.

Overnight Developments.

The weekly statement of the reporting member banks of the Federal Reserve System disclosed an increase of $34,000,000 in loans to brokers and dealers in securities in the period ended Dec. 20 but credit extended for "commercial, industrial and agricultural" purposes dropped around $10,000,000.

At the same time reports from banks in leading cities for the same week showed debits to individual accounts—considered a good guide in estimating actual business conditions—rose 18 per cent above the preceding week, but fell 5 per cent below the comparable 1938 period. The decline from a year ago was due to a rather large decrease in checks drawn against accounts at New York City.

Power Figures Delayed.

The Edison Electric Institute report, usually available on Wednesday, has been delayed 24 hours due to the holiday.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Strong support for gilt-edged issues attracted buyers to other securities in the stock market today. Closing prices were about the best for the session. Domestic rails and oils shared the limelight with the higher priced group. Demand spilled over to kaffirs and most base metals but industrial leaders were a trifle irregular. Motors were especially reluctant to join in the advance.

PARIS, Dec. 27 (AP).—Bourse prices swayed in a narrow orbit today with many traders absent for an extended holiday. While rentes showed easier tendencies, the majority of dometsic and foreign equities posted minor gains at the finnish. Rentes closed 50 centimes higher to 125 lower.

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 27 (AP).—Domestic and foreign issues moved hesitantly in the Bourse today, most ending a little lower. American stocks advancing against the main trend included motors and rayons.

TEXTILE MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—A further advance in raw silk served completely to stalemate the market for silk goods today. Prices were mainly nominal with buying interest lacking.

Dealings in woolen goods were confined to spot overcoatings and similar winter goods.

Business in cotton goods was only of a fill-in nature at unchanged prices for standard construction.

Rayon goods were fairly active with prices firm, particularly on pigment taffetas and crepe box loom prints.

DIVIDENDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—The McCall Corp., publishing and dress-pattern concern, announced a quarterly dividend of 35 cents a share on the common stock, payable Feb. 1 to holders of record Jan. 15. Quarterly payments of 25 cents each were made in 1939.

Oil Report Delayed.

The American Petroleum Institute weekly oil report, usually available on Wednesday, has been delayed due to the holiday.

REBOUND FROM HOLIDAY DROP IN STEEL PRODUCTION SEEN

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—"Iron Age" magazine predicted today that steel ingot production in the United States, which it estimated at 74 per cent of capacity this week, "will rebound next week to approximately last week's rate of 89½ per cent."

The offering, priced at 100, is the re- Year's dty is not a steel mill holiday and that, consequently, the industry would operate a full schedule.

"Except for tin plate, which is in a seasonal decline . . ." said "Iron Age," "Steel products are enjoying a demand which is better than was expected for this time of the year.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—A 1-10 cent markup put the Belgian currency far in front of generally improved "neutral" monies in relation to the dollar to noon or so today.

Sterling and the French franc ignored those gains, however, and dipped ⅝ of a cent and .00¼ of a cent respectively.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—Foreign exchange late rates follow: Great Britain in dollars, others in cents. BURBANK, Cal., Dec. 27 (AP).—Robert E. Gross, Lockheed Aircraft Corporation president, said the company's net earnings for the first 11 months of 1939 were $2,705,582, compared with $418,709 for the same period in 1938.

Largest profit in Lockheed's history, it is equivalent to $3.49 per share on the 775,000 shares of outstanding common stock.

Gross said sales for the 11 months exceeded $32,000,000 and probably would surpass $35,000,000 by the end of December. Sales the first 11 months last year totaled $9,078,675.

Unfilled orders total $46,000,000, including a recent repeat order from the British Air Ministry for 200 reconnaissance bombers with a value of $20,000,000.

Gross added that unfilled orders "include a substantial amount of business for the United States Government, for which we are producing a fleet of the fastest interceptor pursuit planes in the world."

Gross, asserting Lockheed's commercial output was keeping pace with military orders, predicted the company's sales next year would exceed $40,000,000.

RAIL INCOME

LEAD, ZINC AND COPPER

Lead was steady at $5.35 per 100 pounds in St. Louis today. Zinc was steady at $6 per 100 pounds.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—Copper steady; electrolytic spot, 12.50; export f. a. s., N. Y., 12.60. Tin easy; spot and nearby, 50.00; forward, 47.50. Lead steady; spot, New York, 5.50@5.55; East St. Louis, 5.35. Zinc steady; East St. Louis spot and forward, 6.00. Quicksilver, 158.00@160.00. Pig iron, aluminum, antimony, platinum, Chinese wolframite and domestic scheelite unchanged.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27.—St. Joseph Lead Co. reported 175 tons of Southeast Missouri pig lead sold yesterday at $5.35 per 100 lbs, East St. Louis, 200 tons at $5.55, New York, and 100 tons at the New York average.

BAR GOLD, SILVER AND MONEY

Local bank clearings for Dec. 27 were $15,000,000. Debits to individual accounts for Dec. 26 were $29,500,000.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—Domestic sugar futures moved narrowly today as producer and speculative selling found support limited to trade covering in nearby positions. Uncertainty over the size of the 1940 quota restricted outside demand. Mid-afternoon prices held 1 point higher to 2 lower, January 1.86, March 1.93.

World futures were lower on commission house and European selling. Producer covering furnished the principal buying interest. Prices held 1 to 1½ points higher; May 1.56½; July 1.58.

The raw sugar market was quiet. Cubas were offered at duty paid price of 2.90 cents while Philippines were available at 3.00. Refined continued 4.70.

Steel Output in Area Unchanged.

Steel production in the St. Louis area this week was reported as unchanged at 77 per cent of capacity.

No. 2 heavy melting scrap steel was reported as quoted 25c lower at $13.75@14.25 per ton.

NOTICE OF OFFER TO PURCHASE FIRST MORTGAGE 5% BONDS OF CONSOLIDATED INDUSTRIES CORPORATION, ROCKFORD, ILLINOIS.

In the Indenture dated as of September 1, 1933 securing an authorized issue of $672,500 First Mortgage 5% Bonds, it is provided that there should be paid over to the Trustee as a Sinking Fund for the purchase or redemption of bonds secured by said Indenture 60% of the annual net earnings of the Corporation, as therein defined, for each fiscal year, after the reservation of such additions, if any, as shall be set aside by the Corporation for working capital.

The Board of Directors of Consolidated Industries Corporation, in a resolution adopted October 20, 1939, has determined that the net earnings of the Corporation and its subsidiaries for the fiscal year ending August 31, 1939, available for Sinking Fund purposes, is $63,218.07 and has deposited said sum with the undersigned Trustee.

Complying with the directions in the Indenture of Trust dated September 1, 1933, the undersigned Trustee invites offers, good until January 5, 1940, from all holders of said Consolidated Industries Corporation First Mortgage 5% Bonds who desire to sell such bonds to the Sinking Fund at a price or prices not exceeding the face value thereof with accrued interest. Purchases up to the funds available will then be made from the lowest offers received.

FURTHER SNOW IN DROUTH BELT LOWERS WHEAT

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP).—Wheat futures declined more than 2 cents a bushel at times today, but then recovered more than a cent from the lows. Trade was generally governed by improved weather reports.

Corn, after turning down in sympathy with wheat, recovered and closed about unchanged from previous closing levels. A cargo of U. S. corn was reported sold to Holland.

Wheat closed ⅝@1⅛ lower, May $1.02⅝@½; July, $1.00¼@⅛; corn unchanged to ¼ down, May 58⅝@⅝, July 59c; oats unchanged to ⅛ lower.

Selling pressure was not heavy, but buyers were held back by more moisture overnight, prospects of continued unsettled weather in much of the belt and a forecast for a 10 per cent increase in 1940 spring wheat acreage.

May wheat fell to 1.01⅝, off 2 cents, and July to 99¼c, off 2⅛ cents.

The decline in wheat carried other grains lower, and corn, after holding steady earlier in the session scored moderate losses. Soy beans, however, were down as much as 3 cents, May $1.20, and rye, which yesterday advanced sharply, was off as much as 2¼ cents, May, 75¼c.

Snow fell overnight over much of the Southwest and Northwest wheat belts. Reports indicated the entire dry area was now covered with a good blanket of snow.

The Government weekly summary reported that with the unsettled cold weather small grains had become dormant in considerable portions of the belt. In Central and Eastern parts of the main wheat territory, it added, the situation changed little, although moderate and helpful precipitation occurred in most sections.

Traders gave attention to an estimate by the Department of Agriculture that spring wheat acreage for 1940 harvest would be increased 10 per cent, indicating a crop of 200,000,000 bu if yields are average, and a total wheat crop of 600,000,000 bu. This would be about 60,000,000 bu less than needs for the year, old crop surpluses, however, totaled 254,000,000 bu.

Corn prices held steady and at times scored moderate gains with some buying credited to shipping interests.

Oats also were about steady, but rye and soy beans, following their strength yesterday, were weak and down about 2 cents.

Lard was slightly lower with grains.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Dec. 27.—In the cash grain section of the market today wheat was steady to ½c lower; corn ¼c lower to 1c higher; oats unchanged.

Sales made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

FRANCE'S HELP TO FINLAND IS SMALL BECAUSE OF FEAR OF GERMAN-RUSSIAN COMBINE

French View Is That Aid on Extensive Scale Would Promote Moscow-Berlin Alliance and Perhaps Lead to United Attack on All of Scandinavia

By JOHN T. WHITAKER

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1939.

PARIS, Dec. 27.

THE French Government took measures today to provide 2,000,000 francs ($44,600) credit for the Finns as the Russian offensive appears to have been interrupted and a number of Generals have been recalled to Moscow for a supreme war council.

The first phase of the Russian aggression seems to be terminated and with Gen. Winter standing at Marshal Baron Karl Mannerheim's elbow, the French are watching to see whether Moscow will renew its offensive, wait for spring weather, or turn elsewhere.

France and Great Britain have their hands full with Germany, and while Hitlerism remains enemy No. 1, they naturally are hopeful that Russia will not be driven entirely into German hands There is little distinction for them between Nazism and Communism and, internally, they are moving toward outlawry and Communism, Nevertheless, as the countries at war, they feel compelled to make a distinction between Berlin and Moscow so long as that is possible

As French See Danger.

The obvious danger of Dictator Joseph V. Stalin's going entirely into Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's hands may be lost on Americans, but not on Frenchmen. If an absolute alliance is achieved between the two, the Germans, not the Russians, will control that alliance, and with German engineers controlling Russian production and German generals commanding the Russian hordes, the war can be dragged out several years. If German control over Russia can be prevented, however, then Stalin eventually will be compelled by force of events to recognize that German victory is not and never has been in the Russian interest.

This is the way the French mind operates. Absolute unity between Berlin and Moscow means that Hitler can use the Russians to spread the war through the rest of the Scandinavian states and through the Balkans and the Near East. There are certain advantages in the opening of new fronts, but if three new fronts are opened, this will make the Allies position exceedingly difficult for military problems today are essentially problems of supply If the German-Russian alliance spreads the war into three theaters, where will the Allies find merchant shipping, for instance, to transport men and supplies to Norway, Rumania and India?

This is one of the many reasons why the French do not chortle now that Russia seems to need German help, just as in the beginning Germany needed Russian help. That is why, moreover, the French are doing their bit to help the Finns, but why they feel, nevertheless, that they have their hands full with a major war, and certain neutrals, like the United States, might find it easier to help the Finns.

Britain's Situation.

These French preoccupations are even more real to their British allies, who must think about the many fronts and who realize that Hitler has enough men under arms today to spare them as spearheads of Russian thrusts into India.

That is why the French help to Finland is not receiving much publicity here these days. France surely can do little for Finland, for France is thinking about what may happen to Norway and Sweden. In event of joint German-Russian expansion there, France and Britain must strain their resources to send an expeditionary force.

Similarly, reports from Turkey indicate that German and Russian banks and commercial houses are being liquidated against the possible spread of the war into that region in two months. Some quarters, with thousands of miles of water between them and the German-Russian menace, may feel that this is a short-sighted policy and that the French should stake everything on a Finnish victory. The answer is that the French are the most conservative people in the world, in the first place, and the most militarily minded people in the second place, so that they ask themselves, "how can we get proper military help to the Finns if by that very act we unloose a German-Russian invasion of all the Scandinavian countries?" It is not an easy question to answer

GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON SAYS—

U. S. Mixed Commission, Without Delay, Should Investigate and Report on Prospects for National Defense.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.

IF the President doesn't appoint some kind of a mixed commission to investigate and report upon our plans and prospects for national defense, then Congress should appoint a joint committee to do the same thing

About a month ago Col. "Wild Bill" Donovan proposed such a commission to consist of representatives of all affected governmental departments and a few prominent civilians.

The administration admittedly has not yet formulated any fixed long range policy for national defense. The President has suggested that the country make up its mind on this. Before defense can be properly prepared, we have to know what we are going to defend.

Will we fight for our slight dab of American trade in China?

Do we propose to hold our long and dangerous salient in the Philippines?

Is Guam our advance base?

Will we fight to preserve the territory of South American countries?

Are we really going to patrol the "safety belt" of the declaration of Panama with naval force, and fight if it is violated?

As Col. Donovan points out, you can't plan a sensible defense before answering these questions. Neither can you plan intelligently without a lot more teamwork than exists now in the planning agencies —including Congress. Under our Constitution, the President is commander-in-chief of the army and navy, but it is the duty of Congress to "raise and support armies . . . to provide and maintain a navy . . . to make rules for the Government and regulation of the land and naval forces . . . to provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia."

We have little in the nature of basic military plan or policy, but there are plenty of willing workers in Washington just now cooking up surprise packages—most of them operating in watertight compartments with precious little cooperation or even knowledge in the right hand of what the left had doeth.

A case in point is the recent revelation that Treasury Secretary Morgenthau had a secret plan to control the war in Europe by buying up all the loose strategic materials in the world with American taxpayer's dollars. It is typical from many angles. Morgenthau's experience in this field is accurately reflected in the absurdity of the idea. It is the statutory duty of the War Department, and not the Treasury, to be making war plans. Finally, such plans require a close tie-up of all affected departments. A little advice from men with experience enough at least to suspect something of what it is all about wouldn't do any harm at all.

But Morgenthau isn't the only uninvited authority who is secretly warming up his think-tank to present scintillating surprise defense cure-alls in case of war. Several of the leading fourth New Deal "thinkers" in more departments than one are busy. It was they who resented and scuttled the ill-fated Stettinius committee. They don't want any competition—not even from the War Department. The opportunity of a possible defense situation farther to centralize and personalize Government is too tempting to resist—and they don't want any mere War Department experts horning in on it.

Now this is all incompetent nonsense in a dangerous field. The fact is that, at least on land and mechanization, motorization and anti-aircraft equipment, we are piteously unprepared for even home defense. An even more alarming fact is that our plans to get these things promise results so few and slow that any fair appraisal would shock the country. In all the past excitement of the war abroad, we have neglected our own house. The coming excitement of a presidential campaign is likely to continue to keep public attention away from a pressing problem. That situation should be completely examined—now.

Russians Bombard Viipuri Again; Loss Is Light in Almost-Empty City

By LELAND STOWE

The Chicago Daily News—Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1939.

HELSINKI, Dec. 27.

SEVERAL Russian long-range guns again bombarded Viipuri (Viborg) last night, although no serious loss of life has yet been reported from there.

The civilian population of Viipuri, once Finland's third largest city, previously had been reduced from 74,000 to approximately 7000. Further evacuation now has been carried out as a result of the Soviet shelling and, except for military forces, Viipuri is virtually deserted.

The Reds threw shells into the city every 15 or 20 minutes throughout the night, but, from an estimated distance of 25 miles, the explosives lost much of their force. The Russians have been able to plant a few big artillery pieces. Presumably, these are located at Kuolema and Lake Perk, along the main Leningrad-Viipuri railroad. In this vicinity Red lines are about 20 miles from Viipuri, but the Mannerheim defenses have held like steel there, thwarting all attacks.

Fierce Battle on Lake.

Last night's Finnish Army communique revealed the details of the fierce Christmas day battle on the other, or Eastern, side of the Karelian Isthmus, where Lake Suvanto—which stretches for miles like an unusually broad river—forms a natural front line for the Finns. At both ends and the middle the Red infantry, supported by tanks, artillery and bombers, attempted to force its way across the frozen lake. At four different points the Russians were driven back, and the Finnish command declares they left 700 killed on the ice. The Finns captured five infantry guns, 16 machines guns and five quick-firing guns, and destroyed two tanks.

This is believed to be the first major engagement since the lakes have frozen sufficiently to enable the Soviet invaders to try to force direct crossings where Finnish lines had previously been protected by open water. It is interesting, therefore, as an indication that the Finnish defenses are so strong as to hold off the Russians even when the frozen lakes greatly extend their possible area of attack. In the Lake Suvanto battle on Christmas day the Reds were attempting to capture Haitermaa, Sakkola, Koija and Volussula—all of which are on the northern shores of the lake, but they have everywhere failed to gain a foothold.

Finns Bolstering Defenses.

What might be called the first main fortifications of the Mannerheim line are now everywhere engaged. Behind them, however, the Finns have constructed line after line of tank traps, obstacles made of huge boulders, and artillery emplacements. In addition, they have cut swards through the deep forests so that the attacking troops will be exposed in open spaces to concentrated fire. All these types of defenses are being constantly increased and deepened across the whole northern half of the isthmus, which is held by the Finns.

Meanwhile, on the eastern and Lapland fronts, the Soviets continue to meet reverses. Heavy snows and bitter cold weather are inflicting severe hardships on the ill-clad Bolshevist invaders, and their losses in men are reliably reported to be very heavy.

BOTH SIDES REPORT CONTINUED QUIET ALONG WESTERN FRONT

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP). — The high command's communique, covering the war yesterday, said:

In War Zone

Baron Mannerheim, Who Won Finns' Independence, Lives to Defend It.

By T. R. YBARRA

WHEN a man has himself hailed as the George Washington of his country, has reached the mature age of 72, and has seen his picture on an issue of postage stamps, you would suppose that he would think it time to fade into the background.

There is a tough old Finn who has done all three of these things, yet—far from crawling into retirement—he is now leading the armies of Finland in their campaign against the Russian invaders of their native soil. Moreover, he is leading them with the same bravery and military ability that he displayed more than 20 years ago, when he commanded Finnish soldiers in battles that broke the power of the Russian-inspired Reds of their homeland and ended in the formal separation of Finland from Russia.

Baron Karl Gustav Mannerheim is his name. To this hale and rugged septuagenarian, in rank a Field Marshal, still hard as nails despite his advanced years and arduous record of service, was ascribed last week the lion's share of the credit for halting the Rus-

YOU will never forget it if you hear it told by a girl.

"On! on! on! on! From the seventeenth till the twenty-first when I finally got out it never stopped. My mother would not leave. She stayed with her husband, who is a Pole. But it went on day and night.

"My God, sleep? You could not think of sleep. And along with the bombardment air raids day and night. Toward the end it was one continuous air raid. The artillery was not so bad.

"At first they were only field guns, and a shell would go through two—maybe three walls, before it would explode, and then it would probably blow the end out of only one room. Yet the walls looked like lace with all those holes in them. Toward the end they brought up the heavy siege guns, and then where a whole house had been there would be a great hole.

"The second day we noticed what we thought was gas. It was a heavy red haze in the air and made us cough. But it was only brick dust and mortar dust churned up by the guns. And at night it looked like a red fog over all Warsaw, lit by the fires of burning houses. And then the graves.

Burials in Garden.

"In all Warsaw there is not a spot of green left—everywhere graves—either men or women or horses, because they had to be buried too; 26 people are buried in the garden behind our villa. We don't know who they are—nobody

WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES G. ROSS

An Appreciation of Senator George W. Norris, Who Announces His Retirement at End of Present Term—His Deep Imprint on His Times.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.

THE news is printed that George W. Norris, the good gray Senator from Nebraska, is determined to retire at the end of his present term, in 1943. Prior to the campaigns both of 1930 and 1936, he said that he wanted to step aside, but on each occasion events conspired with a nationwide pressure from his friends to put him into the race. This time, it looks as if his decision will be final. He is 78 years old. He has been in Congress for 37 years—the last 27 of them in the Senate. "My friends understand," he says, "and they won't ask me to run again."

The passing of George Norris from public life will leave a lonesome place against the sky.

He says his work is done. But three years of service lie ahead of him, and who can say that some cause close to his heart—some battle to be fought for the underdog —will not bring him again into the firing line? So long as there is breath within him, he will fight for the truth as he sees it.

There has rarely been such an unflagging warrior in the Senate, rarely one so able. Never has there been there a man more transparently sincere. It has been said of him that at times, in his zeal for the welfare of the common man, he has let his heart outrun his head; but it has never been said by anyone who knows him that he lacks sincerity.

The quality of sincerity has clothed him like shining armor.

George Norris has made a deep and lasting imprint on his times. This would be true if he had done nothing more than prevent the acquisition of Muscle Shoals by private interests. Single-handedly, he won that fight in the Senate by his parliamentary skill when defeat seemed certain. This victory, and his subsequent unremitting labors to set up a governmental measuring rod for the rates charged by electric utilities, are full warrant for the title which has been given him —"the Father of TVA."

But the creation of this far-reaching project is only one of the achievements which he has put through or made possible for others. To recite them all and tell their background and their implications would be to write a large section of the history of the progressive movement in the United States since the turn of the century. Outstanding are the successful fight which Norris helped to lead against "Czarism" in the House; his collaboration in the exposure of the Teapot Dome and other scandals of the Harding regime; the adoption of the constitutional amendment ending the 'lame duck" session of Congress, after a fight which Norris carried on alone for many years; more recently, the establishment in Nebraska of the one-chamber legislature—a result, again, achieved by what in the beginning was a one-man crusade.

Less tangible but perhaps equally important is the part Norris has played in the political education of the American people. For a long time an insurgent Republican, now officially an Independent, he has been an example and an inspiration to independent voters. Typical of a long record in support of his basic convictions, regardless of influences pulling the other way, was his support of Al Smith for the Presidency in 1928. Alfred Lief, in his recent excellent book entitled "Democracy's Norris: The History of a Lonely

The name and address of the author must accompany every contribution but on request will not be published. Letters not exceeding 200 words will receive preference.

On "Hitler, Beast of Berlin."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IF "Hitler, Beast of Berlin," is—as the management of the Hollywood Theater affirms—"not propaganda," but "the unvarnished truth," then let us henceforth pay closer attention to the unvarnished exploits of Buck Rogers to be really in touch with what's going on right here in the United States.

No liberal holds a brief for Hitler, but:

If the aim of the producer was to produce truth, why revamp "Goose-step," by Shephard Traube, a work of trite fiction?

If the aim was to engender insight into Germany's real social problems, why concoct the absurd underground revolutionary movement in which there appear believers in democracy who call one another "comrade?"

If the film is an appeal to reason through truth, why indulge in name-calling by the very title?

There is need of documented films covering contemporary events in a dispassionate fashion. There is need for a label to identify propaganda films, such as "Hitler, Beast of Berlin," which are made commercially for box office appeal. Fortunately, the present film bears that label—the label of dullness.

Another Smoke Problem.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

HOORAY for your editorial on smoking in service cars!

But why confine your editorial to the men? The worst offenders are the women. On the Maplewood line, for example, no sooner do a lot of women, or more particularly girls, get on the car than they start polluting the air in the car with smoke, with absolutely no regard whatever for others.

May I suggest that you write another editorial on the subject, and go after these girls who do 90 per cent of the smoking on service cars.

LESLIE P. HUEY.

Dislikes Idea of Envoy to Vatican.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHAT are we to think of the appointment of Myron C. Taylor as the President's personal envoy to the Vatican?

Is this an alliance, via the President, between the United States and the Holy See? Is it the forerunner of another Holy Alliance which, this time, will not be limited to Europe alone but will include the Western Hemisphere?

Will Sol Bloom's statement that religion would end wars prove capable of historical proof? Does history prove that religious groups have avoided buckling on the sword when they thought it would redound to the benefit of their faith?

How far are we from present involvement in European wars? How long can we continue to utter the phrase, "little Finland," without stirring up an emotional brainstorm that will swing us into the line with British troops?

It is difficult to understand how we can provide the sinews of war to Finland to kill Russian soldiers and fight the Russian Government without future trouble. It will be decidedly hard to convince Russia, as it would be any other nation, of our neutrality.

INTERESTED.

A Bouquet.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

CONGRATULATIONS on your vigorous comments, also the cartoons, with reference to the outrageous demands of bankers and lawyers in the Public Service Co. reorganization.

While the Court would undoubtedly have done just what it did, even though you had not condemned the conduct of the prominent bankers and lawyers, you rendered a real service to the public by giving the matter publicity.

We are fortunate in Missouri to have such Federal Judges as these presiding over our courts. FIAT JUSTITIA.

Would Pension Teachers at 65.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT was interesting to note recently in your letter column that "School Patron" advocates the compulsory retirement of teachers at the age of 65. The interests of public education would be immeasurably advanced if other citizens, parents, mothers' clubs and patrons' groups would indorse and work for the adoption of the sensible and unprejudiced recommendations of the Strayer school survey on this pressing school problem.

Most of the school executives and teachers can be depended upon to wage a battle to set the age limit for retirement up as far as possible, because of self-interest in keeping their large salaries as long as possible. Already, a group of teachers and administrators selected to study the Strayer survey have disregarded the report and have pushed the compulsory age up to 70 years.

What do the parents of the boys and girls who sit daily in one out of every nine classrooms presided over by aged persons who, in the mild words of the survey, "have generally passed their peak of physical and mental efficiency," have to say? RETIRE AT 65.

MR. HULL'S TRADE PACTS.

Senator Bennett Clark has set a good example for his colleagues in the Midwest—and elsewhere—by his declaration that he will give whole-hearted support to the move to renew the reciprocal trade pacts negotiated under Secretary Hull's leadership.

In spite of the reciprocal trade program, we have seen in recent years an alarming increase in the substitution of quotas, blocked exchange and outright barter for unregimented trade between the nations. Italy and Germany led in developing these devices, but the exigencies of war have caused England and France to resort to similar methods.

Meanwhile, our system of crop-control and price-pegging for farm commodities has tended to raise the level of agricultural prices in America above the world level and strengthen the case of those who call for higher tariffs on farm imports.

But despite these considerations, the basic reasons for clinging to the reciprocity treaties and multilateral trade appear as strong as ever. Have those who advocate the abandonment of unregimented trade in favor of a system of barter, quotas and blocked exchange measured the costs?

Our present system of foreign trade—cramped and stifled as it is by the various kinds of barriers—works automatically. No Federal officials or commissions determine what favored goods shall be exported or what manufacturers or exporters shall have the privilege of shipping them. Under a system of barter or blocked exchange, such governmental controls are necessary.

The introduction of political and administrative controls in foreign trade is properly termed autarchic or Fascistic, and their introduction into the German economy under Chancellor Bruening is warrant for the common statement that Fascism had started in Germany even before Hitler came into power.

So there are good political reasons for preferring to continue to use the reciprocal trade pacts to stimulate our foreign commerce rather than try methods which turn back the clock. Some day this war will be over, and, as President Roosevelt says, the reciprocal trade pacts may then serve as a basis for economic reconstruction.

The long-range interests of farmers and manufacturers and industrial labor all lie, we think, in supporting this fair and moderate means of stimulating the exchange of goods between our own nation and others. Certainly the interest of the consumer lies in that direction, as any goods imported into this country are brought in for the very reason that they are produced more cheaply abroad and can be sold more cheaply here.

All the dollars foreign nations get by selling us goods will immediately be spent in this country, thus affording new orders for our industries. That the export trade of this country is limited only by the ability of foreigners to acquire dollar exchange is clearly demonstrated by the movement of foreign gold reserves into America.

In the first eight months of this year, the Government received from abroad more than two and a half billion dollars in gold. For this gold, we paid one and three-quarters prices, compared with the value of gold prior to 1934. Much of this gold was sent to us unwillingly, because our high tariffs kept the senders from selling us the goods which would have given them the dollar exchange with which to buy what they needed here.

Do we prefer to modify our tariffs by the reciprocal trade pacts so that we can get reasonably priced goods from abroad or do we wish to continue to subsidize our exporters by paying nearly a double price for foreign gold? This is the question which our farmers, industrialists and Congressmen must candidly answer before condemning the trade pacts.

CHRISTMAS WEEK SNOW.

Christmas week and snow and full moonlight—when was there such a combination of time and beauty as our Mississippi Valley looks out on these nights? Those hardy souls who live in the country and commute through spring rains, summer traffic and winter ice are receiving their dividends for the year and to spare in the flood of silver light on the blue-white of the woods and hills. And framed in the upstairs window of the humblest city flat, the master artist has painted the perfect canvas.

According to Fletcher Pratt, Stalin will knock the "n" out of Finnish in the spring.

END OF SHIP-LINE SUBTERFUGE.

The United States Lines, seeking to solve the problems imposed upon it by the revised Neutrality Act, at last has produced a solution which, on its face, is an acceptable one. Its two previous proposals were subterfuges, clearly against public policy, and offered danger of entanglement in the European war. The plan for transfer of eight ships to the flag of Panama aroused a storm of protest, and the company's alternative suggestion of British, Belgian or Irish registry was no more acceptable. The new plan has none of the objections raised against the earlier schemes, since it calls for outright sale of the eight vessels to a Norwegian shipping firm.

If the Maritime Commission establishes that this is to be a complete and bona fide sale, with no understanding for re-purchase at the end of the war or at any other period, then the full requirements of the Neutrality Act will have been carried out in the deal. When title to the ships passes, their fate no longer is a matter of concern to our Government. While the United States Lines doubtless feels aggrieved over losing a chance at profitable war business, Congress was wise in deciding that no one's hope of making money should jeopardize the country's effort to keep out of the conflict.

Prosecuting-Attorney Graves of Kansas City is too sick to stand trial on the various charges against him, so he is going fishing down in Florida.

THE LESSON OF OHIO.

Now that Ohio's relief crisis is abated, the real extent of its gravity is becoming known. There was widespread suffering and actual hunger in Cleveland, reports the American Association of Social Workers. For Thanksgiving, some families had soup made of chicken feet. Illness was aggravated, and the poor were compelled to help the poor.

The Ohio crisis was a national scandal. Its causes were almost exclusively political. A Governor and a State Legislature failed to come to the aid of cities driven to the limit of their borrowing powers. Relief appropriations were not conducive to a balanced budget, it was argued, as the "problem" was bandied about—to be solved in the end only by the issuance of tax warrants and emergency WPA allocations from Washington.

It is only too true that a relief check is not the ultimate cure for our economic dislocations. But most Americans are pragmatic enough to realize that there are times when stopgaps are as important as ultimate solutions. The American way is compounded of more than economics. It embraces compassion, too. And compassion feeds the hungry. What good will there be in a balanced budget if, before it is attained, Joseph's seven lean cows devour the seven fat ones?

WHY THE SCHOOL RELIEF FUND GUARANTEE?

It must be reassuring for its contributors to know that the Pupils' Relief Fund is guaranteed against loss from defaulted bonds. The guarantee fund, $15,000 in bank stock, has been posted by Richard Murphy, bond salesman and member of the Board of Education, who has sold many securities to the charity fund and other school investments.

A few questions may occur, however, to some of these contributors, all employes of the School Board. Why, they may be asking themselves, is it necessary for this fund to be guaranteed? Is the announcement of the guarantee intended to checkmate persons who hint that all may not be well with the fund? Are other public funds guaranteed by deposits put up by bond salesmen? Or are they safeguarded through regular audits by outside accountants?

Mr. Murphy's concern for the fund's well-being is indeed something to marvel at. Why does he keep his $15,000 tied up when a board vote to approve an outside audit would remove to everyone's satisfaction the need for such an elaborate precaution?

Anyhow, the fund is guaranteed only against loss from defaulted bonds. Is anybody going to guarantee that school employes' charity contributions will not be used for political purposes? We refer to the use of $15,544.93 of such contributions for the 1938 school tax fund campaign, of which $5044 was later returned by Superintendent Gerling. It was a good enough cause, but wasn't this $10,500 worth of help given at the expense of the philanthropic causes for which the relief fund was raised?

Dr. Gerling denies that any money was taken from the relief fund for this purpose, but his own report of last Feb. 14, quoted in the Post-Dispatch last Sunday, shows an item of $15,544.93 disbursed to the School Tax Fund from relief contributions.

At any rate, the relief fund ought to be safeguarded, not by quibbles or by impromptu guarantees, but by the business-like procedure of a regular audit by outside accountants.

MR. MURPHY ON THE THIRD TERM.

Attorney-General Frank Murphy doesn't go so far as other members of the administration family in discussing the third-term issue. He says nothing about Mr. Roosevelt being "indispensable," or "the only logical nominee," as some of his colleagues have done. Yet he contrives to leave the door open wide enough for a full-fledged boom to squeeze through. For, says Mr. Murphy, he doubts the President will run again "unless forced to do so by some national emergency." It would be a pretty incompetent campaign manager who failed to produce a first-class, rip-snorting national emergency should a call for one come along.

Almost all the New Deal officials have spoken on the subject and their loyalty to the chief has been touching indeed. Wouldn't it be novel if one of those as yet unpolled should remark sourly to the reporter: "I'm against a third term for Roosevelt, I don't think he'll run, and he will certainly be defeated if he does run"? We're just imagining things, however.

Senator Burke finds Mr. Garner the best man to carry on "the vital part of the Roosevelt program." Previously, nobody had even dreamed that Cactus Jack was the answer to the New Dealers' prayers.

ANSWER TO THE "PHONY WAR" COMPLAINT.

Premier Daladier has given an answer to those bloodthirsty armchair strategists who complain impatiently that this is a "phony war." France's death roll for the first three months of the war was 1433 men, the Premier says; in the corresponding period in 1914, 450,000 French soldiers had been killed.

Because this is a "phony war," that is, one devoid of spectacular land combat on the massive scale of 25 years ago, some 448,500 of France's young men are alive today, instead of rotting somewhere in No Man's Land. It is probably a conservative figure. Had the French military leadership decided to hurl human beings against the steel and concrete wall known as the Siegfried line, the slaughter would have been even more frightful. Some authorities estimate that it would take a million men to breach that wall. But, of course, no stay-at-home military expert would have dared call the war a "phony" one had such an attempt been made.

Said a French General, speaking for the high command, the other day: "We are conducting this war not with economy but with avarice, as far as lives are concerned." That is why Daladier can report a startlingly low mortality list, why there are far fewer widows and orphans in France this holiday season than if the military chiefs had indulged in the wanton sacrifice seen in the previous war. The armchair strategists will not be satisfied with only 1433 dead men, but perhaps their humanitarianism will revive on considering calmly what a cruel carnage is averted by this new species of war.

Now that Hitler has played Santa among the boys along the Siegfried line, Stalin is practically obliged to journey up to the Petsamo front and encourage his sprinters with a few bowls of New Year's punch.

PLACING THE UNEMPLOYMENT COMMISSION.

The Missouri State Unemployment Compensation Commission is canvassing the State for a city in which to establish its permanent headquarters. It is considering invitations from St. Louis, Springfield, Sedalia, St. Joseph, Columbia, Moberly and Marshall.

The place for this important State agency is St. Louis. St. Louis is the place, not because the commission has a central office personnel of 400 persons with an annual payroll of $600,000, but because St. Louis is the chief industrial center of Missouri, and it would be a great convenience to both the commission and a large proportion of those it will serve to have it here. Certainly, it would be a mistake to designate a city because it had offered the most flattering inducement, free rent and the like.

Missourians generally, we believe, will stand above local pride and prefer to see the commission placed in the city in which it can best do its work.

John D. Taylor of Keytesville, ally of the Pendergast machine, wants to be Attorney-General of Missouri. Here is something for the voters to paste in their hats for use when election time comes around.

THE BEAR GOT HOLD OF A PORCUPINE.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Graf Spee and Columbus incidents call attention to spectacular fighting close to our coasts, Chicago newspaper says; urges United States to take over the Allies' nearby island bases in order to satisfy the war debts and to help in safeguarding this country's neutrality.

From the Chicago Daily Tribune.

THE most spectacular if not the major actions of the war at sea have been off the coast of the Americas. The crews of German ships are now interned in Buenos Aires and Montevideo, a German freighter has been chased into Port Everglades in Florida, and the crew of the scuttled German liner Columbus is in the temporary custody of the immigration officers of New York.

The sunken battleship Admiral Graf Spee is a wreck in the waters close to the Uruguayan coast; the British cruiser Exeter is having its wounded cared for and its damage repaired, reportedly in the Falklands off the Argentine coast; British destroyers and cruisers are frequently sighted by the American naval patrol; American warships have been in the thick of things; the American cruiser Tuscaloosa saw the destruction of the Columbus by its own crew as a British destroyer approached the liner.

The war has been brought very close to American shores, although the American republics in the Declaration of Panama published their resolution that nothing of the sort should happen within 300 miles of the neutral and peaceable countries of this hemisphere. These countries, including the United States, are now considering what to do about it, and the belligerents, although plainly unimpressed by the force of the American declarations, are trying to give as little offense as possible in words while doing whatever opportunity gives them a chance to do.

Great Britain and France would be willing to comply if by doing so they would injure Germany. Germany would comply if by doing so it could handicap British and French naval operations.

Close as the sea war is to us, it is nevertheless not our war. The American Government is at least pretending it upholds the neutrality idea that the noncombatant zone can be exended out 300 miles at sea. If we were at war, we undoubtedly would reject any such proposal and ignore any such demands as beyond the right of any nation to impose and beyond its power to enforce.

But, seeing how close the war has come to these shores when European nations are belligerents, our Government remains as indifferent as ever to the fact that two of the warring nations have bases at strategic positions along our trade routes, in the waters of our national defense system, and the zone which we would have to defend if we were at war.

The declaration that belligerents shall not inflict injury on each other in these waters is a feeble and inconsequential attempt to give security to a neutral zone. It is a futility which only draws attention to the neglect of the real element of security. That can be attained only by possessing the bases from which hostile operations might be directed, not against some other enemy but against the United States. These precautions the American Government does not consider.

The outcome of this war is not a certainty to be trusted in advance. A disastrous defeat could hit either side. Even if Americans are foolish enough to assume that the islands in the possession of the British and French never would be used against the United States, they cannot without still greater foolishness proceed further to the assumption that these possessions will forever remain under their present flags.

We may be quite certain that if after several years of fighting a treaty of Potsdam did to France and Great Britain what the treaty of Versailles did to Germany, and if colonial possessions changed hands, we'd have to seize the British and French American islands before they were occupied by the Germans and would probably go to war in doing so. We assume that there will not be any such treaty of Potsdam. There may be another treaty of Versailles, but we are taking the chances.

Our claim to these islands has several justifications. It is the historic policy of the United States to liquidate the foreign possessions in our sphere. That process has been going on for years as something implied in the Monroe Doctrine. By war and by purchase we have eliminated the foreign landlord, the foreign navy and the foreign army. But we have not cleaned up and until we do, the uncertainties will not be removed. If we were right in what we have already done, we shall be right in what is proposed.

The United States is justified in its own self-defense to acquire peaceably anything needed for that purpose. These islands and military bases have, moreover, been paid for. The French and the British already have the money for them. The debts owed by the two countries will never be paid in any other fashion. There was default before Great Britain and France burdened themselves with the cost of another great war. Who could imagine that the obligations of the United States would be met after that?

The American Government needn't bother itself about damages the possessors of these bases do to Germany within the 300-mile zone. It should be concerned about damage which might be done to the United States by whatever power has control of bases from which the American coast, the Caribbean and the Panama Canal could be attacked.

EMPTY COLLEGE DEGREES.

From Labor, Organ of the Railroad Brotherhoods.

IN recent years, practically all desirable positions in the civil service—Federal, state and municipal—have been barred to men and women who do not possess a "college degree." At the same time, they have been thrown open to those who have such degrees, generally without any test to determine their real qualifications.

Those who suffered from this policy frequently offered to pit their knowledge, experience and other qualifications against those who were able to display a sheepskin, but almost invariably their pleas were rejected.

However, they have gained a powerful champion in Dr. Frederick P. Keppel. He is president of the Carnegie Corporation of New York, and he has at least a dozen degrees, but he asserts that "too many of the diplomas awarded by our institutions of higher learning may mean literally nothing." The granting of degrees has "increased to a preposterous point," he says, pointing out that in one year more than 160,000 of these documents were passed out.

This might be a harmless indoor sport, if it were not for the fact that the degrees so profligately distributed open the door of opportunity to those who possess them, while slamming that same door in the faces of those who may be better qualified, but who are denied a chance to make good.

The Misfit President

Books in the News

NEXT year's party conventions, it appears, will be held a month or so later than usual. That will give every prospective delegate, and all others connected with those momentous political gatherings, ample time to read Samuel Hopkins Adams' new book, "The Incredible Era" (Houghton Mifflin Co., Boston). Indeed, it would not be a bad idea to make the book required reading for everyone with influence at either convention.

Mr. Adams, a veteran at exposing corruption and raking out hidden facts, tells the story of the sorriest deal ever wished on the American people at a party convention: the nomination of Warren Gamaliel Harding. Strictly speaking, of course, it wasn't the convention itself but 15 men in a smoke-filled room that made the choice. Harry Daugherty, the Ohio Warwick, aided by other party bosses and a Senate clique, seized the opportunity given by the Wood-Lowden deadlock to put over his handsome and easy-going candidate. The result was a series of shocking scandals and somber tragedies unparalleled in American history.

Nowhere in his carefully documented study does the historian portray Harding as the villain. He was simply the complacent and frequently unknowing tool of the crooks, a friendly and genial man of shallow attainments, "a sophomore in legislation, a tyro in economics and government, an ignoramus in world movements and trends." As President, he proved not merely a misfit, but an open door to corruption. His mediocre Senate record was plain for all to see, but it had no weight in the convention.

The fact that Harding realized his shortcomings and took the nomination against his better judgment heightens the tragedy. "I do not believe I could be happy as President," he told a friend. Later, he described himself to a reporter as "a man of limited talents from a small town," and added: "Oftentimes, as I sit here, I don't seem to grasp that I am President." Only the persuasion of Daugherty and others, plus his wife's driving ambition, led him to become a candidate, Adams makes clear.

Here, as at other points before and after, Dr. George T. Harding's early diagnosis of his son's chief weakness is verified: "You can't say No." It was borne out through his administration, and still more in the shattering exposes that followed his sudden death. The tale is an oft-told one, yet it takes on added force and warning when put together from all available sources, some previously unpublished, by a skillful writer. But all the facts are not available, and may never be known. Mrs. Harding burned every letter she could lay hands on after the President's death. Access is forbidden to many of the records that survived.

The congressional investigations, the series of trials and the journalistic diggers have disclosed enough to drive home a valuable point, however. The story of the piratical gang that surrounded Harding, selling everything from pardons to Government oil reserves, should have made the lesson everlastingly clear. Has it been learned by the men empowered to dispense presidential nominations? F. G.

DR. JAMES BROWN SCOTT'S study, "Law, the State and the International Community" (Columbia University Press, New York), is a timely reminder that progress in world relationships has been by advance and retreat. His two-volume work shows that for all the backsets, principles of law have prevailed among peoples from early Greece to our own day. J. D.

Miss Bates Is Married.

MISS FRANCES GARNEAU BATES, daughter of Mrs. William Maffitt Bates, 4931 Lindell boulevard, and the late Mr Bate , became the bride of John Glennon McDonald this morning during 11 o'clock mass. The Rev. Sylvester Tucker performed the ceremony in the presence of the two families in the Blessed Sacrament Chapel of the St. Louis Cathedral. A profusion of Easter lilies decorated the altar with ferns banked around it. Tall cathedral candles lighted the chapel.

Given in marriage by her brother, William Maffitt Bates Jr., the bride was gowned in cream-colored satin fashioned with a heart-shaped neckline, long sleeves puffed at the shoulder and a fitted girdle pointed in front. The full skirt was designed with a long train. A Mary Stuart cap of rosepoint lace held her full length circular veil in place. She carried a white satin-bound prayer book ornamented with orchids.

Miss Antoinette Schlafly, the bride's only atendant, wore a bright blue velvet gown designed with a high neckline banded with gold and long sleeves. The skirt, full in the back, had a slight train. She wore a matching velvet hat and carried yellow roses.

Mrs. Bates was in black crepe and wore orchids. Mrs. McDonald wore blue crepe and orchids.

Mr. McDonald, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius M. McDonald, 76 Aberdeen place, had his brother, Cornelius Jr., as best man. Ushers were Edwin Wagner Jr., Warren S. Wagner, Thomas J. Dempsey Jr. and J. Frederick Schlafly Jr.

After the wedding there was a breakfast at the home of the bride's mother for the two families. The house was decorated with white snapdragon and white chrysanthemums.

Miss Schmid Engaged.

AT a luncheon given today for Miss Helen Cornwell, one of the season's debutantes, guests were told of the engagement of the hostess, Miss Helen Schmid, and William Henry Hardy of Grand Rapids, Mich. Miss Schmid is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Alexander Schmid, at whose home, 504 Sherwood drive, Webster Groves, the party was given.

Guests were close friends of Miss Cornwell and Miss Schmid who were graduated from John Burroughs School three years ago. They were seated at a long table decorated with frosted pine branches and white chrysanthemum snowballs. Miniature snow men held the place cards. The house was decorated with Christmas greenery and tall vases of dark red snapdragon. Seated at a second table with Mrs. Schmid were Mrs. Anna Allen Stevens, her mother, and Mrs. Alexander M. Cornwell, mother of the guest of honor.

Miss Schmid attended Mills College at Oakland, Cal., her freshman year, and spent her sophomore year at Washington University where she became a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She has been at Sweet Briar College in Virginia for the last two years and will be graduated this June. She has two sisters, Mrs. David Edward Ward and Miss Edwine Allen Schmid.

Mr. Hardy is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William G. Hardy of Grand Rapids. His sister is Mrs. Robert Herrmann of Grand Rapids. He is a graduate of the Wharton School of Commerce and Finance of the University of Pennsylvania and a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

The wedding is planned for early autumn.

Miss Stuart to Be Wed.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD C. STUART, 451 West Swon avenue, Webster Groves, announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Katherine, to Dr. Edgar Hayden Keys Jr. yesterday afternoon at a small cocktail party at their home. The gathering was ostensibly in honor of Miss Stuart's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pittman Stuart, who recently were married.

Dr. Keys, son of Edgar Hayden Keys of the Embassy apartments and the late Mrs. Keys, is a graduate of Harvard University and Washington University School of Medicine. He is a member of Nu Sigma Nu medical fraternity and the Harvard Club of St. Louis.

Miss Stuart was graduated from Smith College and the Juilliard School of Music in New York. After the completion of her studies she traveled extensively abroad and in this country.

Plans for the wedding have not been completed.

MISS FLORENCE MARY and Miss Ann Russell Allen, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell Allen Jr., will be presented to society this afternoon at a tea dance at the St. Louis Woman's Club from 5 to 7 o'clock. Members of the Princeton Triangle Club will be among the guests.

Miss Florence Mary will be gowned in white tulle fashioned with a silver and white bodice, V neckline and short puffed sleeves. Miss Ann Russell's gown also will be white with a sequins bodice that comes to a point at the waistline, and a very full tulle skirt. Both young women will carry red roses. Mrs. Allen will be in black crepe and wear orchids at her shoulder. They will receive in the east drawing room in front of the mantel which is to be banked with white Christmas trees and white chrysanthemums.

Those assisting will be Mrs. Ralph Coale and Mrs. M. Linn Clardy, sisters of Mrs. Allen; Mrs. W. D. Collins and Mrs. Francis York Allen, sister-in-law of the honorees.

Two tea tables decorated with pink poinsettias and stevia have been arranged in the lounge. Pink candles in silver candelabara will light the tables.

Guests will dance in the colonial dining room, which will be garlanded with smilax. White evergreen boughs will encircle the mirror at the south end of the room.

Both debutantes are graduates of Villa Duchesne. Miss Ann attended Manhattanville (N. Y.) College of the Sacred Heart last year. Miss Florence was graduated from Wells College, Aurora, N. Y., in June.

Chapel Wedding Today.

THE chapel of St. Peter's Episcopal Church has been garlanded with greenery and adorned with white flowers for the wedding at 4 o'clock this afternoon of Miss Martha Elise Fairback, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dickson Fairback, and Sutherland G. Taylor III of Mount Vernon, N. Y., and Harwichport, Mass.

The Rev. Dr. John S. Bunting of the Church of the Ascension assisted by the Rev. Hulbert A. Woolfall, pastor of St. Peter's Church, will officiate.

Chrysanthemums, ranging from giant white blooms to daisy and pompon varieties, have been arranged on the candle-lighted altar and in standards at the entrance of the chancel. Tall white tapers rise from banks of woodwardia fern at either side of the altar.

Mrs. Harold Ward Jr. of Minneapolis, Minn., will be the bride's only attendant. Thomas King will serve as best man for Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Fairback will give his daughter in marriage. She will wear a period gown of ivory brocaded taffeta fashioned with a V neckline, long tight sleeves and a fitted basque pointed in front. The skirt, which sweeps into a train, has panniers puffed full at the sides. With her bridal gown she is to wear a finger-tip, ivory-tinted tulle veil with a snood of orange blossoms. Her bouquet will be of lilies of the valley. Mrs. Ward will be gowned in emerald green velvet, with which she will wear a small matching velvet hat and carry an arm bouquet of pale yellow roses. Mrs. Fairback has chosen an afternoon gown of wine lace combined with wine crepe, which she will complement with a small wine-toned hat and a corsage of white orchids.

Mr. Taylor and his bride will live in Cambridge, Mass. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland G. Taylor Jr.

Makes Debut at Ball.

DEBUTANTES and beaux braved a heavy snowstorm and slippery highways last night to attend the debut ball of Miss Betty Griesedieck at Bridlespur Hunt Club. The titian-haired debutante, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Griesedieck, whose home is near the clubhouse in Huntleigh Village, was presented to 300 guests many of whom arrived late from Miss Betty Hensel's tea dance and several dinner parties.

The receiving line—the guest of honor, her parents and her brothers, Joseph and Alvin Jr., home from Cornell University for the holidays—formed about 11 o'clock in front of poinsettia blossoms, roses and white chrysanthemums, arranged in a corner of the club living room. All about them stood vases of other flowers sent to the debutante.

Miss Griesedieck wore white net trimmed with silver, the bouffant skirt made entirely of narrow, silver-edged ruffles, and the bodice, with its narrow shoulder straps, overlaid with fine silver lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias frilled with white tulle.

Frosted Christmas trees used in decoration suggested the wintry out-of-doors. They stood in corners of the lounge and contrasted with deep blue walls of a marquee built over the terrace for dancing. Silver leaves and bells hung at intervals down the walls between tinsel-covered evergreens.

TRIANGLE CLUB HERE FOR ITS ANNUAL SHOW

It Will Give 'Any Moment Now,' Tonight—Many Parties Arranged.

The Princeton Triangle Club is making its annual holiday visit to St. Louis today, to present its fifty-first show, "Any Moment Now," at 8:15 o'clock this evening in the Opera House at Municipal Auditorium.

This year's production is described as designed for pure fun rather than satire. No St. Louisans are among the principals or the "ladies" of the ensemble, but 12 are members of the back-stage staff.

Emphasis is on music. Dances by agile men of Princeton in woman's attire include a polka, "We are the Servant Problem."

Parties at noon, afternoon and after the show awaited the Triangle men between their arrival by special train this morning from Memphis and their departure tomorrow morning for Chicago. The luncheon, at the Racquet Club, was given by the local Princeton Club.

This afternoon the visitors are guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell Allen at a tea dance at St Louis Woman's Club introducing the Allens' daughters, Miss Florence Mary Allen and Miss Ann Russell Allen. Many of the Princetonians will have dinner with St. Louis friends or with their families here.

After the performance they will go to St. Louis Country Club as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elzey Roberts at a ball in honor of the Roberts' nieces, Miss Georgia Berkeley Roberts and Miss Jane Howard Smith.

St. Louis and suburban students who have a back-stage share in the production include W. Rumsey Skinner Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Rumsey Skinner, 415 Argonne drive, Kirkwood; A. William Morriss III and Ralph A. Morriss II, sons of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Morriss Jr., 23 Oakleigh lane; Ross A. Woolsey Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Ross A. Woolsey, 709 South Skinker boulevard; Hugh M. F. Lewis, son of Mrs. Joseph W. Lewis of Clayton road; A. Clifford Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover B. Jones, 46 Eagles drive; Robiee McCarthy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ross McCarthy, 6481 Ellenwood avenue; Edwin T. Stanard Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Stanard of Old Bonhomme road, Clayton; Henry G. Keeler Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Keeler, 625 South Skinker boulevard; Warren P. Elmer Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Warren P. Elmer, 26 Crestwood drive; Theodore W. Sill Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore W. Sill, 4 Litzsinger lane, and Elzey Roberts Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Elzey Roberts of Partridge road.

SINCLAIR LEWIS TAKES ROLE OF PRIEST IN PLAY

Author's Part in 'Shadow and Substance' Now Being Rehearsed in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 27 (AP). —Sinclair Lewis, author and Nobel prize winner, has the role of the Very Rev. Thomas Canon Skerritt in "Shadow and Substance," being produced here by Le Petit Theater du Vieux Carre (Little Theater).

Like a schoolboy, he repeats the words of a Latin grace as they are told him by the play's technical adviser, a real life priest, the Rev. Edward F. Murphy, S. J. They spend the intermissions together, arguing everything from Americana to Tenth Century Ireland.

Lewis came to New Orleans early this fall to rest and write. Bernard Szold, director of the New Orleans Little Theater, invited him to watch rehearsals of the production. And one day Lewis remarked, "I'd like to play the canon in 'Shadow and Substance'."

After a month of rehearsals, the play will open for the membership of the Little Theater Jan. 15.

THOMAS HENRY RIGGS-MILLER, GOLF LINKS DESIGNER, DIES

Architect for Swope Park Course Succumbs in Kansas City to Cerebral Hemorrhage.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 27 (AP).—Thomas Henry Riggs-Miller, landscape and golf course architect, died last night of cerebral hemorrhage. He was 52 years old.

Riggs-Miller designed the Swope Park course here and rebuilt the Mission Hills and Blue Hills courses, the Fairview course at St. Joseph, Mo., the Lawrence (Kan.) Country Club course and the Mexico (Mo.) course. He was park superintendent at St. Joseph in 1937.

Riggs-Miller was born in the Fiji Islands, where his father was a Lieutenant-Colonel in the British Indian army medical corps. He attended Wellington College in New Zealand and Oxford University in England. He served as a sub-lieutenant in the British navy during the World War and was wounded aboard H. M. S. Challenger in a battle off Dogger Bank, Scotland.

MUNCH CANCELS APPEARANCE WITH SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

French Conductor Delayed on Flight to U. S.; Golschmann Schedules New Program.

Charles Munch, French conductor, who was to have made his American debut with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra this week-end, has been forced to cancel his appearance here. Vladimir Golschmann, the orchestra's regular leader, will conduct.

Munch, conductor of the symphony orchestra, Societe des Concerts du Conservatoire, was delayed at Lisbon Portugal, for several days and was again delayed at La Horta, in the Azores Islands, when bad weather caused postponement of the flight of the American Clipper, on which he was a passenger.

Golschmann has scheduled an entirely new program and will have as his major offering Tschaikowsky's "Pathetique." Other numbers are: Sibelius' "Finlandia," prelude to the first act of Wagner's "Lohengrin" and the same composer's Siegfried Idyll." Excerpts from Stravinsky's "Fire Bird" ballet will complete the program.

CLARK'S SECRETARY MARRIES

Senator Is Best Man for Edwin S. Villmoare Jr.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP). — Edwin S. Villmoare Jr., secretary to Senator Clark (Dem.), Missouri, and Miss Adelaide Henry were married yesterday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Henry.

Lord Playfair Dies at 90.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Lord Playfair, 90 years old, a military figure before the turn of the century, died yesterday. He had been commander of the coast artillery of the Scottish command and retired as Brigadier-General. He was aide-de-camp to the general officer commanding troops in Canada from 1881-84.

Luther Dana Fernald Dies.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27 (AP). —Luther Dana Fernald, one time vice-president and advertising director of the Farm Journal and active in the publishing field for 30 years, died Monday night after a long illness. He was 54 years old.

OFFICIALS' DAUGHTERS IN WASHINGTON DEBUT

Jean Wallace and Mary Jackson to Make Bows at Party for 500 Friends.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—The joint debut today of the 18-year-old daughters of two high officials is a highlight of the brilliant and busy Christmas deb season in the capital.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Mrs. Wallace and Solicitor-General Robert Jackson invited 500-odd friends to the festively-decked Carlton Hotel for the coming-out party of brunette Jean Wallace and chestnut-haired Mary Jackson.

Both girls are in college, not sure, they said, that they are "the party type," but they admitted enjoying every minute of the whirl involved in being debutantes. Miss Wallace soon will return to Connecticut College for women, and Miss Jackson to Smith College, where she hopes to help organize a Democratic club.

Margaret Houghteling, daughter of the Commissioner of Immigration and Mrs. J. L. Houghteling, wore a corsage of Gardenias sent by President and Mrs. Roosevelt when she was presented at a tea Friday. Her mother is the daughter of Frederic A. Delano and a cousin of the President.

A pink and silver ball as elaborate as a Hollywood set introduced Miss Marilynn Himes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Himes. He was formerly an Ohio Congressman. Miss Himes' gown had a silver lame bodice and a skirt made of layers and layers of cathay pink net embroidered in silver.

Another debutante of official interest was Miss Deborah Kirk, daughter of Capt. Alan G. Kirk, naval attache of the American Embassy in London, and here from Vassar for the holidays. She wore the dress in which she was presented at the court of St. James'—white satin and tulle—and carried a bouquet of white orchids and bouvardia and deep pink camellias.

W. G. SCHLUETER, BUILDING AND LOAN EXECUTIVE, DIES

Former Mayor of Shrewsbury Succumbs to Heart Attack After Shoveling Snow.

William G. Schlueter, secretary of the Mount Olive Building and Loan Association and former Mayor of Shrewsbury, died of a heart attack in his home this morning, soon after he had gone inside, exhausted from exertions in shoveling snow off walks. He was 61 years old and resided at 7733 Devonshire avenue.

Mr. Schlueter, Mayor of Shrewsbury about seven years ago, was a member of the Shrewsbury Plan Commission. Until several years ago he had long been connected with the Bohn-Lenartz Co., wholesale food dealers. Surviving are his wife, a son and three daughters.

SENATORS DIFFER ON TRADE TREATY INQUIRY RESULTS

Vandenberg Says Hull Is Using Smoot - Hawley Tariff Act as a Red Herring.

FAVORS A FULL INVESTIGATION

Supporters of Present Policy Declare That Examination Will Show Its Value.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Six Senators agreed today that Congress probably would make the complete and searching examination of the reciprocal trade treaty program invited by Secretary of State Hull, but there was sharp disagreement as to results.

Hull said yesterday he would welcome an exhaustive investigation by Congress, but insisted that it not be intrusted to legislators who supported the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill.

Accusing Hull of "unwittingly confessing his poverty of realistic argument" in referring to the Hawley-Smoot bill, Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, said: "By all means, let us investigate fully and fairly, but let's investigate the real and immediate issues and not Mr. Hull's red herring. I have repeatedly said that I agree with Mr. Hull that there should never be another Hawley-Smoot general tariff revision, no matter what it is labeled.

"But the alternative is not necessarily a back-door swing to the low tariffs in which Mr. Hull has always deeply believed and which American labor, industry and agriculture have always repudiated whenever the issue has gone to the polls."

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said: "The Hawley-Smoot tariff bill has never been repealed. We are still working under it. Secretary Hull has never asked for its repeal, but he has seen fit to defame it now and then. Some of the rates in the bill were too high."

Hull said that an investigation would show ample benefits from the program. "The more complete and searching the examination that is made, the more pleasing it will be to the friends and supporters of this program of restoration of our agriculture, commerce and industry, provided it is undertaken in an earnest desire to secure information," he declared.

Senator Thomas (Dem.), Utah, said he and other supporters of the program would welcome an exhaustive examination of the trade treaty idea because they felt it would bring out many little-recognized accomplishments.

Senator Hatch (Dem.), New Mexico, agreed that an investigation would show the program had been of value.

On the other hand, Senator Bankhead (Dem.), Alabama, said he was opposed to a long debate over the issue.

Senator Burke (Dem.), Nevada, advocated a change in the law so as to make it require Senate ratification of the trade pacts.

Chicago U. Economist Says Republicans Should Thank Hull.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27 (AP).—Calling tariff walls erected during Republican administrations a black page in the history of the Republican party, President Jacob Viner of the American Economic Association said here "Republicans should be glad Secretary Hull is trying to tear it out."

The reciprocal trade agreements of the present Secretary of State deserve to survive, said Viner, University of Chicago evonomist, adding "if Republicans attempt to make the agreements a major issue and oppose them during the coming campaign, it will show they have learned nothing since the 1920s." Dr. Viner expressed his views in an interview preceding the opening of the Allied Social Science Associations' convention here today.

Farmers, said Dr. Viner, will have more to gain from a liberal trade policy than a restrictive one. "In the past they have been the chief sufferers from tariff barriers, and I think they still are," he said. Calling himself one of the last of the free traders, he said free trade would make an important contribution to peace but would not insure it.

SHIFT FOR BRECKINRIDGE LONG

To Get New Post When Davies Takes War Problem Section.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Breckinridge Long, head of the State Department's new section for war emergency problems, will be transferred to another post when Joseph E. Davies, Ambassador to Belgium, becomes special assistant to Secretary Hull.

President Roosevelt, discussing the changes at his press conference yesterday, did not say what Long would do. Davies, who will take over much of Long's work, told reporters in New York last night that "keeping out of war is American's major emergency problem."

IN THE WAR ZONE: MANNERHEIM DEFENDS FREEDOM HE WON

sian advance in Northern Finland and smashing Russian attacks against the Finnish fortified positions in the south. As report after report, wired into the cities behind the embattled Finnish line, told how Mannerheim's soldiers were hurling back the enemy, prayers of thanksgiving arose from thousands of Finnish lips—and veterans of that other war, which Mannerheim turned into sweeping victory, muttered with tears streaming down their cheeks: "All is well. Finland will live. Mannerheim is in command again."

At his headquarters, while battle still raged, he asked an American correspondent to express his gratitude to the people of the United States for their sympathy and for their aid to the Finnish cause. As he spoke (in good English) long lines of Russian prisoners were shepherded past him and his own soldiers looked up to him, with veneration in their eyes.

A Real Soldier.

Baron Mannerheim is a real soldier. He is 6 feet 2 inches tall. His bright glance darts out of narrow slits under a rugged brow. His expression is shrewd and calm. He is straight-lipped, erect in carriage, hard-boiled. At the front he wears rough-and-ready uniform. But, on gala occasions in times of peace, he appears in replendent garb, surmounted by handsome Field Marshal's head gear—made of white fur—while in his hand, he proudly holds a marshal's truncheon. All the pomp of Napoleonic days come to life again! Finland is now praying that he may soon lead another procession, in celebration of new victories, decked in all that peacetime magnificence.

Since early youth, Baron Mannerheim has been a military man. This war is his fourth. His first was the Russian Japanese war of 35 years ago, in which he took part as a Lieutenant-Colonel in the armies of Imperial Russia. His next taste of active service was in the years of the World War, when—still an officer of the Czar—he commanded a cavalry regiment and rose to the rank of Lieutenant-General.

In 1917, Mannerheim returned to his native Fniland resolved to help it achieve independence. Having formed a crops of White Guards, he soon became involved in a bitter fight against Finnish Reds. Enlisting the aid of German troops, under Count von der Goltz, Mannerheim won a couple of spectacular victories and entered Helsinki, the Finnish capital, in triumph.

That was in 1918. Soon afterward Finland was declared an independent republic. Mannerheim, still high in the new regime, urged the Allies to help him in attacking the Bolsheviki in Russia, who, under Lenin and Trotsky, had won supremacy there. But the Allies coldshouldered the idea. Mannerheim did succeed, however, in getting Count von der Goltz and his German soldiers out of Finland, to the great joy of the Finns, who had begun to suspect strongly that the Count expected to bring Finland under permanent German rule.

Out of Politics.

After awhile, Mannerheim withdrew from active participation in Finnish politics. He earned the deep gratitude of his fellow-countrymen by overseeing the construction of Finland's great fortified line in Karelia, fronting the Russian border, called in his honor the Mannerheim line.

Along that intricate system of pill boxes and redoubts and barbed wire and other obstructions, the Finns are now locked in dealy struggle against the armies of Soviet Russia. Their success in holding up the advance of the Russians in Karelia has been largely attributed to Mannerheim's able leadership and to the strength of the positions which he helped build and behind which he stationed his brave divisions. As for military operations in Central and Northern Finland, flanking movements ordered by him, extraordinarily bold in conception and ambitious in scope, are reported to have been primarily responsible for turning Russian advance last week into headlong retreat.

What the outcome will be of little Finland's splendid fight against huge Russia is still shrouded in doubt. If the Finns win, much of the credit will undoubtedly belong to doughty Baron Mannerheim. If they lose he will, in all probability, stay enshrined in the affections of his fellow-Finns, as the man who freed them once and, in his old age, strove ably and bravely to preserve their freedom.

GIRL DESCRIBES HORROR OF LONG WARSAW SIEGE

knows who they are—the police just told us they would have to do it.

"And always, always, always—noise! Great thundering bangs and the noise of falling bricks and people screaming. Or you could hear them caught in timbers and groaning for hours and you were so glad when you could not hear them groan any more.

"People went mad with it. They would run through the streets screaming.

"I saw one young boy doing that, running into buildings or lamp posts as though he were blind and then getting up and running on, and then I saw the policeman shoot him. They had to do everything to keep down panic in the populace. And always noise, even when you were lying in the cellar you could not rest because the earth would shake. Sometimes they went mad very slowly and you could watch it come on hour by hour. Sometimes they would break quick, like that!

Babies Worst of All.

"The worst of all was the babies and children. The police would bring them in off the strets, with only a tag saying "Found by such-and-such a policeman at such an hour on such a day," tied around their wrists. I worked in one such place, and that was the only place where you could not hear the shells because in that room the little things screamed so loud.

"Then on the twenty-first we just happened to hear over the radio that the Germans had promised to stop shelling for five hours so that neutrals could leave.

"I said I would go, but my sister would not go. She was terribly frightened and said she would rather stay in her corner of the cellar than go out into the street. When we got through the lines the Germans were really marvelous to us and gave us bread and sausages and took us on by train to Koenigsberg."

Now this is the story of the girl in the Adlon bar. It may be true, and it may be a plant, to make Americans very glad they are a long way from the war, and to make them want to stay that way.

But if it is a plant, it is a very good plant, and having had a number of stories planted on me, I offer it to you as a curiosity and one of the best.

REICH COLLECTING JUTE BAGS

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—Members of the Hitler youth organization today began collecting potato sacks and other jute bags from housewives.

The populace was informed that jute bags were needed urgently "for food and defense purposes" of the Reich. The youngsters' attention was directed especially to air raid shelters where at the beginning of the war sand was poured quickly into jute bags, but now is stored in wood containers.

ROME-VATICAN CO-OPERATION FOR PEACE SUGGESTED

Italian Journalist Reputed to Be Close to Ciano Urges Church-State Collaboration.

ROME, Dec. 27 (AP).—A suggestion that the Italian Government and the Holy See collaborate for promotion of peace and opposition to any spread of Communism has come from Giovanni Ansaldo, a journalist reputed to be close to Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Ansaldo was quoted yesterday by the Catholic Journal Avvenire as indicating such a possibility was heightened by the prospective visit of Pope Pius XII to King Vittorio Emanuele and Queen Elena tomorrow, the first visit by a Pope to an Italian sovereign in 69 years.

"The Catholic Church can never desire any solution of the crisis which would diminish Italian prestige and power," Ansaldo was quoted as saying. "Conversely, the Italian state can never passively tolerate that any political or social organization should prevail in Europe which fights Catholicism, impedes its free practice, humiliates it, bans it and massacres its priests."

The church and the Italian state, by their inherent nature, he said, are "bound to collaborate each in its own way, to save Western civilization from shipwreck."

WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES G. ROSS

Crusade," recalls the statement of Norris forecasting his attitude in the Smith-Hoover campaign.

"I am a Protestant and a dry," said Norris, "yet I would support a man who was wet and a Catholic provided I believed he was sincerely in favor of law enforcement and was right on economic issues."

Here was the same quality of independence which Norris had shown in his anti-war vote in April, 1917. Reviled then as a traitor, threatened with physical violence when he returned to his home State to defend his position, he has lived to see his judgment approved by a great portion of the American people. Norris' stand in 1917 had caused many to believe that he would join the isolationists who opposed the repeal of the arms embargo at the last session of Congress. To the contrary, his deep-seated hatred of Hitlerism, with all other forms of oppression, led him to support the repeal measure. His expressed conviction that the bill would aid the cause of democracy, and at the same time safeguard the peace of the United States, was a large factor in lining up popular congressional support for repeal.

Washington newspaper correspondent have repeateely picked Norris, in polls, as "the most useful Senator." Lief recalls a testimonial dinner given Norris in 1927, at which were present, among many others, 50 newspaper writers of all shades of political opinion, representing papers equally diverse. One of them, chosen as spokesman for the group, referred to the black moods of pessimism that some times come upon Norris. "But," he added, "no man has a right to feel more buoyant." Concluding his tribute, he said that in the career of Norris, observers of the Washington scene could find an antidote for cynicism—a reason for steady faith in democracy.

This was the judgment of the great majority of Washington newspaper writers 12 years ago, and it remains their judgment today.

FINNISH DONATIONS MAY BE DEDUCTED FROM INCOME TAX

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—The Finnish Relief Fund, Inc., announced, yesterday that donations to the fund could be deducted from income tax returns of individuals and corporations.

Internal revenue agents advised, the announcement said, that the donations "may be deducted to the full extent of the law."

Individuals may deduct up to 15 per cent of taxable net income for charitable purposes, and corporations, 5 per cent, the statement added.

CARS FORM QUEUES IN BERLIN TO GET RATION OF GASOLINE

Most Stations Out of Fuel by End of Month—Few Autos Permitted to Run.

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—The war has brought to Berlin a new kind of queue—a queue of cars, trucks and motorcycles patiently awaiting their turn at a filling station.

During the last days of each month, most filling stations are out of gasoline. Drivers of the comparatively few automobiles still permitted to operate see their supply running lower and lower as they drive from filling station to filling station, following up tips that this or that station still has benzine, or that the first of the supply for the next month has just been delivered.

If a motorist finally discovers that at a filling station a big gasoline truck is pumping its contents into the station tanks, he likely sees that already 10 or more cars are lined up ahead of him. Soon policemen approach and demand to know why there is interference with traffic.

But the officers have reckoned without the vocabulary of the Berlin chauffeur. From every car complaints rain down upon the officers, who soon content themselves with providing enough lanes between groups of cars for regular traffic to make its way.

When the driver finally reaches the pump he receives his maximum of 20 liters, or quarts, at 16 cents a quart.

NAZIS FREE BRITISH DIPLOMAT TAKEN OFF ESTONIAN VESSEL

George Vereker Was Seized While on Way From Moscow to Bolivia.

LONDON, Dec. 27 (AP).—British sources announced today that Germany had released George Vereker, former counselor of the British Embassy in Moscow who was taken off an Estonian ship by a German warship Dec. 9 while en route to his new post as Minister to Bolivia.

Vereker was said to have arrived in Oslo, Norway, Christmas day and to be now en route to London.

Germany released him, British sources said, after being satisfied that Britain was not detaining diplomats passing through Allied controls.

Vereker was said in Berlin to have been released through efforts of the United States Embassy, which represents British interests in Germany. It was reported the release was negotiated on the basis of a reciprocal agreement.

U. S. GOLD IMPORTS REACH $193,666,769 TOTAL IN WEEK

Post-War High; Big Canadian Shipment Possibly Connected With British War Purchases.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Another huge gold shipment from Canada—possibly connected with British war purchases in this country—boosted gold import figures in the week ended Dec. 20 to the post-war high of $193,666,769.

This figure was nearly eight times the size of the preceding week's imports, and also was about $50,000,000 larger than two weeks earlier, when Canada also made an unusual transfer of the metal. Canada accounted for $167,088,345 of the imports in the week ended Dec. 20. The possibility that the Canadian metal was intended to facilitate cash-and-carry compliance with the neutrality law was indicated by the fact that most of it was not immediately sold to the Treasury, as is the usual case with incoming foreign metal.

PRIZE SHIP THAT CAUSED NAZI PROTEST LEAVES CANAL ZONE

British Crew Takes Vessel to Jamaica; State Department Upholds Its Use of Waterway.

COLON, Panama, Dec. 27 (AP).—The case of the German protest against the United States' clearance of the British-seized German freighter Duesseldorf apparently has been closed by departure of the vessel for a prize port in Jamaica.

Still undecided, however, was the future of a German clerk, Hans von Appen, whose insistence on removal from the Duesseldorf for hospitalization resulted in disagreement as to whether he had appendicitis. Physicians at Santo Tomas Hospital, in the Republic of Panama, said his condition was normal, so he was placed in quarantine.

The Duesseldorf left Cristobal harbor yesterday in the hands of a British prize crew which seized it off the Chilean coast Dec. 15. The United States Army commander for the Canal Zone had refused to entertain a protest against its clearance from Cristobal after transit of the canal.

State Department officials in Washington said they were taking no action concerning the 4930-ton freighter and pointed out a prize ship has the same status as a belligerent warship, both being permitted passage through the canal under specified conditions.

EX-PRESIDENT OF POLAND RETURNS TO SWITZERLAND

Moscicki Back in Fribourg Declares He Will Stay Out of Politics.

FRIBOURG, Switzerland, Dec. 27 (AP).—Ignace Moscicki, former President of Poland, arrived here today with his wife from Rumania and said he would stay out of politics.

Moscicki, who retained his Swiss citizenship throughout his years as Polish President starting in 1926, returned to this western Swiss town where he made a fortune as an exiled chemist and industrialist before the World War. He was exiled by Russia in 1892 for his agitation for Poland's freedom.

BERLIN, Dec. 27 (AP).—Nazi sources said today that Germany would not permit the departure of Poland's former President, Ignace Moscicki, from Rumania to stand as a precedent for other members of the Polish Government. Nazi spokesmen said Moscicki was permitted to depart only because of illness.

ROOSEVELT AND ITALY'S KING EXCHANGE NEW YEAR NOTES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—President Roosevelt expressed hope that Italy would remain at peace in an exchange of New Year's greetings yesterday with King Vittorio Emanuele.

The King cabled the President: "I beg you to accept, Mr. President, the very cordial good wishes which I express, on the eve of the New Year, for the people of the United States and for you personally."

Roosevelt replied: "I deeply appreciate Your Majesty's cordial greetings and assure you that in the name of the American people I am happy to reciprocate your kindly wishes. May the New Year have in store for you and the Italian people the peace and happiness which we all so greatly desire."

HOLLYWOOD GOSSIP MOVIES AMUSEMENTS

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Movie Firsts.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 27.

ED SULLIVAN

The American public's first glimpse of color films was in New York on Dec. 11, 1909 . . The first animal picture was a one minute farce produced in 1907 by Biograph, titled, "Wanted, a Dog," in which the principal actor was supported by a cast of 60 dogs.

The first talking picture that followed screen technique was "The Family Picnic," starring Harry Delf, and released in 1928. . . . The first picture in which a real log cabin was used was "The Miner's Sweetheart," a one-reel drama in which Harry Myers made his screen debut. Before that log cabins were painted on the scenery.

The first movie filmed in Hollywood was "Her Indian Hero," directed by Milton Fahrney, with an all-star cast, including Dorothy Davenport, Jack Conway, George Gebhardt and Russell Bassett . . . First person ever signed to a movie contract was James J. Corbett, the heavyweight champion.

First newsreel stunt subject was a parachute jump from the Statue of Liberty by Rodman Law, who almost got killed doing it. . . . First speech ever heard from the screen by movie audiences was a short in which Will Hays introduced vitaphone.

First Hollywood Studio.

The first movie studio in Hollywood was at the old Blondeau tavern and saloon, at Sunset and Gower, which was rented by David Horsley, owner of the Nestor and Centaur picture companies. . . . The first Chinese film player to star in a picture was Lady Tsen Mei, in "For the Freedom of the East," made toward the end of the war.

The first newsreel subject with sound was Lindbergh's takeoff on his famous flight across the Atlantic. . . . Jack Mulhall played the first dual role in talkies when he appeared as a policeman and a crook in the first National picture, "Pat and Mike," and carried on a conversation with himself.

The first poem to be screened was Sir Walter Scott's "The Lady of the Lake," produced by Vitagraph in 1909, with Edith Storey in the role of Ellen. The film was a four reeler. . . . First picture to raise the question of whether an author rates royalties from subsequent sequels is "Four Wives," sequel to a Fannie Hurst story which appeared on the screen as "Four Daughters."

The first Hollywood preview was of Thomas H. Ince's "Custer's Fight," starring Francis Ford, which was held at the old Hymer Theater in Venice, Cal., in October, 1911. The preview audience included Sarah Bernhardt, Jim Jeffries, Freddie Welsh, Ruth Roland and Nat C. Goodwin. Before that Ince had shipped his pictures to New York as soon as he finished them without waiting for an audience reaction.

Leland Stanford, Governor of California, was the first to prove by the use of the movie camera that a thoroughbred horse has all four legs off the ground when in full stride, and won a big bet on it!

Movie Censorship Board.

The first movie censorship board was the State Board of Centors created in Pennsylvania on June 19, 1911. The board wasn't appointed until 1914 because the Legislature pulled a boner and neglected to make an appropriation. . . . Bert Williams was the first Negro comedian to star in pictures. . . . The first war propaganda picture shown in America was "The Battle Cry of Peace," made by J. Stuart Blackton in 1915, with Norma Talmadge and Charles Richman.

The first famous moving picture theater was the Electric Theater, on South Main street, in Los Angeles. The theater was opened by L. Tally on April 2, 1902. Admission was 10 cents for a show that lasted one hour. . . . The first jungle film was made in 1909 by the Selig company. It was "Big Game Hunting in Africa," and showed trained lions in a movie studio jungle. The picture was considered genuine even in Africa.

The first famous stage actor to appear in a movie under his own name was Joseph Jefferson, in "Rip Van Winkle," produced in 1897 by the American Mutoscope and Biograph company. . . . The first Keystone comedy was "Cohen at Coney Island," directed by Mack Sennett. . . . "The Black Diamond Express," produced by Vitagraph in 1898, was the first movie to show railway scenes.

The first moving pictures were taken in 1878 by E. J. Muybridge. He placed a series of cameras in a row, which were operated electrically, taking consecutive pictures. The first moving picture showed a horse in action. . . . Jules Verne's "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," made in 1913, was the first picture taken under the sea. A submarine tube was adapted for photographic purposes.

First Close-Up.

The first close-up ever shot was in an Edison experimental film in which Fred Ott, a member of the staff, was shown sneezing. . . . The first screen kiss was executed by May Irwin and John C. Rice in New York in 1896 in a 500-foot film version of their stage success, "The Widow Jones."

The first war films were taken during the Spanish-American war. They contained no fighting scenes, and showed only the marching and landing of troops. . . . The first of Shakespeare's plays to be put on the screen was "Othello," which was released by the Vitagraph company in 1902. The same company followed up with "Romeo and Juliet" in 1903. . . . The first movie "star" was Max Aronson, known as Broncho Billy. His first film appearance was in "The Great Train Robbery" in 1903. . . . "Quo Vadis" was the first film made in eight reels. . . . Roy McCardell was the first American newspaper reporter to write for the movies. He started with the Biograph company at $100 a week.

First full length talking picture taken outdoors was "In Old Arizona," Fox Movietone film made in 1929, with Edmund Lowe, Warner Baxter and Dorothy Burgess, and directed by Raoul Walsh and Irving Cummings.

First American film starring a stage actress of world-wide fame was "Queen Elizabeth," with Sarah Bernhardt. It had its first showing at the Lyceum Theater in New York on July 12, 1912. . . . Cecil B. DeMille's "The Ten Comandments" was the first feature film to use color. . . . The first British film was "The Soldier's Courtship," produced in 1896 by Robert W. Paul. . . . First full length all-color picture was "On With the Show," a backstage story with Joe E. Brown, Louise Fazenda, Betty Compson and Sam Hardy.

DIES COMMITTEE REPORTED SPLIT OVER ITS REPORT

One Member Said to Be Making Drastic Changes in Chairman's Preliminary Draft.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Members of the Dies Committee were said today to be in disagreement over the report of their investigation of un-American activities which must be presented to the House next Wednesday.

Authoritative sources said that the preliminary draft, submitted to the committee by Chairman Dies (Dem.), Texas, was being altered drastically by one member who objected to emphasis placed on certain references to Communism.

A dispute was reported brewing, too, over the question of whether the committee should include recommendations for legislation to curb subversive activities.

A year ago Dies prepared a similar report containing proposals for registering aliens and a public recording of members and activities of such organizations as the Communist party. They were dropped at the last minute, however, when some committeemen suggested that their inclusion might influence some House members to oppose continuing the committee on the theory that the investigation had been completed.

Dies Wants Another Year.

The committee will expire Jan. 3, but Dies already has introduced legislation which would extend it for at least one more year. He said that if he obtained the "proper cooperation" from Government agencies, the committee might require as little as $50,000. Otherwise, he said about $200,000 would be necessary.

Well-informed persons at the capitol said that the committee might encounter serious difficulty when Dies' request is debated, probably early in February, for these two reasons:

1. A gentleman's agreement was reported to have been reached last year under which influential House members supported Dies' request for a continuance in exchange for his promise that he would not ask for another extension.

2. Disagreement developed among the committeemen themselves over procedure, especially at hearings.

Rpresentative Voorhis (Dem.), California, who voted against recreating the committee and then was appointed to it to fill a vacancy, has been severely critical of what he has called occasional "slipshod" methods.

Voorhis proposed yesterday that the committee delay publishing a report of an inquiry into Communism on the West coast until hearings have been held. Nazi and Fascist activities in the region, he said, also should be disclosed in such a case.

The report was described authoritatively as charging that Communists have won important footholds in the Hollywood movie industry.

4 YOUNG MEN GET 10 YEARS AT ALGOA FOR ROBBERIES

To Plead Guilty to Two More Charges and Receive Terms to Run Concurrently.

Four young men, charged with robbery under the Henry law, pleaded guilty today and were sentenced by Circuit Judge Robert L. Aronson to 10 years in the intermediate reformatory at Algoa, near Jefferson City. They will plead guilty to two similar charges tomorrow and Friday and, by arrangement with the Circuit Attorney's office, will receive two more 10-year sentences to run concurrently with the first.

The prisoners and the addresses they gave are Alfred W. Wagner, 3003A North Market street; Leonard F. McPherson, 3004 North Market; Morris M. Welch, 2339 Howard street; eGorge E. Greenwood, 5095A McPherson avenue. The charges are that they robbed Fred Cissel, a confectioner at 2411 North Twenty-second street of $32 on Oct. 27; obtained $38 next day in a robbery of a grocery at 7202 Virginia avenue, and took $38 on Oct. 30 from a shoe store at 4224 Manchester avenue.

E. ST. LOUIS BUS LINE SEEKS TO RENEW PERMIT HERE

To Ask for Permission to Continue Using Square at Third and Washington as Terminus.

The East St. Louis City Lines, Inc., operators of a bus line across Eads Bridge, will seek to extend its permit to use the square at Washington avenue and Third street as an eastern terminus when the present permit expires Jan. 1, E. Sam Davis, manager of the lines said today.

The company, Davis said, is hunting for a new terminus as the bus station, used since busses replaced the street cars in 1935, is on the riverfront memorial ground. So far no suitable site has been found.

The busses, under the present arrangement, are forced to circle the watering trough at Third street and Washington avenue and head back east before discharging St. Louis passengers. This system has been the source of frequent complaints from commuters.

CLARK OF IDAHO TO BACK WHEELER FOR PRESIDENT

Comes Out for Montana Senator, After Burke Indorses Garner for Nomination.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 (AP).—Senator Clark (Dem.), Idaho, announced today he would support Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940.

Clark's statement, following an announcement by Senator Burke (Dem.), Nebraska, favoring Vice-President Garner for the nomination, aroused new interest in political discussions as members of Congress began arriving for the session which opens next Wednesday.

HORNER SUES KNOX, CHICAGO DAILY NEWS

Seeks $250,000 Damages for Editorial on Bioff Extradition Case.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 27 (AP).—Gov. Henry Horner announced today he had filed suit for $250,000 damages against the Chicago Daily News, Inc., and Frank Knox, editor and publisher of that newspaper. The suit charged libel in an editorial.

Gov. Horner said his petition charged the newspaper with an attempt to "injure and destroy" the Governor and the Democratic party for political reasons. The suit concerned an editorial headed "Why Delay," dealing with extradition proceedings for the return of William Bioff, West Coast movie labor leader, from California.

The petition contained three counts. The first made a general libel charge, the Governor's announcement said, against the newspaper and its publisher, alleging that the editorial imputed improper motives to the Governor for postponing the Bioff extradition hearing.

The third count recited that Knox was a member of the Republican party and was its vice-presidential candidate in 1936 and continued, "since the election of 1933, said defendant had attempted to attain the position where he would be a powerful, controlling and dominating influence in the Republican party in various communities and political divisions. . . .

"The defendant has attempted during said period to impair and destroy the influence and power of the Democratic party in said various communities and political divisions."

This count continued with the allegation that the defendant "deliberately and with ill will and with actual malice, attempted by writing, publishing and circulating the libel hereinafter set forth to injure and destroy the good name and the good reputation of the plaintiff, individually and as Governor of Illinois, and because the plaintiff was elected Governor of Illinois as the candidate of the Democratic party, and was known to the people of Illinois and of the United States as an outstanding member of the Democratic party, thereby to impair, injure and destroy the influence and power of the Democratic party."

The suit was filed, the announcement said, in Cook County Circuit Court simultaneously with release of the statement here.

The Governor's announcement said his suit alleged that Knox personally wrote the editorial which charged the Governor with delaying action on State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney's petition to extradite Bioff on an old conviction of pandering.

Courtney's petition contended Bioff was not compelled to serve a six-month jail sentence. After a hearing Dec. 19, Gov. Horner granted attorneys for both the State and Bioff until Jan. 10 to file additional legal citations.

APPENDECTOMY, NOT PARENTS, KEEPING JULIET FROM ROMEO

Mrs. Herrick Announces Daughter Was Operated on Before Christmas.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP).—An appendectomy, not just defiance of a habeas corpus writ, has kept Eileen Herrick away from George Lowther III, her mother, Mrs. Walter R. Herrick, said when her daughter's absence was noted at a family party. The operation, she said, had been performed just before Christmas.

It was Miss Herrick's second hospitalization in six weeks. The first was because she was "tired and nervous." The second tended to halt rumors that she had been kept away from Lowther because her father was opposed to their marriage.

Lowther had gone into court twice for habeas corpus writs charging she was being held against her will, and on one of these occasions she told Supreme Court Justice Isidor Wasservogel she loved Lowther and wanted to marry him. Then, on Dec. 9, she said she needed two or three months to decide whether she wanted to wear a wedding ring. Lowther would not comment on the newest development, but his attorney, Eli Johnson, hinted there might be a wedding shortly after New Year's day.

STATE BAR HEAD URGES COMMITTEES TO MEET

Salient points in the program of the Missouri Bar Association are set forth in the current Missouri Bar Journal by the president, Roscoe Anderson of St. Louis, who suggests also that the association's 28 committees meet soon at some central point.

Explaining that the association holds only one general meeting each year, in the early fall, Anderson suggests that an assembly, possibly at Jefferson City late in January, would not only permit each committee to discuss its particular assignment, but would make possible co-ordination of the work of various committees at a general meeting following individual committee meetings.

In his discussion of the general program, Anderson mentions plans for improving the law institutes held throughout the State for discussion of various phases of the law, encouragement of bar organizations in judicial circuits not now organized and certain administrative changes within the association.

Anderson urges all lawyers and judges to contribute suggestions for improvements in civil procedure to the State Supreme Court's new commission of 54 attorneys, headed by Kenneth Teasdale of St. Louis. The commission will report to the Supreme Court, which will make suggestions to the next Legislature.

"Concerted action," Anderson declares, "must be taken to eliminate delay in the determination of litigated matters and in expediting review by appellate courts as well as in reducing costs and expenses of litigation."

Anderson says one of the first orders of business of the association is to bring about adoption of the new plan for selection and tenure of Judges, through amendment of the State Constitution, by initiative. The plan, designed to remove selection of Judges from political influence, has been described in detail by the Post-Dispatch.

The Bar Journal contains also a list of new committee appointments by Anderson. Of 302 lawyers on 28 committees, 74 are residents of St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Chairmen of 10 of the 28 committees are St. Louisans. They are Kenneth Teasdale, Committee to Co-operate with the Missouri Institute for Administration of Justice; Arthur J Freund, Committee on Crimes and Criminology; Harry Gershenson, Committee on Illegal Practice of Law by Laymen; John W. Calhoun, Committee on Legal Aid; Harry S. Rooks, Committee on Legal Publications; Charles E. Cullen, Committee on Missouri Annotations to Final Restatement of American Law Institute; Rodney M. Fairfield, Committee on Public Relations; Robert J. Callahan, Roster Committee; Norman Parker, Small Loans Committee; Albert E. Cunliff, Committee on Workmen's Compensation Laws.

CHEMISTS' MEETING TO OPEN TOMORROW

Members of the American Chemical Society began to register today at Hotel Coronado for their eighth biennial Organic Chemistry Symposium, which 450 are expected to attend from tomorrow to Saturday at St. Louis University Auditorium, 3642 Lindell boulevard.

Laboratory men from industries and universities will present their achievements of the last two years for the consideration of colleagues in both research and production. Their work lies in that field of chemistry in which the most revolutionary progress has been made in this country since the World War, both industrially and in medicine, as in recent synthetic drugs and vitamins.

Papers are scheduled to require one hour each. Discussion will be deferred until after each session, when those particularly interested will gather in rooms assigned at the Coronado for each topic.

The address of welcome tomorrow will be delivered by Dr. E. A. Doisy of St. Louis University, who is to speak on vitamin K at a later session, with a response by Dr. Frank C. Whitmore of Pennsylvania State College. Other speakers tomorrow morning will be C. R Addinall of Merck & Co. and Prof. Lee I. Smith of the University of Minnesota, synthesizer of vitamin E.

Arrangements are being made by a general committee including J. H. Gardner of Washington University, L. P. Kyrides of Monsanto Chemical Co. and V. H. Wallingford of Mallinckrodt Chemical Works, with T. R. Ball of Washington University in charge of registration; A. E. Goldstein of Washington University, information; A. E. Huff, Monsanto, hotels; C. N. Jordan, St. Louis University, meeting rooms; R. J. Jenkins, Monsanto, discussion rooms; J. M. Church, Monsanto, social; M. A. Thorpe, Mallinckrodt, press.

Flashes of Life

Shotgun Shell Fire Alarm.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Dec. 27 (AP).—Mrs. Edward Kelly was awakened by sounds of shots. Investigating, she found a fire in a closet. Firemen put it out. Shotgun shells in a coat, set off by the heat, had sounded the alarm—and probably saved the house.

Railroaded Self to Jail.

WILMINGTON, N. C.—Ambition to be a locomotive engineer sent Buster Dingle to jail today for 15 months. He climbed into an engine, opened the throttle and ran three miles down a main line before the steam gave out.

A Pension and a Cell.

OMAHA, Neb.—William T. Mahoney, 68 years old, walked into Central Police Station, said he was cold, was booked on a vagrancy charge and slept in a warm cell. Next morning the Judge dismissed the charge but it was snowing and Mahoney came right back.

"Judge," he said, "could you change that to five days? I've got an old-age pension check coming in five days and if I could stay in jail until then I'd sure be much obliged."

The Judge obliged.

INDUSTRIALIST SAYS OFFICIALS SHOULD END BUSINESS BAITING

H. W. Prentis Jr. of Manufacturers' Association Also Calls for Balanced Budget.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27 (AP).—H. W. Prentis Jr., president-elect of the National Association of Manufacturers, said today in an interview that "governmental business baiters should smoke the pipe of peace with industry. They should bury the tomahawk," he added.

Prentis said that millions of unemployed would soon find jobs if a sympathetic understanding between Government and business were permitted to develop. He said he thought there would be a business gain of from 6 to 10 per cent next year from the average for 1939.

Prentis, president of the Armstrong Cork Co., Lancaster, Pa., also said the Federal budget should be balanced quickly, and suggested decentralization of Government to reduce administrative expenses.

S E C SUES TO ENJOIN ILLINOIS OIL LAND FIRM

Alleges Company Made Misleading Statements in Selling $300,000 of Plots.

CHICAGO, Dec. 27 (AP).—The Securities and Exchange Commission has filed suit in Federal Court in an effort to halt allegedly illegal practices in the sale of small units of land in the Southern Illinois oil fields.

W. McNeil Kennedy, regional administrator for the SEC, filed the suit yesterday against the Great Northern Land Corporation, its president, Carl A. Futter, and four salesmen, John G. Bosse, Charles Killoran, R. M. Roberts and A. A. Schulman.

The suit is to enjoin the company and the individuals from alleged violations of the Federal Securities Act. It alleged the company made misleading statements regarding the equity it maintained in the units of land sold.

Kennedy said about 300 persons in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri had paid approximately $300,000 for parcels of land. He said the company sold one-acre units with a provision that all unit holders in a plot would have equal rights to royalties if oil were found on any unit. He said purchasers were told the company retained certain units of each plot but that actually the company had kept no units.

Bonus for 60 at Bond's Store.

About 60 employes of Bond's Clothing Co., 722 Washington avenue, received Christmas bonuses this week approximating two weeks' salary, the firm's New York office announced today. A total of $375,000 was given to 5442 employes of the company throughout the country.

Flyer Sees Horn-Locked Moose, Gets Help and Saws Them Free

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Dec. 27 (AP).—Pilot Don Glass, flying over the Kuskokwim River wilderness, saw two powerful bull moose fighting with horns locked.

He flew back to the spot two days later with a wild life agent, Jack Benson, and two other men. They heard a sharp crack as the younger bull went limp with a broken neck. They rushed in and hogtied both animals. With a small hand saw, Benson severed the entangled antlers of the victorious moose. Released, it trotted away. The younger bull soon died.

Wild life authorities said it was the first case in which they had heard of men freeing fighting moose. In many instances the victor dies with the vanquished because he cannot free his horns.

MINER'S NECK IS BROKEN BY JERK OF POWER CABLE

Wire Loops Around His Head When Another Worker Starts Machine.

Frank Frye, a coal miner, suffered a broken neck when a power cable attached to a cutting machine looped around his head at the Bundlach Mine, near French Village, yesterday.

Frye, who lives near Belleville, was making an adjustment on the cable when another miner started the machine. The cable caught him and he was knocked down. He also suffered electric shock and was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital in Belleville.

Two other St. Clair County miners were injured in accidents yesterday. Walter Teter of Lensburg suffered a broken left leg when he was struck by falling dirt at a strip mine near Freeburg. Roland Kehrer of Belleville was struck by a mine car, which jumped the track at the Mulberry Hill Coal Co. mine at Freeburg. He received a fractured right leg. Both are in St. Elizabeth's Hospital.

East St. Louis Pair Wed 50 Years.

The fiftieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Turner, 629 Alhambra court, East St. Louis, was observed at a solemn high mass yesterday at St. Patrick's Church there. A reception was given in the evening at the Broadview Hotel. Mr. Turner is 76 years old, his wife, 70.

Sons Contest Father's Will.

Suit contesting the will of Thomas E. Sims Sr., Fairview (Ill.) lineman, who bequeathed his $5000 estate to his sister, Mrs. Rose Etherton, of Belleville, was filed in Circuit Court at Belleville yesterday by his two sons, Milton and Thomas Jr., to whom $1 each was left under the will. They alleged she used undue influence. Sims killed himself last July 10.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT FACE PIMPLES

These disfiguring spots affecting the outer or surface layer of the skin often result from a temporary disturbance, or merely from incorrect cleansing.

You can relieve the itchy, burning soreness and help your skin by using an ointment whose medication stays in active contact with the pimply spots. Apply it every night and leave it on all night. It does a world of good.

For nearly 45 years people have used Resinol Ointment to fill this need. It soothes the irritated oil ducts where many surface pimples start, and aids healing. Carefully cleansing the skin with Resinol Soap helps to quicken the pleasing results. Its gently active lather is refreshing and it rinses easily.

Buy a jar of Resinol Ointment and cake of Resinol Soap from any druggist. For free sample, write Resinol, Dept. 89, Baltimore, Md.

SCOT TELLS OF BRITAIN'S 'NEWSPAPER BLACKOUT'

Visitor Says Ministry of Information Kept All Information From the Public.

The British Ministry of Information in its efforts to protect military secrets in the early days of the war, kept all information from the public and achieved a "newspaper blackout," Mungo Park, Scotch mining expert of Kuala Lumpar, Federated Malay States, said today.

Park, who was in London from the beginning of the war until recently, told of asking a policeman for the location of the Ministry of Information. "That, sir, is a secret," the officer replied.

Mr. and Mrs. Park are visiting Mrs. Park's mother, Mrs. Charles Ette, 4718 Greer avenue, for a week before leaving for the West Coast and the Malay Pennisula.

$92,261 WPA GRANT TO CITY

A Works Progress Administration grant of $92,261 for transcribing records and drawing 6700 city block plats in the city special tax assessment office has been approved by President Roosevelt, it was announced yesterday. The project, costing a total of $104,683, of which the city will furnish $12,422, will employ 98 persons for a year.

The work will include the checking and reconciling of special tax assessment records for the years 1867 to 1938, inclusive. The city's contribution will go for special personnel, equipment and materials.

Stahl Heads Improvement Group.

Eugene J. Stahl has been elected president of the Northwest Improvement Association, succeeding A. C. Johanningmeier. Other officers are: Arthur M. Nagel, vice-president; Al F. Gerritzen, secretary; William C. Vahle, treasurer, and John R. Howdon, sergeant-at-arms.

MISSIONARY GETS PULPIT

He Will Stay Here Until He Can Return to Iraq.

The Rev. Albert G. Edwards, a missionary of the Presbyterian Board, who has been on furlough from his work in Hillah, Iraq, for the past year, has been appointed to temporarily fill the pulpit at McCausland Avenue Presbyterian Church, 1517 McCausland avenue. He will succeed Dr. H. H. Wernecke, professor at Eden Seminary, Jan. 1.

The Rev. Mr. Edwards, the son of Ben F. Edwards, St. Louis banker, has been unable to return to Iraq because of conditions abroad and his appointment here will terminate when he is able to return to his missionary work.

Voice of Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

SEVERAL of the midnight-breakfasters were lounging in Lindy's the other night talking about money and who had it and who didn't and what good it was anyway. Willie Howard recalled the time somebody told Maxie Rosebloom that a famous Hollywood star had dropped dead. "He should worry," shrugged Maxie. "He's got plenty of money!" A few weeks ago Mary Martin, the "My Heart Belongs To Daddy" dream girl, learned that the portrait Fred L. Boyko had painted of her was to be shown in the Carnegie Hall Art Galleries. The minute the portrait was up, she sent this wire to her mother in Weatherford, Tex.: "Dear Mother. Am now hanging in Carnegie Hall, while thousands of people stand around and gape at me. Isn't that nice? Love, Mary."

PHIL SPITALNY, the bandleader, made the boys at the Tavern giggle with this one, which he swears is not about Sam Goldwyn. A Hollywood producer (not S. G.) was talking to his chief scenario writer about the trend toward movies with a historical background, and wondering whether he, too, should make a historical film. Suddenly, in the midst of pros and cons on the subject, the big executive asked: "What do you think of Wally Ford?"

"Why, he's a fine actor," the scenarist, somewhat baffled, replied, "but what has he got to do with historical pictures?"

"Who's talking about Wally Ford, the actor?" demanded the executive. "I'm talking about Wally Ford—the place where George Washington's men went cold and hungry!"

THE COQ ROUGE, one of the more Park Avenue night spots, is starting a series of bicycle luncheons at which lunch is to be served at the club, followed by a bike ride through Central Park and a return to the Coq Rouge for cocktails, games and lucky drawings. The sign which was headed "Bicycle Luncheons" attracted the eyes of two society matrons in the lobby of the place the other afternoon. "Bicycle luncheons!" exclaimed one. "Shall we go?" "Don't be silly," replied the other. "I can't even ride a bicycle—much less eat one!"

BARRY WOOD, the singing star of the "Hit Parade," was sitting around Lindy's trying to make a bet on a forthcoming prizefight. One of the gamblers offered him an absurd price and when Barry protested, tried to prove mathematically that the odds were fair. Finally Barry nodded. "Oh, I know you," he sneered, "you're the Wizard of Odds!" . . . Billy Livingston, the one-time Brenda Frazier beau, told this one at the Rainbow Room the other 2 a. m. It seems a man drifted into the very expensive Monte Carlo, ordered a chicken sandwich, ate it, and called for his bill. The check—for just the chicken sandwich—was $3.75. The customer gave the waiter a five dollar bill. "Keep the change," he said, bitterly. "I stepped on a grape on the way in!"

Don't Take My Word for It

By Frank Colby

RECUPERATE—A verb. To recover; to regain; to restore to health.

Do not say "ree-KOO-per-ate."

Also, do not confuse this word with recoup (ree-KOOP), to reimburse, to regain something once lost. The words are not related at all.

In recuperate the second syllable is exactly like the "kew" of kewpie, not the "koo" sound of coupe.

Correct pronunciation: ree-KEW-per-ate.

QUESTION: Please pronounce the name NINOTCHKA and tell us what it means. H. S.

Answer: Investigation fails to show that the name has a meaning. The pronunciation used by players in the picture of this name was "nin-AHTCH-kuh," the second syllable rhyming with watch.

However, a Russian noblewoman of my acquaintance is authority for the following pronunciation: The "i" in the first syllable has the long "e" sound of unique; the "o" is long as in roach; the final "a" is broad as in ah, bah. Accent the third syllable.

Correct pronunciation: nee-noach-KAH.

Two Recipes For Southern Style Eggnog

By Edith M. Barber

AT this season of the year I am sure to be asked if I have a recipe for a good old Southern eggnog. Yes, I have—at least 25 recipes of undisputed Southern source for this festive beverage, and no two are alike!

Of course, they all call for eggs, cream and spirits of some sort, but the proportions and the methods for combining ingredients are all individual. I have tried a number of them and each is delicious in its own way. Some are so thick that they must be eaten with a spoon and in this case the proportion of eggs to cream is large. More practical, however, for service is the eggnog which is thin enough to drink and yet which has body.

For flavor you may use brandy or whisky or rum, alone or in combination, and the amounts of each is a matter for your own taste. If you are having a party, I advise you not to be too generous with the liquor, as glasses are likely to be refilled a number of times. Don't be stingy, however, as the last syllable of eggnog should be distinctly pronounced, especially on New Years' eve or New Year's day.

EGGNOG.

Six eggs, sugar to taste, one cup or more brandy, one pint milk, one pint cream, nutmeg.

Beat eggs thoroughly. Beat in sugar and stir in brandy. Fold in milk and half the cream. Whip the remaining cream and fold into the egg mixture. Pour into punch bowl and sprinkle with nutmeg. Half the egg whites may be beaten stiff and folded in with the whipped cream.

CHARLESTON EGGNOG.

Ten egg yolks, three-fourths cup granuated sugar, one pint whisky, rye or bourbon, one quart heavy cream, 10 egg whites.

Beat egg yolks, stir in sugar and beat well. Add whisky slowly, stirring constantly, then the cream (not whipped) and then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites.

A Graceful Carriage

By Patricia Lindsay

HAVE you ever sat in the waiting room of a large railroad terminal and tried to guess the ages of the women who passed by you? Quite naturally those who bent over or sluffed along, or threw their hips as they walked, or bobbed up and down like a bunny hop, were considered older than those who walked with ease in good posture. I know a woman who is almost 70 but looks about 50, because her walk is graceful, poised, timed and smooth. Every inch of her has dignity and beauty.

There is no denying that beauty lies in a graceful carriage, supple, erect shoulders and a proudly held head. If you walk young, you look young and you are young! Poor posture adds years to your appearance, and walking in poor posture destroys every bit of personal attractiveness you might have.

Like a beautiful voice, a smooth walk is a primary beauty asset. Bette Davis, for instance, though not tall, gives the appearance of dignified height because she walks forcefully and smoothly. She assumes dramatic stature.

The girl who bounces along, ambles or slouches forward is telling all who see her that she is indifferent to the essentials of charm and personal magnetism.

AT ALL TIMES walk as if you were carrying a basket of eggs on your head. A jerk would cause one to fall down and smash on the pavement. Walk with swinging movement from the hips, keeping your knees flexible but not too bent. Place the entire foot on the floor lightly and rise up on the toes as you take the next step. Walk around the room in stocking feet and be conscious of rising on the ball of each foot as you put one before the other. If you do not rise you walk flat-footed and that destroys your balance and your figure beauty. So many women walk as if their feet were carved from wood without a bone or muscle.

As you step around the room in stocking feet pretend you are modeling a gorgeous hostess gown in front of an admiring audience of very eligible males! That will make you walk with grace and keep your bosom high!

A HIGH, FIRM bosom is achieved through good posture (holding your shoulders back but not tense) and through exercise. Deep breathing also helps. One fine and simple exercise is to press your finger tips forcefully together while elbows are held shoulder high.

For grace in walking, practice swinging one leg at a time (pendulum fashion) from the hips. Swing high in front and high in back. Repeat with other leg. You may hold onto the back of a chair for support.

"She walks with beguiling dignity, a charm which never fails to attract," may be said and written of you—if you learn to walk young.

New Drug Used In Treatment Of Pneumonia

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

AS in former years, the greatest amount of research and the greatest amount of progress in the whole field of medicine in 1939 has been in infectious diseases, and the most hopeful work has been done this year in the treatment of pneumonia. This is due to the application of the drug, sulfapyridine.

Sulfapyridine is a dye. For many years it has been known that dyes of various kinds are selective in their action in that they will kill germs in the blood stream without injuring the blood or the tissues. This is the basis of the "magic bullet" of Ehrlich—salvarsan, which has an affinity for the spirochaeta of syphilis but does not harm the tissues of the body and, therefore, by its administration we are able to get rid of the germ and leave the body intact. It is a kind of chemical surgery. Dyes which have been used along the same lines include mercurochrome and gentian violet. None of them, however, has the advantages of sulfapyridine.

In the first place, sulfapyridine can be given by mouth, whereas mercurochrome has to be given by vein. It kills an enormous range of germs. It has been used successfully in pneumonia, meningitis, scarlet fever, mumps, kidney infection, bacterial endocarditis, iritis, congenital blindness, and, indeed, is being applied to practically any general infection.

I HAVE NOT seen any report of its application to localized infections such as carbuncles or boils, or osteomyelitis, but I suggest this as a possible development.

With the use of sulfapyridine, the fall of temperature to normal within 24 to 36 hours occurs in a large proportion of pneumonia cases. A fall in temperature is accompanied by improvement in the patient's general condition, and after that the consolidation in the lung clears up gradually.

It has some disagreeable by-effects because it produces nausea and vomiting in about two-thirds of the cases, and occasionally a skin eruption, but these are not serious. All powerful drugs have some disagreeable by-effects.

The Nobel prize goes to Prof. Gerhard Dogmark for his invention and discovery of sulfapyridine. He was born in Lagow, Germany, in 1895. He was professor of pathology at the University of Greifswald, after which he associated himself with the Institute of Experimental Pathology of the I. G. Dye Works in Elberfeld.

PROGRESS IN other contagious diseases includes the following:

Control of scarlet fever by active immunization with the toxine. This has been proved repeatedly by the immunization of pupil nurses before they go on duty in scarlet fever wards.

Severe epidemics of diphtheria have occurred in Europe, England and South America, of the malignant type. Where antitoxin was available, it was found that it controlled the malignant type as well as it did the ordinary type.

In whooping cough, the use of the pertussis vaccine has been very much more successful in the past two or three years. Up to 1931 it showed little improvement, but since then it has been very valuable.

No progress has been made in infantile paralysis.

Hatred -:- By Elsie Robinson

HATE used to disturb me terribly. Like all lively, reckless people, I unconsciously made myself a target for it by continually disturbing my neighbor's comfortable status quo. As a consequence, somebody was usually gunning for me; which, after all my snooty talk, I should have taken philosophically.

But I couldn't! I could be sufficiently calm in the face of almost any other trouble, but I couldn't be calm in the face of hate. It did something to me. Something tangible. It not only messed up my mind and spirit, but it gave me the jitters, physically—as some vicious, slow poison would have done.

Part of the disturbance, of course, was caused by my own anger. Hate made me furiously angry. The injustice of it! If I'd tried to hurt anyone, it would have been my just due. But to hate me merely because I was what I was—to hate just because the hater liked to hate—I couldn't understand it; I couldn't bear it.

ELSIE ROBINSON

HATE GOT my goat. Gave me, literally, the blind staggers. How many days, months, years have I wasted—I wonder!—shadow-boxing hate. Plenty of them. And then, gradually, I began to make a tremendous discovery. I began to discover that I needn't be helpless before hate. I had been blaming hate for the demoralization of my life. I had been thinking of hate as a hideous power. But hate wasn't a power. Hate had no power—unless I gave it power. Hate couldn't do anything to me—unless I let it.

What was hate? Why was hate? It was the gesture of an angry, frightened spirit—a spirit that wanted to strike and hurt because it was angry and frightened. What had made it angry and frightened? Sometimes I had, by my own carelessness or selfishness. And when hate was my fault, it was up to me to face and fix that fault.

But oftener hate came from the other fellow's own weakness—some bitterness or envy or confusion in himself. In either case, whether I caused the hate, or whether it was the other fellow's own stewing, Hate, itself, was only a gesture. And that gesture couldn't hurt me unless I let it.

Hate no longer demoralizes and demolishes me as it did once. Being human, I still get hot under the collar and have my mean moments of longing for revenge.

But I've learned how silly such moments are. My own anger is the only harm that hate can do me.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM 19 years old and have very few dates. I dance nicely and am fairly attractive. Both my older brother and sister are popular and go out a lot. Lately the family has been making good-natured cracks about me being an old maid. When out on a date I act natural, and most of the fellows tell me I am sweet, but they never ask for another date. I don't believe I have much personality. I am sick of being told I'm sweet, for it hasn't got me anywhere. BETTYE MAE.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

It may be you are naturally the quiet type, and all members of the family can't be alike. It is not kind of the family to poke fun at you, for it only makes you more self-conscious. What you need, of course, is to forget how popular your sister and brother are, and learn to be popular in your own way. Perhaps you think too much about yourself and not enough about other people. Learn to be a good listener, keep abreast of current events, current movies, all the new books, as well as the hobbies of the boys you date. Train yourself to talk interestingly about all these topics. My pamphlet on popularity may also give a few hints. You may have it by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A WOMAN 40 years old, have lived in St. Louis five years and am familiar with all the shopping districts and have personal acquaintance with many buyers and sales people. I was reared in a town of 9000, and had a wide acquaintance. Ever since I have come to St. Louis these people write me to do various errands and shopping for them, and I have always complied willingly. This sort of thing has grown so that I am swamped, and the time and carfare alone are large items. I have been advised to charge for my services and been told there is a kind of service rendered called "Shopping Service." I am sure I could build up a good clientele but have no idea what to charge for such a service. Can you help me?

SHOPPING LADY.

I believe such a service is charged for at a certain amount per hour, varying, perhaps, with the nature of the personal service requested. There are several such services here in town. Why not phone one or all of them, and get a line on their charges and the character of their services?

Dear Martha Carr:

I WOULD LIKE to know if among your readers you know of some sensible young girl who realizes that just because a fellow works he hasn't a mint of money to spend? I have gone with girls and have bought them lovely, reasonably expensive gifts at the right times, but because I don't continue the gift-giving, we split up. I have a good job doing skilled labor, am average looking, enjoy sports. I am so tired of meeting this same type of girl. I would like to meet just one who speaks my language G. D.

Since I am not running a matrimonial agency I fear you will have to meet the girl you desire through some other channel. But all girls aren't gold diggers, and many there are who would appreciate the company of a young man of your tastes and temperament. Get in with a different crowd through your neighborhood, your church, or men friends on the job, and you will find some girl suited to your taste before long, I am sure.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A SOPHOMORE in high school, age 15. I go with a nice set of friends, but whenever I get up in class to give a report or even when I say anything, the girls begin to titter. Just two or three of them, but once they get really started the rest join in. What should I say to them about it, or do about it? They ruin my fun wherever I go, if they happen to be along.

BEFUDDLED.

These girls either have very bad manners, or they are at the giggly age when they will burst into laughter for no reason whatsoever, though they seem rather old for this sort of levity. Ignore them and don't let them see it embarrasses you. If it becomes too annoying to endure, at least start going with another crowd than theirs outside of school hours.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

DO YOU THINK a plaid jacket will be all right to wear with a navy blue dress at this time of year? FATTIE.

If the plaid jacket is becoming to you it will be all right to wear. Of course, if the weather is very cold you may have to wear a coat as well.

MARGARETTA BYERS SAYS—

FLAT chests need flattery! At the left you see at least three bad mistakes. First, the "v" neck. Second, a row of buttons down the front emphasize contours or lack of them. Third, a shirt blousing at the waist does this figure no good at all.

Now look at the righthand sketch. The fullness is where you want it. And it's held there securely by the high, snug girdle. The criss-crossing motif seems to widen the bust. Also it covers prominent neckbones. Finally, the contrast of dark girdle and lighter bodice slims the waist and accents the bosom. There are, of course, infinite variations on this theme. The main point is to locate the fullness firmly where it will do the most good.

HOLLYWOOD GOES to the POLLS

FRANK CAPRA — HONORED FOR HIS DIRECTION.

BETTE DAVIS—CHOSEN BEST ACTRESS FOR SECOND STRAIGHT YEAR.

By Harold Heffernan

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 27.

HAIL the victors of 1939! Our second annual "stars turn critics" survey has been completed and the winners established.

Just as they did one year ago, when the idea of the actors' own survey was inaugurated, 100 Hollywood stars, featured and small part players—picked at random from the contract lists of five major studios—went to the polls this week and cast their votes for the outstanding production achievements of the year.

When the smoke of close and lively competition cleared and the results were confirmed by Cecil B. de Mille, James Roosevelt and Winfield R. Sheehan, a trio of industry leaders who acted as judges, the following results in the principal divisions were flung up on the scoreboard:

Best motion picture of 1939: "Goodbye, Mr. Chips."

These are the 1939 "bests" of all pictures released in Hollywood between Dec. 10, 1938, and Dec. 10, 1939—as seen by the boys and girls who act in Hollywood motion pictures. You must remember, the movie actors are great movie fans. They don't merely act in pictures; they go to see scores of other pictures in which their colleagues appear. So they're all pretty well equipped to vote on who's who and what's what in the film business.

To each of the random-picked voters was given a printed ballot containing space for selection of the actor's choices for 10 best pictures of the year, for best performance by an actor, for best performance by an actress and for best achievement in directing.

Two added questions resulted in an interesting symposium. One asked, "Do you favor double features?" and the other, "Do you prefer color or black and white photography?"

The 10 best motion pictures of the year, as tabulated from the number of times each was mentioned on the actors' ballots, developed the most spirited competition of the survey. The breath-taking finish found "Goodbye, Mr. Chips" leading "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" by the hair-line margin of exactly one vote! The British-made "Pygmalion," in third place, was 13 markers behind "Mr. Smith."

Ten Best Pictures Selected by Actors

The ten best pictures of the year, as decreed by the actors, together with the number of votes each received, follow:

1. Goodbye, Mr. Chips (78).
2. Mr. Smith Goes to Washington (77).
3. Pygmalion (64).
4. Wuthering Heights (44).
5. Ninotchka (43).
6-7. Dark Victory (42).
6-7. Love Affair (42).
8. Babes in Arms (37).
9. Stagecoach (34).
10. Bachelor Mother (29).

Competition in the best actor and best actress departments was not nearly so close. As in 1938, Bette Davis made a runaway race of the feminine division, scoring 37 points, to 12 for Greta Garbo (Ninotchka), her nearest competitor. Wendy Hiller, memorable heroine of "Pygmalion," wasn't overlooked, even though that picture was released 11 months ago. She was only a point behind Garbo for third place.

Bette had three pictures in the race—"Dark Victory," "The Old Maid" and "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex"—and her followers scattered their ballots among all three, an unusual tribute which shows the actors think Bette is pretty good in everything she does. Her "Dark Victory" got the most votes, however.

Donat's victory over James Stewart provoked some surprise. Everyone had looked for a stretch run in the "best actor" division, but the Englishman defeated Jimmy handily for first place, by a vote of 42 to 21—or a 2 to 1 ratio. Henry Fonda's "Young Mr. Lincoln" was liked by five balloters—and that gave Omaha's pride third position. Oddly (but that's Hollywood for you), last year's poll winner, Spencer Tracy, received only four votes for his single performance in "Stanley and Livingstone." Which seems to prove the old filmtown axiom: You're only as good as your last picture.

AMONG the directors, Capra and his "Mr. Smith" led a widely-scattered field by a comfortable margin. By drawing 20 votes against 11 for his closest contender, Edmund Goulding, ("Dark Victory"), Capra was able to repeat his 1938 triumph. John Ford ("Stagecoach") and Sam Wood ("Mr. Chips") were tied for third place, with 10 each.

Getting down to the two little side issues stuck on the 1939 ballot, it was registered in no uncertain terms that the artists of Hollywood are vigorously opposed to the double feature nuisance in theaters. Even though elimination of bargain bills would throw thousands of their fellow actors out of work, they whacked down the duals by a count of 72 to 17. Significantly, only the stars and featured players who appear steadily in "B" pictures cast votes in favor of double bills. For instance, Jed Prouty, father of the famous Jones family series, inscribed a large "yes" on his ballot, and added—"or where would we Joneses be?"

Some stars preferred color, many others did not. The vote in favor of tinted pictures—43 to 29—was much closer than you'd expect, because Hollywood is a place where they love to gild the lily. But, surprisingly, 11 stars who have recently appeared in colored pictures either expressed themselves as favoring black and white or only sparing use of color.

Now, then, who is 1939's champion critic among the Hollywood stars? The judges decided to settle that little matter by checking back through the returns and singling out the player's ballot that came closest to matching the final results on all questions. This was done. The winner was Jeffrey Lynn.

Counting a point for each of the 10 pictures finally named and one point for each of the five added questions, Lynn came through with the astonishing total of 13 out of a possible 15 points—the champion star critic of Hollywood.

The voters in this year's poll were:

The Way to Freedom

By Angelo Patri

THERE is a way to freedom for every human soul. Nothing is easier than the belief in bondage, persecution, injustice — the pressure of evil upon one's life. Something goes wrong; a hope vanishes; faith is betrayed; sorrow comes, and the faint heart sighs, "Who am I to fight against fate?"

He is the same "I" as moves Valiant of Heart to rise after each fall, to press on after each repulse, to fight against all odds and win. Each soul has its own battle to fight to gain its freedom, and there will be no sameness in them. What is the same is the fact of the battle to be won and the power of the warrior. Both are assured. The old proverb says it neatly: "God prepares the back for the burden."

It is best to teach every child that his life is in his hands and his strength is within himself. Teach him that he must do the thing he fears to do or it will conquer him. And this he must do day by day, for even one day's progress lost is a great loss.

Mean what you say. Believe it. Act on it. That means when young son whines and says, "You come with me; I don't want to ask him," that you say, "This is your job. I've gone as far as I can with you. You must do now for yourself," and give him a gentle push and a hearty, "Good luck to you."

It means, too, that when you have to share with a child what you both need that you actually share and do not give him your share to spare him a feeling of want. It is harder to do that than it is to make the generous gesture and let him have it all without a word about the need or the lack. But his spiritual understanding needs to be built on experiences like this, and by keeping them from him you cheat him. If you teach him to take without regard to what he gives you can do him no greater disservice.

It means, too, that when you see him striving and struggling to achieve some purpose of his own that you do not insist upon helping him. You do not give him money that he has set out to earn; you do not do work he started to accomplish; you do not relieve him of a duty because it has grown irksome to him. You let him find his way.

This is easier to say than for parents to do. It is hard to listen to a complaining child, harder still to see one grieving, without going to his aid. It is heart-wracking to see a child longing for something when you, by making a sacrifice, could get it for him, but the greater good for the child is in your withholding, just as the greater sacrifice of yourself lies there. Give him comfort, encouragement; help ease his way, but don't take over his task of developing his own soul.

Some children are gravely handicapped, but even those are to be encouraged to keep trying to help themselves. Never is a child to be encouraged to a feeling of martyrdom, of persecution and hard luck. Point out that every child born into this world brings his power with him. His strength lies within him. Help him to discover it, but don't rob him of it by taking over his burden. You cannot do that, no matter how you try, and you only weaken him by attempting it. There always is a way out, for the person who seeks it, but his search must be his own.

SAYING IT WITH FLOWERS

FLOWERS are articles with which things are said. The saying begins when you say to yourself you want to pay an attention to dear Mrs. Jones, who has been so kind to you and your family, giving you lifts in her automobile or lending you a quart of milk and a loaf of bread in an emergency.

So you ask yourself if you can afford to send Mrs. Jones flowers, and conclude that you can't. And you try to think up some other gift, but nothing seems quite as suitable and satisfactory for saying what you want to say.

Then you say to yourself that nowadays people no longer bother about what they can afford, which is an old-fashioned idea, but get what they want; and therefore you will send the flowers to Mrs. Jones. So you say to the florist that you want some flowers and the florist says that he can supply them. And off the flowers go to say their say to Mrs. Jones.

When the flowers have said their say to Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Jones says to herself that she has not given half enough lifts or lent half enough quarts of milk or loaves of bread to deserve them and that, really, she is not worthy of such beautiful flowers. No. She will wrap them up and rush them off to say things to Mrs. Brown, who has been so nice to her.

Then Mrs. Jones says to you that you should never have sent her such lovely flowers and that it was wicked of you to do so and you say it was a pleasure and the flowers go on their way from house to house saying things to numbers of people until they are too wilted to say anything more.

A STUDENT'S GRATITUDE

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

A VERY kind, philanthropic gentleman is educating me; that is, he is paying for my four-years' tuition at college. What are my obligations to him? He and his wife have educated many young people, but as I don't know any of them, I can't ask what they have done to show proper appreciation. Certainly I feel grateful, but I don't want to overstep my rights, and I don't want, on the other hand, to seem lacking in decent gratitude.

Answer: Your chief obligation is to "make good." In addition to this, you should send him anything from time to time that would be evidence of your progress toward that goal. For example, if you appear in a concert or give a recital, send him the program, and if any comment about your work appears in the college newspaper, send him this clipping. Write him briefly, if you have any news to give him, but not otherwise. It is not expected that you go to see him unless he asks you to.

Dear Mrs. Post: (a) Are finger bowls served at breakfast, and when? (b) Also, will you tell me which is correct: the maid to leave the glass on the table while pouring water, or to lift it up off the table?

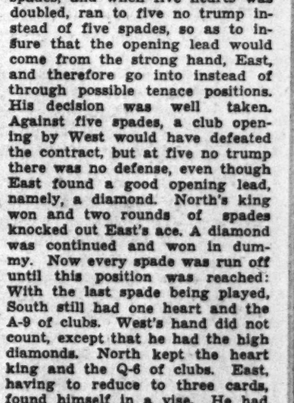
Answer: (a) Unless fruit is to be eaten in the fingers, finger bowls are not supplied at breakfast. (b) To leave it on the table.

Suspicion Gets Bridge Player Into Trouble

By Ely Culbertson

A CERTAIN amount of suspicion regarding the opponents' bidding is a healthy trait, but, like every other good thing, can be overdone. It is just as fatal to acquire the fixed idea that the opponents are "psyching" as it is to believe unequivocally that every bid they make is sound. The mere possession of several honor tricks at a time when the opponents' bidding purports to announce almost all the honor tricks, is no proof that they are "fibbing"; it must be remembered that strong distributional values may have actuated and justified their bids. East, in today's hand, permitted his suspicions to run away with him.

South, dealer.
Match-point duplicate.
North-South vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
2 spades	Pass	3 no trump	Double
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Double
Redouble	5 diamonds	5 hearts	Double
5 no tr'p	Pass	Pass	Double
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

East was not only quite shocked, but highly incredulous when he heard South open with a two bid and North respond with a jump takeout in no trump. East took another look at his own three honor tricks and two jacks and summarily decided that such bidding could not be on the level, that either North or South must be "getting funny." East expressed this belief in no uncertain terms by doubling the three no trump bid. Obviously, North-South could have rolled up a terrific score by redoubling this contract and making a couple of overtricks, but South was afraid that East had a solid heart suit, hence decided to play safe by bidding four spades. South fully realized that his own opening two bid had been highly unorthodox, based as it was on tricks. He had justified the bid to himself on the basis that his hand was a terrific freak, but now, with no assurance of a heart stopper, preferred to play safe. For some reason or other, South's action in running from the double confirmed East's suspicion and now he proceeded to double every bid that the opponents made. West attempted to set East on the right track by running from the four spade redouble, but East had the bit in his teeth and would not take warning.

After North mentioned the heart suit, South took a different view of the hand. Now he felt that no trump would be just as good as spades, and when five hearts was doubled, ran to five no trump instead of five spades, so as to insure that the opening lead would come from the strong hand, East, and therefore go into instead of through possible tenace positions. His decision was well taken. Against five spades, a club opening by West would have defeated the contract, but at five no trump there was no defense, even though East found a good opening lead, namely, a diamond. North's king won and two rounds of spades knocked out East's ace. A diamond was continued and won in dummy. Now every spade was run off until this position was reached: With the last spade being played, South still had one heart and the A-9 of clubs. West's hand did not count, except that he had the high diamonds. North kept the heart king and the Q-6 of clubs. East, having to reduce to three cards, found himself in a vise. He had to hold the heart ace and the K-J of clubs, hence could not keep a diamond. Now declarer nonchalantly led the singleton heart to his own singleton king. East won, but had to return a club from the K-J to the combined tenace in the North-South hands.

If East had gauged his opponents' bidding more shrewdly, and had maintained a discreet silence, it is very possible that North-South would have reached a slam and then East would have had a real opportunity to double.

THE GORGON'S MASK

by VAN WYCK MASON

CHAPTER TWO.

YOUNG Lieut. Clark's deep voice broke in on the conversation, saying: "Don't be afraid, Miss Renoire. Honest, we'll be down in a minute. A man in his right senses can't stay away from you."

"An idiot!" grunted Baron von Rentner, fixing the speaker with a baleful stare. "In my country's army such remarks would not be made in mix-ed company."

Polk aroused himself from a low-pitched conversation with a slender, always smiling Japanese who had sat at his left during dinner. Nevins heard him say distinctly:

"Well, Mr. Kanamura, I'm afraid you're too pessimistic. I'm quite sure there will be no war." A special emphasis lay heavily on that last sentence.

Von Rentner and the Japanese both looked up so quickly that they attracted the calm scrutiny of the sportsman's restless gray-blue eyes.

"What makes you so sure, mein freund?" Baron von Rentner demanded with a heavy geniality belying the sudden flush that rose above his stiff white collar.

Abner Polk looked grimly away. "We in the iron and steel business have ways of knowing. Besides, I think the peoples of the world are at last getting fed up with war."

Apparently the word "war" was a torch to a hitherto sealed verbal magazine, for the girl whom all Honolulu knew as the fabulously wealthy Abner Polk's favorite halted in the doorway, and with her also stopped a tawny young woman, and a vivacious maiden of uncertain age.

"Oh," gushed the latter, "I've been dying to talk of it all night." And she led the almost eager return of the ladies to the silver-and-crystal-littered table, where the napkins lay like tiny collapsed tents at each place.

Only Phedre Renoire's dark eyes stared uneasily about. Then she paused just beyond the sportsman's chair and said a little breathlessly to the Japanese, "Oh, I am sure it is simply hysteria, this war talk. Don't you think so, too, Mr. Kanamura?"

Evidently Mr. Kanamura was a little disconcerted by the directness of this query, for he blinked two or three times behind his gold-rimmed spectacles before he said: "I am sure the affair will be amicably settled. Is that not so, Mr. Nevins?"

"Please say it is just ugly talk," Phedre Renoire pleaded, while her large black eyes seemed to find strong elements of interest in Nevins.

"Why," demanded the big game hunter plaintiveiy, "do rows like this always have to happen when I want a bit of sport? I come all the way out to Hawaii to enjoy some deep sea fishing and, just because of it, Japan and America start calling each other names."

"You have not answered me," Phedre Renoire pointed out. "I really must insist on it, in spite of your delightful evasion."

"Look here, Mademoiselle Renoire," protested the Coast Artillery officer, "let's not get that started again. You know how strongly we all feel about it—the murder of American citizens—"

"Murder?" From across the table where a silver bowl of hibiscus glowed like living fire, the Japanese had straightened a little, and though his thin lips were still drawn into a smile, the look he bent on the white-clad artillery officer was a sort that prompted Nevins to pour water on fast-kindling sparks.

Catherine Lloyd, the lithe American girl who had sat facing the host, refused to take the hint.

'No," she cried. "I was at Joyce Carmen's this morning and I heard all kinds of talk about what would happen when the Jap fleet arrives."

"Mercy!" Miss Sutherland, the Englishwoman, clasped bony hands in elaborate alarm. "What did they say?"

"They say that the Japs have secret orders"—she cast a challenging look at Kanamura—"to shell Honolulu! And if—"

QUITE abruptly the speaker fell silent; the company became rigid at the sound of a scream outside. It was unmistakably the cry of some human in extreme terror or fearful pain.

"Du lieber Gott!" cried Von Rentner hoarsely and thrust his blunt head far out of the window.

"Why—why, what was that?" stammered Catherine Lloyd.

"It was maybe a sea bird?" suggested Kanamura with a sudden uneasiness that made his eyes waver behind their golden spectacles. "What do you think, Mr. Nevins? You are familiar with wild life, no?"

"It might have been," Nevins said briefly. His eyes wandered over the startled faces of the company until they came to rest upon the normally facile features of Phedre Renoire. Now they were quite stiff and pale.

"Mais oui—it must have been a bird," she murmured quickly. "I see no boat out there."

"There must be a boat," insisted the owner of Kalua, who had also become strangely subdued. "And it didn't sound like any bird I ever heard."

"That's probably it," Abner Polk hurriedly agreed and turned to select a cigar from an elaborate mahogany humidor.

The reaction of the various guests to this second shock were characteristic. Kanamura drew in his breath with a little hissing sound.

"They've done it," cried Lieut. Clark excitedly. "Do you see? They've killed more Americans! That'll mean war!"

"By heavens, Von Rentner, this is outrageous," stormed Abner Polk. "I told you—I"——

"Herr Polk!" The Prussian stiffened and his mouth set itself in a hard cruel line.

"Doubtlessly," broke in the Japanese calmly, "the newspapers in my country are saying things equally ridiculous."

"Wilson! Desperately Catherine Lloyd caught at Lieut. Clark's white-clad arm. "Please remember"——

The Coast Artillery officer turned a flushed face. "But did you hear what he said?" he growled. "Such news is not ridiculous!"

SYNOPSIS

As war clouds thicken over Tientsin and other scenes of international friction in China, Howard Nevins, ostensibly an American big game hunter, reaches Honolulu. Within the hour of his arrival, he receives a mysterious 'phone warning, a woman's voice urging that he return to the States at once. Annoyed but undaunted, Nevins attends a dinner tendered by wealthy Abner Polk. Prominent among the guests is Baron von Rentner, a reputed German industrialist. Alluring Phedre Renoire as hostess is the subject of considerable sotto voce discussion. Dinner over, the gentlemen are about to join the ladies . . .

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

Thursday, December 28.

LET us recognize yesterday's problems for what they were: yesterday's—and not drag them unnecessarily into today. In some ways, today is a new start in big and good things, so let's not waste our blessings in vain backward glances.

Pain.

When we break the laws of physical health we know it through pain in the physical body. If we are wise we act to correct the condition permanently wherever possible. Sad to say, some of us are not wise—those of us who take something to mask the pain and then go on breaking the law until the pain cannot be cured anywhere near so easily as at first. Pain is a great teacher, if we heed its message.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead can mean no more resentment of your past, if you will admit, adjust and see clearly, clean slate from mid-April on. Come out of your shell this year. More pleasure, romance, personal harmony. Danger: Jan. 10-21; and May 18-June 6, 1940.

Friday.

Not to ofast in making haste; digest the lessons of the past.

Coffee Cake

Two and one-half cups flour, two heaping teaspoons baking powder, one cup sugar, two tablespoons lard. Blend together like pie crust. When well mixed add sweet milk until the consistency for spreading out in a pie pan. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon, and dot with butter and raisins. Cook in a fairly hot oven until nicely browned.

APPLE PUDDING.

Two cups flour, one cup milk, one-half cup sugar, one egg, two scant teaspoons baking powder, butter size of an egg. Beat egg separately. Mix ingredients, adding white last and pour batter over cut pieces of apples or other fruit. Bake for about an hour in a moderate oven. Serve hot with hard sauce.

My Neighbor Says:

The "runners" that grow on ferns and primroses may be separated and planted in pots. From each of these runners a new plant will grow.

Cut half-inch slices of bread into cubes, arrange the cubes in a shallow pan and brown them well, stirring several times with a fork. Then add a tablespoon of butter and an eighth of a teaspoon each of salt, paprika and celery salt for each cup of croutons and heat five minutes in a slow oven.

To keep mashed potatoes hot, place them in a tightly covered kettle set in a pan of hot water over a low heat.

Try fried apples and link sausages at your next bridge foursome. Add scrambled eggs or an omelet, plenty of hot coffee and hot buttered toast.

COUGHING COLDS

3 Out of 5 Mothers Use This Home-Proved Treatment

You are right to worry when a cold strikes your family. You should take steps, at once, to relieve the misery and suffering. But you want to be sure that what you do is really helpful. You don't want to take needless risks.

Now here is what most mothers do. They use Vicks VapoRub. Since 1895 Vicks and their doctors have studied ways to treat the distressing symptoms of colds. Today three out of five mothers are benefiting by this forty-four-year-study of colds when they use VapoRub and let its amazing poultice-vapor action go to work. PROFIT BY THEIR EXPERIENCE. Do this. If it's a coughing cold, melt a spoonful of VapoRub in a pan of boiling water, and breathe in the soothing, medicated vapors. Then massage Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back and go to bed.

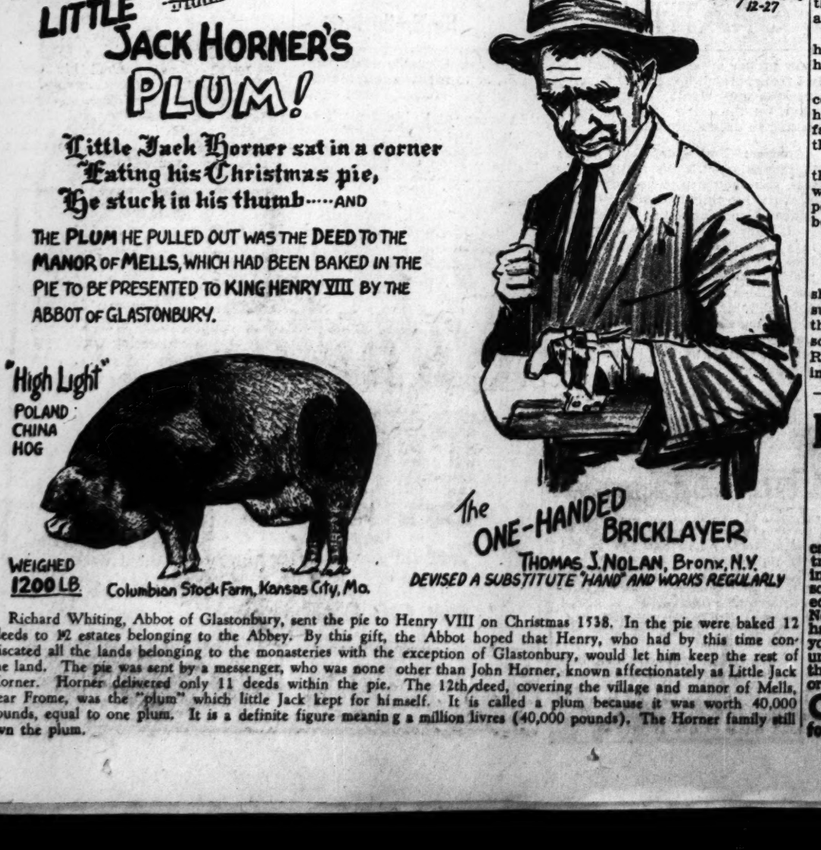
BELIEVE IT OR NOT By Ripley



Richard Whiting, Abbot of Glastonbury, sent the pie to Henry VIII on Christmas 1538. In the pie were baked 12 deeds to 12 estates belonging to the Abbey. By this gift, the Abbot hoped that Henry, who had by this time confiscated all the lands belonging to the monasteries with the exception of Glastonbury, would let him keep the rest of the land. The pie was sent by a messenger, who was none other than John Horner, known affectionately as Little Jack Horner. Horner delivered only 11 deeds within the pie. The 12th deed, covering the village and manor of Mells, near Frome, was the "plum" which little Jack kept for himself. It is called a plum because it was worth 40,000 pounds, equal to one plum. It is a definite figure meaning a million livres (40,000 pounds). The Horner family still own the plum.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

"To Hear the Grass Grow."

There was a time—and some say great is the pity that it's gone—when "he's so clever he can hear the grass grow," was a fairly common characterization of the so-called Smart Aleck.

Alas that the line has suffered disuse; for it is the type of picturesque language of the people that deserves to live, to live lustily in fact, and so perpetuate the story of the circumstances in which it was born.

The superstitious seventeenth century was a happy hunting era for quacks and impostors of all descriptions—notably an old Dutchman named Hans Van Suyl, who had grown rich through the various pretensions with which he had duped the populace.

Finally he over-reached himself. Van Suyl promised, for the inevitably accompanying consideration of course, to cure deafness, to heighten the human auditory apparatus to such a pitch, indeed, that the hardest of hearing would be able to hear the grass grow.

The day Van Suyl got this idea, he should have stayed in bed till he got over it.

Too much for even seventeenth century credulity, it focused upon him the flashlight of suspicion, his fakeries were exposed and he was thrown into prison.

And for a long time afterward, the phrase "hear the grass grow" was used to describe talent or power so superlative that it was unbelievable—like Van Suyl's promise.

Washing Dress Shields

The best way to wash dress shields is to wet them in lukewarm suds and then place them flat on the side of the bathroom bowl and scrub well with the nail brush. Rinse in lukewarm water and dry in a shady, airy place.

Steamed Cherry Pudding
(Suitable for holidays, too.)

Two cups flour.
Four teaspoons baking powder.
One-half cup graulated sugar.
One-half teaspoon nutmeg.
One-half teaspoon salt.
One cup milk.
One and one-half cups seeded red cherries, drained.
One-fourth teaspoon grated lemon rind.
Three tablespoons fat, melted.

Mix all the ingredients. Half fill greased molds. Cover tightly and let steam one and one-half hours. Serve hot with cherry fruit sauce.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to loosen germ laden phlegm, increase secretion and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding that you are to like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

To Relieve Bad Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

Swift Acting, and Saves Big Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can relieve coughs due to colds, when you try this splendid recipe. It gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money, and you'll find it truly wonderful, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's no trouble at all. Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle. Add your syrup and you have a full pint of medicine that will amaze you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This simple mixture takes right hold of a cough. For real results, you've never seen anything better. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action in coughs and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Jellied Fruit Sponge

Two packages lemon-flavored gelatin.
Two cups boiling water.
One cup grape juice.
One-fourth cup orange juice.
Three tablespoons lemon juice.
One cup seeded grapes.
One cup diced pineapple.
One-half cup sliced almonds.
One-half cup chopped dates.
Two cups whipped cream.
One-fourth cup chopped candied orange peel.

Dissolve the gelatin in the water. Add the fruit juices. Cool and let thicken slightly. Add the fruits, almonds and dates. Chill until thicker and fold in the cream. Pour into a mold which has been sprinkled with the orange peel. Chill until serving time. Unmold and pass additional whipped cream or vanilla ice cream or apricot sherbet.

A Little Variety

Don't serve the left-over turkey every night straight ahead until it is gone. In these days of fine refrigeration that is not necessary. Have a dinner of chops or steak in between the turkey meals and see if the family does not enjoy it until the end rather than ask if that bird is still here.

Protection When Painting

A piece of tin or cardboard several inches wide and about a foot long is convenient for the painter who is covering woodwork or window frames. When the shield is held snugly against the background there will be no brush marks showing on the glass or wall paper.

FRISBY FINDS WOOD DELICIOUS

Note—A few days ago H. E. DeEdme Frisby startled the world with his announcement that, after studying the dietary habits of termites, he is convinced that humans can live on cellulose, or wood, and that he will soon establish Frisby Health Centers & Food Marts at convenient locations. Today Mr. Frisby explains further aspects of his revolutionary theories.

By H. W. DeEDME FRISBY
Dietary Siesmographician

ONE of the first things I noted, in studying the termite and his diet, was the fact that this amazing little creature avoids starches, carbohydrates and sweets, but masticates the wood so thoroughly that he seldom if ever suffers indigestion. Furthermore, he eats in the dark. Putting two and two together, I therefore conducted an important experiment. I bought a box of cold storage strawberries, tossed the fruit into the garbage, and ate the box. It was delicious—and had all the delicacy of the thin, dainty wafers served in faraway Norway, land of the midnight sun. However, I took great care (1) to masticate thoroughly and (2) eat in the dark. I then waited a reasonable time to see whether I suffered any alimentary disturbance.

I am happy to report that the experiment was in every way a success. And I am convinced that the strawberry box is destined to be a dietary special which will prove a popular item, indeed, when placed on sale at the Frisby Health Centers and Food Marts. These S. B. wafers, guaranteed rich in cellulose, can be buttered, and are very tasty with coffee. They cannot be beat for sandwich or appetizer.
